Holiday Shopping Up 5 Percent As Hub Reaffirms Strong Leadership

While returns are not complete early indications are that Boston retail stores showed a gain of at least 5 percent in the 1964 pre-Christmas shopping period over a similar period in 1963.

Good weather (there was only one real bad day), the addition of two extra shopping days, and some very fine merchandising helped. Also lending a strong supporting hand was the annual Christmas Festival which broke all previous records for visitors.

It's an old story for Boston but it serves to underscore the fact that the city is not only moving ahead but it is making good use of its traditional know-how as the dominant business center of New England.

As the marketplace for all New England, Boston enjoys a broad variety of specialized and general retail-market areas. The largest department store in New England is in the downtown retail section. Here too are the world's largest specialty store, other large department stores, and shops of all types. A fashionable retail area is nearby, in the Back Bay area.

Boston's central shopping district has over 9,000 retail establishments, accounting for about 39 percent of retail sales in the metropolitan area.

When new products require a controlled test area having specific data of population, income, buying power, and other factors, Greater Boston is unusually suited for tailoring test conditions to meet any need. Each city and town maintains its own census, with facts and figures readily available about income, construction, manufacturing, and all other pertinent categories. The character of the cities and towns varies greatly, from sophisticated metropolitan areas to near-rural towns on the outer fringes. Several have populations of one particular national group—valuable in testing products of limited appeal.

Greater Boston's communications media serve market testing techniques well. Three daily Boston newspapers, three Sunday and one international newspaper, suburban papers, magazines, and trade publications are available for test use. Outdoor advertising delivers measured circulation in all business areas throughout the market, and can be readily tailored for special testing purposes.

Two Banks Get BRA

OK For Center Projects

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has designated two Boston banks as the developers of a pair of parcels in the Government Center.

The City Bank and Trust Company was named as developer of Parcel 9, located on Washington street, between State street and Cornhill. The bank now has its main offices at the site.

The Suffolk Franklin Savings Bank was approved as developer of Parcel 10, located at the end of Washington street. The bank has been displaced by the Government Center project and now has its offices on Cambridge street.

However, the plan announced today will permit it to return to the center.

The action gives the banks the go-ahead to draw up firm plans for their parcels. These plans are subject to the final approval of the BRA.

BRA Administrator Edward J. Logue said the banks were the only "legitimate" applicants as developers of the parcels.

The offering, he said, was restricted to businesses to be displaced by the Government Center. A third applicant expressed interest in a portion of one of the parcels, he said, but did not qualify under the requirement.

Inaugural Invitation

Mayor and Mrs. John F. Collins have been invited by President and Mrs. Johnson to attend the grand Inaugural ball to be held in Washington, on the night of January 20, in the great climactic function of the inauguration ceremonies. His Honor and Mrs. Collins will attend.

Latest Sky Tenant

Construction of the 34-story State Street Bank Building has advanced to the point where it may now make legitimate claim to a proud place of eminence in Boston's new skyline.

Freedom Trail Promotion Aim of Newly Formed Nonprofit Group

The general public soon will be able to contribute funds to help improve and better mark Boston's famed Freedom Trail.

First steps were taken when Mayor Collins, as a founding director, signed the application for creation of a nonprofit Freedom Trail Foundation.

Until now, the Freedom Trail promotion has been directed by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Advertising Club of Boston as a joint venture.

Plans call for better identification of the trail, visited by a half-million tourists a year, and for improvement of the various historic sites along the route.

Both the Chamber and Ad Club will continue to support Freedom Trail activities.

Other founding directors with the Mayor include: Freedom Trail Foundation President Robert F. Friedmann; Richard A. Berenson, treasurer; the Rev. Dr. Howard P. Kellett, vicar of Old North Church; the Rev. Dr. Harold Ockenga, minister of Park Street Church; and Paul Revere, a direct descendant of the Boston patriot.

Additional directors from groups active in historic preservations will be elected after the foundation is officially incorporated by Secretary of State Kevin H. White.

Lectures at B. C.

A series of lectures designed to provide interested citizens with the knowledge and skills required to participate more actively and effectively in public affairs will be initiated by the Massachusetts Municipal Training Institute, Bureau of Public Affairs, at Boston College, January 20.

The lectures will be held each Wednesday evening, from January 20 to April 28, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at Fulton Hall on the University Heights campus.

A $15 registration fee will cover the 15-lecture series. Further information may be obtained by writing to Richard J. Olsen, Research Associate, Bureau of Public Affairs, Boston College, Chestnut Hill, Mass., 02167.

Greatest Shopping Tide

A corps of 272 policemen kept traffic moving in downtown Boston on Christmas Eve as hordes of 11th-hour shoppers milled through the shopping areas.

Deputy Superintendent James L. Buchanan, head of the department's traffic division, said both motor and pedestrian traffic downtown set a new record as waves of Christmas shoppers poured into the city.

Besides his regular traffic officers, Buchanan pressed into service 33 officer trainees from the police academy.

Earned Half Million

The 861 high school students participating in the earn-while-you-learn merchandising courses offered in 11 high schools of the Boston public schools reported earnings of $528,421.70 during the 1963-64 school year. The courses, pioneered by the Boston School Department, have been warmly praised by local and national leaders in business and education and have served as models for other school systems.

(From Boston Public Schools Review.)

Firefighters' Gift

In a traditional pre-Christmas ceremony at the Vose House of the Boston City Hospital on December 15, the Officers' Club of the Boston Fire Department presented its annual check in aid of the City Hospital Nursing School's Library. Receiving the valued gift was Miss Margaret B. Welch, R.N., director of the school. Thanking the firefighters was Dr. John F. Conlin, superintendent.

Air Pollution Study

The State Health Department announced recently that $174,000 in State-Federal funds has been made available for a study of atmospheric pollution in the Greater Boston area.

The study will include the nature of air contaminants and their effects and the relationship of weather to pollution.

A similar study costing $33,000 will be made in the Springfield area.

Gifts From Kyoto

"Unfortunately ill" children of Boston were not forgotten at Christmas in the Hub's sister city of Kyoto, Japan. To the office of Mayor John F. Collins just before Christmas came an air package from Takeshi Terada, of Kyoto.

It contained a big supply of beautifully decorated small kerchiefs which thrilled everyone who had a chance to examine them.

The Mayor directed that they be distributed at Boston City Hospital. Mrs. Jean Blake, volunteers director at the hospital, described the gifts as among the most beautiful she had ever seen.

Mayor Sees Fine Year Ahead; Cites Need For Legislative Aid

(Following is the complete text of Mayor John F. Collins' Annual Message delivered in the chamber of the City Council on the morning of January 4):

Except for the dark shadows of certain fiscal problems which we must face and solve during the coming year, I look forward to 1965 with renewed confidence and continuing enthusiasm, so far as the prospects of the City of Boston are concerned.

Nineteen hundred and sixty-four was a year which started in sadness but ended in hope, not only for this nation but for this city. It was a year which began while we were still numb from shock and grief, following the tragic death of our beloved President, John F. Kennedy.

It was a year attended by much physical and emotional violence, in connection with the great struggle for civic rights. It was a presidential election year, giving rise to intense, and frequently bitter, partisan political debate.

We've Won Confidence

Happily, the year ended with what, I am positive, is a better and genuine spirit of mutual understanding, respect and cooperation among all the people of this nation. Moreover, as far as the national political debate which took place, if there was no unanimity as to what kind of government the people want, they were unequivocal in indicating what kind of government they DO NOT want.

Were it not for the fiscal problems to which I will refer, the outlook for our city during 1965 would not only be cheerful, but exclusively cheerful.

For 1965 is the year in which we cap many of our major efforts of the last several years. Nineteen hundred and sixty-five will see substantial completion of the Prudential Center, with the Prudential Building itself fully occupied, the new Sheraton-Boston Hotel opened for occupancy, and the new War Memorial Municipal Auditorium dedicated on February 21.

Faith and confidence in your "New Boston" is underlined by the tremendous increase in private building construction. Currently more than $45 million is being spent for multi-unit dwellings which will provide accommodations for more than 6,000 families. And, at the same time, more than 2,000 single and two-family homes are being built for new residents.

And as buildings go up, some others come down, as the city continues its never-ending war against blight. Also the Zoning Code for the New Boston will bring further improvement in the type of new construction which can be foreseen.

Priests' Home Opens

Blending perfectly with the New Boston appearance of the West End, a new residence for retired priests was opened last week by Cardinal Cushing. The residence conceived and planned by the Boston prelate is the first of its kind in the Archdiocese and one of the first in the nation.

It has been named "Regina Cleri" (queen of the clergy), and is the latest addition to the West End's growing skyline. It is located next door to St. Joseph's Church on William Cardinal O'Connell Way.

The new residence has suites for 36 retired priests in addition to one for the director, Rt. Rev. Edward F. Hartigan. Each suite has a bedroom, bath, and study with ample room for books and papers and other personal effects.

It will be staffed by six Bon Secours nuns, all of whom are registered nurses. They will have quarters on the mezzanine. Although the building is not a hospital or nursing home, there is an infirmary, where minor ailments of the retired priests may be treated.

On the main floor is a large lounge, dining room, and the main chapel of the building.

On other floors there are oratories, each with three altars; common rooms and a system of snack bars with a dumb-waiter system.

Each room has a private porch.

Center Nearing Completion

The year 1965 will see the completion of major elements of the new Government Center, with the new Federal Building completed, the new State Building up in part, the new City Hall above ground, and the superstructure of the new privately-financed office building rising to its maximum height.

Elsewhere in the city we will see completion or dedication of more and more of the edifices which mean so much to the spirit, as well as to the appearance, of our great city, with more and more pleasant and dignified housing for those of moderate income, including relocation housing; and a start on the great Waterfront Project.

Salute to City Hospital

There is another building on the Boston scene that deserves the salute of each of us — and that is Boston City Hospital which continues to move forward with an aggressive multimillion dollar capital improvement program.

Boston City Hospital, which just celebrated its 100th birthday, marking a century of service, continues to stand in the forefront of municipal teaching hospitals dedicated to improving health standards throughout the nation.

Soon plans will be completed to link the hospital with the City Health Department. A merger such as this will provide a better, stronger, and more efficient public health program for the City of Boston and her people.

I must pause here to say that I would be remiss if I were not to notice and congratulate the Honorable City Council for its role in making all of these projects realizable.

Legislature's Important Role

Boston's image, Boston's spirit, Boston's reputation have never been better than in 1965, and you and all the fine people of Boston can take pride in your accomplishments — the results of efforts so courageously undertaken, despite the forbidding prophecies of the gloomy soothsayers.

But most of all, Boston and, I am sure, all of Massachusetts, will benefit during 1965 from a quantity and quality of legislative accomplishments for the people of our state which have never been surpassed in the history of our Commonwealth.

For there is every evidence that not only the legislative leadership, but also the rank and file of the Great and General Court are both attentive to the fiscal problems of the cities and towns, and determined to attack those problems with an energy, industry, and wisdom unmatched in many years.

Needs of Cities and Towns

The problems which the Legislature faces this year are neither few nor simple, ranging as they do from meeting the state's own fiscal needs, as well as the crucial needs of all the cities and towns, and including, as they do, the matter of implementing those portions of the Willis Report on education which admit neither of debate nor delay.

By any standard, the recent state election must be interpreted as a decision by the Massachusetts electorate that the needs of the cities and towns must be met, even if that involves an increase in our state tax structure.

What is needed is a demonstration by the people of this city and this state, through public communication to the Legislature, by every means and through every medium, that this decision by the electorate is also a mandate, the execution of which will have their universal approval.

Top Festival Ends

Boston's Christmas Festival, the finest on record from the standpoint of visitors and the magnificence of the displays and lights on Boston Common, ended with Twelfth Night Music in the Festival Chapel on January 6.

This year, as in the past, Festival Director Paul Hines pointed out in a report to Mayor John F. Collins, every step was taken to keep the constantly-growing festival within the confines of the best of taste while at the same time expressing and reflecting the true meanings of the holiday season.

CITY REGISTRAR'S REPORT FOR DECEMBER

Financial Relief Crucial

I firmly believe that you and I can place our reliance on the Great and General Court, and that we may look forward with confidence this year to forward-looking legislation, of immediate benefit to Boston and its sister cities and towns, which will bespeak the statesmanship of the legislative leadership and a sense of public responsibility on the part of the Legislature as a whole.

Needless to say — and for reasons already familiar to most of the people of Boston — substantial financial relief, resulting from such legislative action, is crucial to the City of Boston in 1965.

$25 To $26 Million Budget

It is anticipated that the gross increase in the 1965 municipal budget will be about $25 to $26 million. Of this amount, $7½ million is represented by increases in Welfare and Veterans' services, $3 to $4 million is represented by additional School Department budgeting, $4 million by Police and Fire Department salary increases, $1½ million by additional MBTA assessments, $1½ million by additional retirement payments.

Also involved are normal increases of about $3½ million in general departmental expenses, and an increase of about $4 million in debt service, resulting chiefly from capital investments in the improvement of the equipment and structures of the New Boston.

Although we can anticipate free cash that will offset some of these increases as a result of diligent efforts to tighten the city's financial affairs, net additional appropriations may have to be as much as $15 to $20 million.

Unless this amount is offset by additional aid from the state, or action by the state to take over the administration and costs of certain programs now being performed by the city, then the property tax rate must, perforce, go up.

The property tax rate, without help from the state, will probably go up by an amount of between $10 and $15 per thousand.

I shall, however, continue to closely scrutinize every area for expenditure and endeavor to collect all outstanding revenues due to the city in a constant and determined effort to lessen the burden on our homeowners and rent payers.

No Downgrading of Services

We could, of course, obviate a portion of this increase by reducing the quantity and quality of municipal services. But I do not believe that any of our citizens would seriously consider a cessation of our program of modern street lighting, or a diminution of our highway reconstruction program, or a deliberate downgrading of our excellent fire, police, traffic, and other municipal services.

Of course, a significant part of the increase in our 1965 appropriations results, directly or indirectly, from the November referendum on the Police Pay Raise, a referendum which passed by the narrowest of margins, after a rather well-financed campaign on its behalf while the city was legally powerless to expend one cent for radio, television, or newspaper advertising for the purpose of contesting the same.

Pay Referendum Reform Needed

Now I do not begrudge any man a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but there are three lessons inherent in this referendum experience:

First of all, such a referendum should not—in the absence of manifest injustice or inequities—be authorized except with the approval of the local mayor or board of selectmen.

Mrs. Hicks Chosen

Mrs. Louise Day Hicks of South Boston, who served in the same post in 1962-63, was elected chairman of the Boston School Committee, January 4, at the board's 1965 election and organizational meeting.

Tierney Re-elected

John J. Tierney, Jr., was re-elected president of the Boston City Council at its 1965 organizational meeting, January 4.

He is only the second man in the 13 years' operation of the Plan A Charter to achieve re-election to the post. He is a practicing attorney and makes his home at 32 Melville avenue, Dorchester.

Only previous Council president to gain re-election was Edward J. McLaughlin.

Police Relief Elects

Patrolman Anthony J. Settino of the Jamaica Plain Division was elected president of the Boston Police Relief Association, January 4.

Other officers elected, all patrolmen, include Albert Dello Russo of the Jamaica Plain Division, vice-president; Lawrence N. O'Keefe of South Boston, finance committee chairman; John F. Geagan of Brighton, secretary; and George M. Walsh of Headquarters, treasurer. Walsh was re-elected.

John W. O'Neil of the South End Division and Edward J. Flaherty of East Boston won seats on the finance committee. All will serve for one year.

Shuttle Service Hike

The Civil Aeronautics Board on January 4 authorized Eastern Airlines to increase its New York to Boston and New York to Washington shuttle fares by $1.90.

The CAB also authorized Northeast Airlines to meet Eastern's new shuttle fare.

Cardinal Pays Warm Tribute To James D'Amato, City Hospital Deputy

C. James D'Amato was hailed in a eulogy by Cardinal Cushing at St. Bartholomew's Church, Needham, January 2, as an outstanding family man, a brilliant engineer, and a devoted Catholic layman, at funeral services attended by leaders in the fields of hospital work, engineering, and city, town and state officials.

Mr. D'Amato, 58, died suddenly, December 30, at his home, 101 Grosvenor road, Needham.

He was deputy superintendent of physical facilities at Boston City Hospital since 1962 and was appointed to the post by Mayor John F. Collins from a field of outstanding engineers.

Born in Yonkers, N. Y., he was a graduate of New York University where he was later awarded master of science and bachelor of engineering degrees.

Early in his career he represented the Massachusetts Bonding Company in legal actions involving New York State road construction and a 17-story building in Messina, N. Y.

From 1936 to 1952 he served with the U. S. Bureau of Roads in Boston and after being associated with a number of Boston and Massachusetts engineering firms he formed the C. J. D'Amato & Associates engineering firm in Boston, serving it as senior partner, chief engineer, and administrative officer.

He was a member of the Needham Council Knights of Columbus and the St. Bartholomew Holy Name Society.

Despite the heavy pressure of his duties at Boston City Hospital where he was in charge of the hospital's current multimillion-dollar rehabilitation program, he was active in town affairs and in various civic movements.

In 1960, Mayor Collins appointed Mr. D'Amato as a commissioner of planning for the City of Boston Planning Board.

He held membership and executive offices in a large number of engineering organizations, including the Society of Military Engineers, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, American Association of Engineers, Massachusetts Association of Consulting Engineers, American Society of Photogrammetry and the National Association of City Planners.

He leaves Mrs. D'Amato, the former Edna Gillette, a son, Robert, and three daughters, the Misses Constance and Eleanor and Mrs. Barbara Bacon, all of Needham.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Eleanor D'Amato, two brothers, George and Vincent, and three sisters, Mrs. Viola Pistilli, Mrs. Frances DeLello, and Mrs. Lillian Blasi, all of Yonkers, N. Y.

Interment was at Needham Cemetery.

Moving Cost Aid

The Boston Housing Authority on December 29 adopted a new regulation providing for relocation payments for individuals and families displaced from low-rent housing project sites on or after January 27, 1964.

The new regulation, retroactive to January 27, 1964, also provides for relocation adjustment payments to certain families or individuals, 62 years or over, who are similarly displaced and who are not able to obtain public housing.

The regulation implements an amendment to the Housing Act of 1964, effective September 2, 1964, which made provisions for such payments.

The Authority, according to Chairman Edward D. Hassan, will pay actual and necessary moving expenses, plus personal property losses, in accordance with a fixed schedule based upon the number of rooms of furniture moved, and to single persons and families not owning furniture. The total amount of payment, in any single instance, will not exceed $200 and is subject to the displaced person's certification of such expense.

New Auditorium Opens Doors February 21st

The official opening of Boston's War Memorial Auditorium at the Prudential Center will be held February 21, it was announced by Mayor John F. Collins.

The auditorium, termed the "showplace of the New Boston" by Mayor Collins, is one of the largest facilities of its kind in the country with 150,000 square feet of exhibit space, stage facilities with seating for 6,000, and a meeting room with a capacity for 900, plus smaller rooms.

A giant exhibit of Boston's past, present, and future is planned as part of the opening week's festivities.

Robert M. Brush, chairman of the Convention Bureau of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and senior vice-president of Sheraton Corporation, is a member of the committee planning the exhibit.

Adele Thane to Speak

On January 22, at 10 A.M., Miss Adele Thane will give a talk for the Parents Discussion Group at Egleston Square Branch Library. Her subject will be "Theatre for Children."

Miss Thane has been the Director of the Boston Children's Theatre since its founding, fourteen years ago. The purpose of the Children's Theatre is to present plays of imaginative quality and literary merit, including the best-known fairy tales, well-loved classics, and good new plays. The theatre has achieved national recognition for its work in the field of entertainment for children.

The children who act in the plays range in age from eight to seventeen years. The teenagers, of course, play the adult roles. To prepare themselves for their work the actors take courses in creative drama given by the theatre.

Miss Thane will tell the parents some of her experiences, and will explain the role which the theatre should play in the life of a youngster.

Injured in Rescue

Patrolman Joseph V. Keough, 34, of the Warren Avenue Division, suffered minor injuries in the early morning, December 28, when he lost his footing on the second floor hallway while rescuing an 89-year old woman in a fire at 797 Harrison avenue, South End, opposite City Hospital.

He succeeded in carrying Eileen Donovan, a resident of the floor, to safety. He was treated at the hospital for shoulder injuries and released.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the City Spa, first floor occupant. The Spa is one of several eating places in the area patronized by City Hospital workers. Smoke and fire damage was estimated at $2,000.

Edward J. Kelley

Edward J. Kelley, 46, 777 East Broadway, South Boston, a physical education instructor for the city was fatally injured December 29, when his car struck a pole in the Massachusetts Memorial parking lot on Harrison avenue, South End, after plunging through a chain fence.

Death was pronounced at City Hospital nearby.

Mary R. Hanning

Miss Mary R. Hanning, 57, of 1066 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, an English teacher at East Boston High School for the past 25 years, died recently.

Born in Cambridge, she received her bachelor's and master's degree from Boston State College. She taught at East Boston High School ever since her appointment to the Boston school system.

Miss Hanning was treasurer of the Duschene Guild and a member of the Aquinas League. She also organized school activities under the auspices of the Red Cross, with which she was very active.

She is survived by a brother, James Hanning of Medford, and six nieces and nephews.

Mayor's Annual Message . . .

Second, such a referendum should not—in fairness to all other employees—be authorized for the benefit of a single class of municipal employees.

And third, the Legislature should either forbid the expenditure of any moneys for political advertising in connection with such a referendum, or should authorize the city or town involved to expend reasonable sums in opposition thereto.

In any event, what is done is done, and we now have to pay the piper, and it would be most unfortunate if the property owner, as usual, has to pick up the bill by himself.

Must Look To Legislature

I am therefore all the more hopeful that the Legislature will, in its wisdom, this year devise a definite means of relieving the strain on the homeowners' pocketbook and that of other local taxpayers.

For myself—and I am sure I speak for all of you, as well—I intend to devote myself with renewed energy and unbounded enthusiasm in helping to strengthen our beloved city, which truly grows better and more magnificent each year.

May Divine blessings attend our efforts.

CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 1

To All Department Heads.

The annual appeal for the March of Dimes is now under way and will continue until the end of January. It is not necessary for me to call the attention of city employees to this worthy cause which is sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.

Research, therapy, and continued care of victims affected by crippling diseases, birth defects, arthritis, and polio are a must and I urge all to contribute as generously as they can to this most important work of mercy.

I have designated Edmund W. Holmes, Acting Collector-Treasurer of the City of Boston, as chairman of this drive. Returns should be made to Mr. William L. Dowling, Assistant Collector-Treasurer. All department heads shall assign a responsible person from their respective departments who will contact Mr. Dowling and obtain the necessary information in connection with the drive.

I sincerely and respectfully urge department heads and collectors to make a special effort to make this year's contribution by city and county employees a really successful achievement.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Israeli Mayor Guest

Mayor Elishu Navi of Beersheva, Israel, was Mayor Collins' guest in the City Council chamber during the delivery of the Boston Mayor's annual message, January 4.

Later, he sat with Mayor Collins at the traditional mayor's luncheon for the City Council and School Committee at the Parker House.

Deputy Petitti Retires

Deputy Superintendent John F. Petitti of the Boston Police Department, who served as a top aide to the late Deputy Superintendent "Billy" Livingston's famed Flying Squadron of gang busters and earned 11 commendations in general orders for outstanding police work, retired recently.

His home is at 57 Garth road, West Roxbury.

He was appointed to the Police Department in 1928 and has served as captain at the Traffic Division in West Roxbury and at Fields Corner and Hyde Park before being promoted to deputy superintendent of the staff inspection division.

While at West Roxbury he earned the praise of the citizens for putting a stop to teenage vandalism in the neighborhood.

Honors for BCH Doctor

Dr. Derek E. Denny-Brown, director of neurological services at Boston City Hospital and holder of the James Jackson Putnam Professorship of Neurology at Harvard Medical School, is one of 10 winners of the 1965 Distinguished Achievement Awards made by the editors of Modern Medicine.

He is a native of New Zealand and came to Boston City Hospital and Harvard Medical in 1941 with a reputation established during a brilliant career at Oxford University, England. Since then he has gained world-wide recognition for his work in the field of neurology.

In selecting him for its medical prize this year along with nine other outstanding medical scientists, Modern Medicine directs attention to his explanations of the disintegration of motor function, the function of the cerebral cortex, and the mechanism of the stretch reflex. His findings, expressed in numerous papers and lectures, are considered standard throughout the world.

Teacher Recruitment

A tabulation by the Office of Personnel under the supervision of Assistant Superintendent John M. Carty indicates that the Boston Public Schools are experiencing success in efforts to overcome teacher shortages in most levels of education.

A survey of the teacher population on opening day showed that every classroom was covered by a qualified teacher and that every teacher who was appointed to a teaching position reported to his teaching station.

During the 1963-1964 school year, 643 teachers received appointments to the school system while the services of 294 were terminated by resignation, death, and retirement.

School teacher recruitment officials are particularly pleased by the increasing number of applicants. The numbers of those who have been taking the various teacher examinations are an indication of the effectiveness of the recruitment program.

New Auditorium Pronounced "Amazing" "Breathtaking."

Boston's $12 million War Memorial—first of the major buildings of New Boston to reach completion—was given an advance "preview opening"—to the Greater Boston news media on January 12.

The impact on the newshawks was "terrific."

There were piles of lumber here. There were coils of wiring there. Workmen, intent on the task of the moment, moved about silently. The honest dust of construction was everywhere.

Yet, the big job was done! Between now and February 21 when the amazing structure will be dedicated, the finishing touches will be applied.

Mayor Collins—getting his first glimpse of the breathtaking structure—the Auditorium Commission and the Auditorium Dedication Committee, were on hand to greet the news-gathering guests.

Their verdict was unanimous. They found it "Amazing," "Breathtaking," "Almost Beyond Belief."

The facility, one of the largest of its kind in the country, will be officially dedicated on Sunday, February 21. A week-long program of entertainment, exhibits, and other events to celebrate its opening will follow.

The physical plant, adaptable to almost any type function, contains some 30 acres of exhibit space, an auditorium with 4,000 temporary floor seats and 1,836 permanent balcony seats, an 88-foot high by 42-foot wide stage suitable for all types of theatrical performances including opera, a balcony projection booth, a large 900-seat capacity meeting room, plus a number of permanent, smaller rooms.

Unique mechanical features built into the Auditorium include a fully automated cloak room, a freight elevator capable of lifting a 37½-ton trailer truck, adjustable acoustical ceiling panels, paraplegic entrance and elevator, tracked partitions that convert portions of the exhibit areas into several small meeting rooms, and a "slotted" stage floor allowing scenery, delivered and stored in the Auditorium's basement, to be raised on stage as needed.

The Boston architectural firm of Hoyle, Doran and Berry designed the Auditorium and it was constructed by the S. Volpe Company of Boston. The building took 32 months to complete and the dedication will come almost 11 years to the day (February 24, 1954) that the Massachusetts Legislature approved an act authorizing the City of Boston to construct a Municipal Auditorium.

A five-man Commission headed by Robert C. Nordblom, President, Robert C. Nordblom Real Estate, has been overseeing the planning and construction of the building. The other members are Frank R. Kelley, former Boston Park Commissioner; William H. Ohrenberger, Superintendent of Boston schools; Donald B. Stanbro, former General Manager, Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston; and Gen. James R. McCormack, Vice-President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The War Memorial Auditorium will serve as a living memorial to those who have served in the Armed Forces from Greater Boston area and a civic center that will help promote Boston's future growth and prosperity, according to Mayor John F. Collins.

A group of prominent Boston businessmen, headed by Eli Goldston, President of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, is coordinating the opening week events at the Auditorium.

Fin. Com. Files Bills

The Boston Finance Commission on January 8 filed bills with the 1965 Massachusetts Legislature.

The bills would abolish the position of City Auctioneer, increase the Commission's annual operating budget from $65,000 to $80,000, and increase the salary of its Chairman from $5,000 to $10,000 a year.

The Commission had planned to file four additional measures but decided not to do so after similar bills were filed by Mayor Collins, Chairman George E. Berkley said.

These bills would have instituted meter attendants for policing parking meters, increased the interest rate on overdue taxes from 4 to 6 percent, permitted taxation of commercial enterprises on Massachusetts Port Authority land and required the Port Authority to compensate the City for fire protection.

"Instead of filing competing bills in these areas, we will support those submitted by the City administration," said Berkley.

New Housing For Elderly Moving Ahead of Schedules; Brighton Project Ready Soon

Construction of specialized housing developments for the elderly in the Boston area will move ahead steadily in the coming months, Chairman Edward D. Hassan, Boston Housing Authority, announced January 6.

The federally-aided Washington Street development in Brighton, approaching completion well ahead of schedule, will add 82 apartments for low-income, elderly people to the total of 560 already occupied in eight developments located in the Dorchester, Roxbury, Jamaica Plain, and South Boston areas.

A garden-type development for the elderly in the Jay Street area of South Boston and another in the Chestnut Hill section of Brighton are two projects which will move off the planning boards this year.

Others in advanced stages of planning are a garden-type development on Melville avenue in Dorchester and two additional developments which will be located in the Castle Square and the Washington Park renewal areas.

The Warren Street development is planned as a tower-type, elevator building adjoining the proposed shopping center in Washington Park.

Seven Stories

The Castle Square development, fronting on Tremont street, calls for twin, seven-story, elevator buildings. The introduction of a number of one-room, efficiency apartments, in the Castle Square development is an innovation in housing for the elderly in the Boston area.

Chairman Hassan pointed out that the demand for such housing for low-income, elderly people is greater than the supply. In addition to the Authority's program of specialized housing for the elderly, he said, more than 25 percent of the apartments in regular public housing now are occupied by elderly people living on limited incomes.

The Authority also is moving ahead on other fronts to meet the need for more housing for low-income families, he said. He noted that, under the demonstration rent supplementation program, seven low-income families now are living at Marksdale Gardens and that another group of seven families will move into this private development soon.

Eight more families, participating in this same program, will become residents of the Charlamé Park Homes and 18 additional families will move into apartments in Academy Homes when these two developments are completed.

Progress also is being made on the pilot program of rehabilitation in the Highland Park area of Roxbury, he said. Interiors of the existing structures are being redesigned to accommodate large, low-income families and some modification of exteriors is under consideration.

Washburn Discovered Canada's Mt. Kennedy

The 14,000-foot peak in the Yukon Territory just named for President Kennedy by the Canadian Government was first discovered in 1935 by Director Bradford Washburn, of Boston's Museum of Science.

At the time, the noted Alaskan mountaineer was a young Harvard graduate student leading his first major expedition under the auspices of the National Geographic Society. Purpose of the trip was to explore some five thousand square miles in the isolated and virtually unknown Yukon territory.

"Mount Kennedy is the highest of dozens of unnamed peaks in the area and one of the highest unclimbed peaks in North America," Dr. Washburn said. "It is a magnificent mountain and from its summit it is possible to look over to Alaska as well as into Canada."

World Famed To Participate in Prudential, Sheraton-Boston Opening

Former British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, United States Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson, and former United States Ambassador to South Viet Nam Henry Cabot Lodge will participate in a world forum sponsored by the Prudential Insurance Company and the Sheraton Corporation here, April 20.

The forum will highlight the three-day dedicatory ceremonies for the opening of the $150-million Prudential Center in the Back Bay, together with the grand opening of the Sheraton-Boston Hotel in the Center.

CBS Newsman Walter Cronkite will moderate the forum, with panel members Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor; Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, and Robert Manning, executive editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

Announcement of the forum subject, "The Free Society and Its Posture in World Affairs, 1965," was made in a recent statement by President Orville E. Beal of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Thomas Allsopp, Prudential's senior vice-president in charge of Northeastern operations, read Beal's statement outlining the format of the world forum. "Each of the three distinguished world statesmen will deliver a 30-minute statement of his views on the free nations of the world. Following these prepared statements, they will respond to questions from the three-member panel of world-famous newsmen.

"This public forum will be the high point in the dedication of Prudential Center because it carries on the theme of high public service which has been the hallmark of the eight years in planning and building Prudential Center," the Beal statement said. "Without this spirit of public service and cooperation among the leaders in government, business and civic affairs, the Prudential Center would not have been possible."

New Milestone

The forum will be held at 9 A.M., Tuesday, April 20, in the grand ballroom of the new Sheraton-Boston Hotel at Prudential Center.

Ernest Henderson, chairman of the board, Sheraton Corporation of America, describes the forum as an auspicious opening event for the Sheraton-Boston Hotel which he hoped would render a genuine service to the community as a center for outstanding international events in the finest traditions of the Free World. Mr. Henderson said the hotel was an important step in the realization of a New Boston and a milestone for Sheraton as well, as it would be the 100th unit in the Boston-based international system of hotels.

More than 1,200 civic, business and religious leaders of New England will be invited to attend the dedication ceremonies in the new 29-story Sheraton-Boston Hotel and the 52-story Prudential Tower Building.

Robert Weaver in Harvard Lectures

Administrator Robert C. Weaver of the Housing and Home Finance Agency will speak on "Future Urban Development" in a Godkin lectures series at Sanders Theater, Harvard, March 29, 30, 31. The lectures start at 8 P.M. and are open to the public.

In his three lectures, Mr. Weaver will discuss "New Communities" (March 29), "Urban Renewal" (March 30), and "Dilemmas of Racial Policy" (March 31).

Mr. Weaver was vice-chairman of the Housing and Redevelopment Board of New York City and chairman of the Board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People until he entered U. S. service in 1961 under President Kennedy. Earlier he served as Rent Administrator for New York State. He is a graduate of Harvard (B.S. '29, M.A. '31, and Ph.D. '34).

The Godkin lectures are sponsored by the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration. Founded in 1903, they honor the memory of E. L. Godkin, British-American journalist of the 19th century.

Playground Program

Park Commissioner William J. Devine has asked for bids for extensive improvements at the John H. L. Noyes Playground, East Boston. The project is part of an all-round program of the Parks and Recreation Commission to improve outdoor playground facilities throughout the city.

Prudential Opening . . .

The Prudential Center ceremony follows the dedication of the $12-million City of Boston War Memorial Auditorium also in the Center which was opened February 21.

Focal point of the project is the 750-foot high Prudential Tower Building. Towering over the large 31-acre site, it houses Prudential's Northeastern Home Office in the first 18 floors.

The 29-story, 1,000-room Sheraton Boston Hotel is adjacent to the War Memorial Auditorium and Prudential Tower in the Center.

Under construction are two 26-story apartment buildings in the eastern sector where Lord & Taylor is also building a 150,000 square foot, trilevel specialty store.

The landscaped plazas and walkways of Prudential Center are open to the public at noon-time, Easter Sunday, April 18. A special arrangement of spring and Easter flowers will have been planted in 243 square yards of beds. An outdoor concert at 2 p.m. will take place on the North Plaza to greet Easter paraders.

Formal dedication of Prudential Center takes place Monday afternoon, Patriots' Day, April 19. New England governors, along with their aides and ceremonial detachments will join in a colorful parade and presentation of flags on the South Plaza fronting Huntington avenue.

Chip Off Gibraltar

On Monday morning, April 19, the British Consul-General and Prudential President Beal and Sheraton Chairman Henderson will join in the north lobby of the tower to unveil an engraved chip of the Rock of Gibraltar, gift of the British government. The world-famous rock has been the Prudential trademark for over 50 years.

Prudential-Sheraton guests and the general public will be able to watch the finish of the BAA marathon, right on Prudential Center. The Boston Athletic Association this year changed the finish line of the Annual Patriots' Day, 26-mile run from Hopkinton, Mass. In previous years, the race ended on Exeter street.

The Metropolitan Opera will open a week's stay at the adjoining City of Boston War Memorial Auditorium Monday night.

Following the world forum on Tuesday morning, more than 1,200 of the Prudential-Sheraton guests will attend a civic luncheon in the hotel's grand ballroom.

The Junior League of Boston will hold its spring reception and ball in the hotel on Tuesday night.

BHA Painting Bids

The Boston Housing Authority is receiving sealed bids for exterior painting of apartment buildings and interior painting of apartment building stairhalls at the Old Colony Housing Development in South Boston.

The bid also calls for exterior painting of the Administration Building and attached garage.

Closing date for all bids, accompanied by a performance bid deposit of $3,000 is noon April 2.

Proposed forms of contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file and available at the offices of the Boston Housing Authority, 230 Congress street.

'Pike Authority Takes Back Garage Bill

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority announced on March 23 a request for withdrawal of a bill, scheduled for hearing the next day before the Legislative Committee on State Administration, which would give the Turnpike Authority the exclusive right to build a garage and other facilities in the South Station area.

In making this announcement, Chairman John T. Driscoll of the Turnpike Authority stated that the Authority is still very interested in building this huge parking facility and such other supporting facilities as Boston's Mayor and other city officials want constructed on that site.

Chairman Driscoll said that the decision to request withdrawal of the bill at this time was made in a spirit of cooperation after consultation with Mayor Collins, Edward Logue, Development Administrator of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, and other interested groups. "This," said an MTA news release, "is a very complex matter involving many agencies of government and comes at a time when the BRA is negotiating with the trustee of the Boston Terminal Corporation for the purchase of this same property. This negotiation requires the approval of Judge Anderson of the Federal Court in Connecticut. There is also the question of payment of a substantial amount of back taxes owed to the City of Boston on this property.

"Because of these complicated negotiations, Boston officials themselves have not finalized their thinking on the facilities that should ultimately be built in that area. The Turnpike Authority has no desire or intention to complicate further the picture at this time by pressing forward with this bill. Rather, it prefers to work in harmony and cooperation with the city officials in the best interests of the taxpayers of the City of Boston.

Boston Hailed As Prudential Complex And Sheraton-Boston Are Opened

(Co-incident with the formal opening of the Prudential complex and Hotel Sheraton-Boston a lengthy Boston article appeared in the business section of the nationally circulated magazine "Newsweek". Here are excerpts.)

In the very year that saw Massachusetts' John F. Kennedy win the Presidency of the U. S., the city swore in as its new mayor a youthful Boston Irishman named John F. Collins. Boston hasn't been the same since. Today it is changing as dramatically as any city in the U. S.

The change is as plain on the face of Boston as the spanking-new, 52-story skyscraper of Prudential Insurance, which springs out of a turn-of-century urban landscape. The building crowns the eye-filling Prudential Center, celebrating its official opening this week with three days of elaborate ceremony.

"The Pru" is a $150 million complex of modern buildings and plazas that covers just about twice as much ground as Rockefeller Center in New York. Its centerpiece, the Prudential Tower, soars in shimmering gray green, high above the ancient red brick residences of Back Bay, completely dominating the city's skyline. The 31-acre center also embraces the 29-story Sheraton-Boston, the city's first new hotel in 38 years, the 5,800-seat War Memorial Auditorium, a 3,000-car garage, and a skating rink. Still being built are twin 26-story apartment houses and four commercial buildings.

Big Act

But Prudential Center is only the curtain raiser for what may well be the most ambitious civic rejuvenation program in the country.

Boston's biggest act of renewal is taking place in what used to be Scollay Square, a favorite honky-tonk haunt of Harvard students and U. S. sailors. Now it is known as Government Center, a $200 million collection of showpiece buildings at the city's downtown hub. Construction is well under way on the 60-acre project that will look across a landscaped plaza to historic Faneuil Hall and the Old State House. It will include a new City Hall, a 26-story Federal building, two state buildings, a huge garage, a motel-office complex, and a privately financed office skyscraper.

Peerless

A short walk away, plans are complete for what seems to be every Bostonian's favorite project—the $100 million transformation of the rotting old waterfront into a residential and public showplace. The blueprints call for 150 town houses and 2,000 luxury apartment units, all with a harbor view, plus a marine hotel, and an outsize aquarium featuring a 40-foot waterfall splashing into a pool of salmon. Construction on the new waterfront, held up while 200 small businesses are relocated, is expected to take about eight years.

Convention Business Reservations Soaring

The New Boston is in a position to challenge the rest of the country for the title "Convention Center of America."

And the new Sheraton-Boston Hotel in the Prudential Center is a primary reason why the Bay State capital can present powerful arguments.

The hotel, first and largest to be built in Boston in 38 years, is booked as a meeting place as far ahead as 1975, the total business assigned to it in this category alone, now totaling $12 million.

The importance of these statistics, says Sheraton-Boston director of sales Joseph McCarthy, is that, in general, they represent business which Boston never captured before. "For the simple reason that the facilities were not available."

The Sheraton-Boston will have banquet facilities for groups as large as 2,000 with conference facilities. Individual meeting rooms will serve groups of from 25 to 200. The auditorium has space for 400 with translation rooms featuring equipment for interpreting 10 languages. "We see Boston as a major assembly point for international meetings," says McCarthy.

Between April and December of this year alone, Sheraton-Boston bookings will bring 61,000 people to the city.

Director Slavet of ABCD Urges Senate Committee to Continue Vital Aid to Youth

Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet of Action for Boston Community Development, Incorporated, the organization designated by Mayor Collins to coordinate the work of various public and private agencies concerned with social problems as well as the antipoverty war in Boston appeared before an important U.S. Senate subcommittee on April 8.

Director Slavet went before the employment and manpower subcommittee of the Senate subcommittee on Labor and Public Welfare. He argued for extension of the Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Offenses Control Act of 1961.

"My purpose is to record Boston's support including that of Mayor Collins, who is on ABCD's executive committee and board of directors for S-1566, which would extend the Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Offenses Control Act of 1961," he told the committee.

"I am also here," he continued, "to describe what ABCD has done with the funds made available under the Act and with the other public and private resources which the juvenile delinquency grants helped to generate.

"Under the Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Offenses Control Act, ABCD has received a planning grant of $159,400, a demonstration grant of $704,071, which covered about one third of the first-year costs of carrying out the three-year Boston Youth Opportunities Project, which is what we call the action-research demonstration phase of ABCD's overall program. Our second-year grant, to help implement the second year of the demonstration, is expected before the end of the month.

Broad Attack

"While the Boston Youth Opportunities Project is a delinquency prevention and control program of considerable scale, it is but one aspect of ABCD's broad attack on Boston's social problems, an attack which parallels the comprehensive war on physical blight taking place through urban renewal.

"The objective of the Boston Youth Opportunities Project is to test ways of reducing the volume and seriousness of criminal-type behavior on the part of male youth from 12 through 16 years of age living in the South End, Roxbury and Charlestown sections of Boston as reflected in the official records of the principal law enforcement agencies—the police, the courts and the Massachusetts Youth Service Board.

"To meet this objective, more than a dozen programs were designed, divided roughly into categories of education, employment and community services. Most of these are in operation.

From its very beginning, ABCD was designed to function as a stimulus and a resource to other public and private agencies and to cooperate with them in the development of new programs. Only when other alternatives were not possible or available was ABCD itself to function as a direct-service agency. This was based on the operating principle that demonstration and experimental programs should, if at all possible, be administered by an established agency which would assume permanent responsibility if a program proved effective and worth continuing."

(Mr. Slavet's analysis of the progress and problems in carrying into operation the programs that comprise Boston's Youth Opportunities Project will be contained in subsequent issues of the City Record.)

Lily's Poor Relations

The Easter lily is a product of crossbreeding and reflects years of hybridization. Much of the early work, according to an accompanying label, took place in Bermuda where the ancestral lily was brought from its native Japan. Further crossbreeding resulted in dozens of varieties available today. Among the lily's close relatives are tulips, hyacinths, onions, and asparagus.

Income vs. R. E. Tax

A statistician has come up with the assertion that property taxes have increased twice as fast as personal incomes in the last decade.

Another asserts that apprehension over tax trends is holding back many prospective home buyers.

This apprehension springs not so much from present tax rates as from the steady climb of property taxes over the past decade and uncertainty over the future trend.

Of course there is little logic in postponing the purchase of a home because of rising taxes, for the individual who does so obviously has to live somewhere and rising taxes will pursue him whether he is a tenant or an owner.

However, as we have said before, property taxes can be brought under control through proposed legislation which aims at broadening the tax base and taking real estate out of the category of a catch-all for all sorts of tax burdens.

But the legislation will not go through automatically. It will take a lot of prodding by present and prospective property owners.

And the time is now.

All told, Boston's rebuilding and revitalization program may affect 25 percent of the city's 31-square-mile area and 50 percent of its 700,000 population. Mayor Collins estimates that by 1975 the massive expenditure in public and private funds will total $2 billion.

"We don't want historians to say the people of Boston almost pulled themselves up by the bootstraps in this century," Collins told "Newsweek's" Jayne Brumley last week. "We want them to say that they did."

The Big C's

It wasn't only a matter of tradition and opposition to change that brought on Boston's 50-year decline. The city's economic base crumbled with the departure of the textile mills and the dying up of the shipping business. And it was a city of corrupt politics and warring factions. Boston badly needed a catalyst to pull its diverse elements together, and it got one in Mayor Collins. A big, sunny, brusquely decisive man who was crippled by polio ten years ago, Collins rode a wheelchair into office with a couple of distinct advantages. As a hopeless underdog, he incurred few political debts. And old guard Boston had just elected the distinguished lawyer Charles A. Coolidge president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Coolidge, an aristocratic and amiable 70, helped Collins build a bridge over the historic sea of distrust that separated the Brahmins from what former Mayor James M. Curley used to refer to as "that downtrodden majority, the Boston Irish." As Coolidge recalled last week, the first planks in the bridge were laid during a series of Boston College seminars designed to "get the people who owned Boston on speaking terms with the people who ran Boston."

The New Breed

Collins, quick to take advantage of that kind of thinking, asked Coolidge and the Chamber of Commerce to take on the preliminary planning for the new waterfront, and to pay for it. It did. In his turn, the mayor underlined the fact that there was a new breed in City Hall by reversing the upward trend of Boston's staggering real estate tax, by far the highest of any major city in the country, and twice that of New York or Chicago. This is at least partly because of the city's pride—its seats of learning—does not pay taxes. In fact 42 percent of all Boston land is in the hands of universities or other tax-free institutions.

But the Mayor's key move was to call on Edward J. Logue to run the Boston Redevelopment Authority. Logue, a youthful Philadelphia Irishman who made a name for himself in New Haven, Conn., as an ingenious urban renewer, demanded and got czar-like power over all city planning plus a salary of $30,000—$10,000 more than the Mayor earns.

Boston seems to have gotten a bargain and a colorfully controversial citizen to boot. At 43, Logue is a vigorous, forceful man who glories in political brawls and has a temper as quick as his smile. Asked about the temper, he laughs and says: "I express positions rather strongly when people who said they're going to perform fail miserably . . . it's my job to be impatient and it wouldn't be any job at all if I weren't."

Impatient as he is, Logue has patiently gathered around him a team of bright, young planners, 475 in all, which makes it the largest staff of its kind in the country. Logue's exhaustive knowledge of urban-renewal laws and his own inventiveness have corralled $167 million worth of Federal funds for Boston. Despite a late start, it is now outranked in Federal urban aid only by New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago. And Logue calculates that for every government dollar spent, there should be at least five times as much private capital generated. So far, he has been exactly right.

Fast Start

There was no lack of private or public planning when Logue arrived in Boston in 1960. The Prudential Insurance Company of America had been negotiating with the city fathers for five years over its new center, but the project didn't begin to move until Collins and Logue bulled it through.

Before the Collins-Logue team was formed, planners made heavy use of the bulldozer when an extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike was pushed into the heart of the city. In the long process, a couple of small, dismal neighborhoods—Castle Square and New York streets—were leveled with little fuss.

Then the bulldozers moved in on the West End, a physically rundown but pleasant neighborhood lying between the foot of Beacon Hill and the Charles River. The low-income residents were chased out to make way for a string of undistinguished, luxury apartments. The West End is still cited as one of the horror stories of urban renewal.

The Experts

Logue has tried to change all that with a program that calls for minimum clearance. "It's a hell of a lot more fun to plan a neighborhood with the people who live in it than to plan it for them as if you knew best," he says.

At the moment his program is working well in Roxbury, the city's huge Negro ghetto. But whatever comes of neighborhood renewal in Boston may well hinge on the tough, old riverfront area known as Charlestown.

Except for a few blocks in the vicinity of Bunker Hill, most of the area is drab, dreary, and decaying. But the Irish have deep roots there, and they can look across the river to the scarred plain that is West End. When Logue tried to bring his "Planning With People" program to Charlestown two years ago, he was promptly thrown out.

Since then, the Boston Redevelopment Authority has been busy

Police Experts to Meet Here May 13-15

Some of the nation's leading law enforcement figures meet in Boston May 13-15 to discuss civil rights demonstrations, adverse court decisions, and other matters of growing concern to police departments.

They will be among the speakers at a three-day long Northeastern University seminar entitled "The Police Crisis: 1965" to be held in the Statler Hilton.

The seminar, one of the first of its kind is being offered by N.U.'s Department of Law Enforcement and Security.

Speakers will include:

Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins of Atlanta, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police; Quinn Tamm, Washington, executive director of that association, who directed a study of the Boston Police Department several years ago; Carl W. Belcher, chief of the general crime section of the criminal division of the U.S. Department of Justice; John Shanley, supervising assistant chief inspector of the New York City Police Department; Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary of Philadelphia; Harry Taylor, assistant chief inspector with the New York City Police Department; who was responsible for police operations during the Harlem riots last year; Deputy Chief Inspector of the New York City Police Department, dean of administration and police science at the College of Police Science, The City University of New York.

Chief Taylor and Commissioner Leary will be opening day speakers. The former will discuss "Preparing For and Handling Riots: A New Concept in Police-Community Relations."

Commissioner Leary will speak on "The Policeman: A Forgotten Man."

Tamm and Chiefs Murphy, Jenkins, and Shanley will be second-day speakers.

Tamm will deliver a luncheon address on "Police Problems and Solutions: A National Concern."

Murphy will speak on "In-Service Police Training" while Jenkins will discuss "Civil Rights Training For Police Officers."

Chief Shanley's talk will be on "Organized Crime: What It Is and What To Do About It."

Belcher will be the speaker at the closing session of the seminar, discussing "The Federal Government Looks At The Problem: A Special Message From Washington."

Other important police figures who will take part in a number of group discussions of police problems include Deputy Superintendent John J. Bonner of the Boston Police Department, Dr. James J. Brennan, professor of the School of Police Administration and Public Safety of Michigan State University; Brother Aquinas Thomas, chairman of the Institute of Forensic Research, Manhattan College; and Dr. Sheldon Glueck, Roscoe Pound professor of law, emeritus, at Harvard Law School.

soft-selling the residents on a $40 million plan that would relocate the old elevated tracks that led to the neighborhood's decline while salvaging 90 percent of the area's existing homes.

There is little doubt, however, that most of Boston supports Collins and Logue. And the spirit of the new Boston has begun to infect others. The Christian Science Church, which owns several blocks of deteriorating property near the Prudential Center, has hired architect I. M. Pei to work out a vast renewal program for the area. And the giant First National Bank of Boston may soon announce plans for a new downtown headquarters, even though some outside consultants wonder if the city can find enough tenants for all its new office space. The First National doesn't seem a bit worried.

President Ellis Hails Great Rehabilitation Progress Achieved at BCH in Recent Years

The other day I was thumbing through that excellent historical work published in connection with our Centennial. I came across a bit of humor. (I'll have to disagree with you if you think humor has no place in history.)

After all, one of the reasons which made Abraham Lincoln so appealing was his remark about Grant and whiskey when things weren't going so well at the White House.

The reference in the City Hospital history which intrigued me was that which told of ways and means by which staff members tried and apparently succeeded in getting around the will of the hospital board of trustees now and then. That was 50 years ago.

Times have changed, of course. Or have they?

Recently my son was telling me how one of his classmates up at Dartmouth had sought to hoodwink one of the old professors. I didn't tell him but the same gimmick was being tried 'way back in my own days up at Dartmouth—and probably long before that.

Best Hospital

Seriously, I don't think that from its origin 100 years ago, there has been a time in the history of Boston City Hospital when those concerned with its operation and administration—whether trustees or interns; top executives or file clerks—did not share one thought concerning the hospital.

They wanted the best hospital possible.

That thought has been the dominant factor in the history of Boston City Hospital for 100 years.

It was exactly that reasoning which motivated the Board of Trustees some 40 years ago when they voted to accept the gift provided in the will of the late George L. Thorndike for the establishment of the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory.

Under terms of that will the first clinical research laboratory of importance anywhere in the United States and possibly in the world came into being.

Certainly, there were those who at that time questioned the wisdom of that step. Was it worthwhile? Would it work out?

In the early months of its operation those given to doubt were silenced. Indeed, in the earliest days of its operation Thorndike Memorial Laboratory carried out in glorious fashion the predictions made for it by such men as Dr. William O. Mayo of Rochester, Minnesota, and many other authorities.

Proud Records

Thorndike and Harvard have every reason for pride in the record written for all to see during the last 40 years. The name of Thorndike is known wherever medicine is practiced all over the world. Its association with Boston City Hospital has helped it to give the world 100 full or associate professors for medical schools across the nation.

That fact alone could well justify its creation and its expansion.

But Thorndike's tremendous contribution to patient care, to medical research and medical education cannot be measured alone in terms of cold statistics.

Its record is written in human terms, not mere figures; in actual progress against disease and human ailments not alone in print in the heavy tomes of science.

Someone has said you can't build a hospital merely with mortar and brick and beds. You also need men. Men and women of dedication and God-given talents.

Another ingredient—another element, if you will—is called dollars. In our case—taxpayers' dollars.

There has been no one closer to the work of Boston City Hospital than our Mayor—the Hon. John F. Collins. There has been no one more interested in its fight against the tide of decadence that has threatened its physical well-being for years.

No one knows better than he the need for a revitalization of our physical resources. There never has been a time when there was any threat to our most vital human resources. We have always had the men and the women.

Millions Invested

We've spent a lot of money here at City Hospital in the last few years. In the long-range capital improvement program of the BRA extending through 1975 many more millions of dollars are being earmarked.

Most insistent in the program, which he activated when he came into office some five years ago, has been the Mayor's demands for progress at Boston City Hospital and at the same time the return of a dollar in value for every dollar expended.

I'm not going to bore you with details or statistics. Yet, I would be remiss on such an occasion as this, not to direct attention to what's been going on here at City Hospital.

Let's take a sketchy look around.

Today, the main entrance on Harrison avenue, the portal through which most people gain their first impression of the hospital, is a far cry from what it was a few years back. Gone is the gloom. Gone is the depression which long neglect had imposed.

On the opposite corner of the hospital complex is the emergency entrance on Albany street. Today it offers a sharp, effective contrast to the shoddy, inadequate facility which formerly attempted the work of this most important area.

Consider the brightness of the nurses' cafeteria today and recall the bleak cheerlessness of its immediate past.

Phenomenal Advances

Today, we have in being a central oxygen supply. Today, the ancient wiring system with all its unsightly inadequacies is nearing the completion of its modernization.

Soon the ancient tunnels which had become a trademark of the growing obsolescence of our physical plant will be replaced by a cheerful, above-ground modern all-weather passage link.

Many millions of dollars have gone into the modernization work. Ancient iron beds have been replaced. New lamps, new tables have found their way into patient and work areas.

Indeed, I could spend the rest of the afternoon detailing the great changes and the very real advances we have made in the last few years. By past standards they have been phenomenal.

I will not impose further on your time.

It Can Be Done

In conclusion let me point out that the quicksands of physical obsolescence which were developed and deepened by the years have now at last been eliminated.

We can now turn to the future with confidence born of the knowledge—"It Can Be Done."

Through the inspiration and leadership provided by Mayor Collins, a corner has been turned.

There's a lot of hard work ahead. However, City Hospital today is ready to march right along in achieving the goals of a truly great New Boston.

Edward Real

Edward Real, 50, of 49 Linwood street, Hyde Park, supervisor and head of research and statistics of the Boston Welfare Department for 26 years, died December 22 at Massachusetts General Hospital.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

December 8.

Personnel Order No. 602.

Patrolmen Martin Mulhern and Robert Faherty, District 9, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted two days' additional vacation.

On Saturday, July 11, 1964, the above officers while patrolling in a radio car about 8:20 P.M., in the vicinity of the New Market area, observed three boys acting suspiciously. Investigating further the officers found the youths in a railroad car in the rear of the Central Beef Company, and apprehended one of the boys. Investigation disclosed that they had broken into the railroad car and were cutting meat from the hinds of beef. Further investigation resulted in the apprehension of three more juveniles who were responsible for having broken into sixty-one railroad cars and eight trucks in the past seven months.

The boys had been selling the meat to a Roxbury meat market the owner of which was prosecuted in the Roxbury Court for receiving stolen property and contributing to the delinquency of minors and he was sentenced to the House of Correction.

The youths were prosecuted in the Roxbury Juvenile Court and committed to the Youth Service Board.

The Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and tireless investigative capacity of the above officers in terminating the criminal career of these youths.

December 9.

Personnel Order No. 603.

Patrolman George F. Clark, Jr., Tactical Patrol Force, is hereby detailed to report to the commanding officer of the Records and Communications Division, effective Wednesday, December 9, 1964, at 7:45 o'clock A.M., for duty until further orders.

The Boston Retirement Board having approved of same, the following-named police officer is retired from active duty under the provisions of the State-Boston Retirement System, effective as of April 7, 1964, at the close of business:

TRAFFIC AND PARKING DEPARTMENT

October 16, 1964.

Voted, That under the authority vested in this commission by General Laws, c. 90, s. 18A, as supplemental to the Traffic Rules and Regulations of the City of Boston, the following rules be, and the same hereby are, adopted, effective September 1, 1965, to regulate the use by pedestrians of ways within the control of this commission:

PEDESTRIAN CONTROL RULES.

RULE 1. Crossing of Roadways by Pedestrians. No pedestrian shall cross a roadway within three hundred feet of a police officer directing traffic at a marked crosswalk, except as directed by such police officer. Whenever there is a traffic control signal or a marked crosswalk within three hundred feet, no pedestrian shall enter upon or cross a roadway except within the limits of a marked crosswalk and in conformity with these rules unless otherwise directed by a police officer. For the purposes of these rules, "roadway" shall be construed to mean that part of a street, way, highway, road or parkway under the control of the City of Boston devoted to vehicular traffic; and "marked crosswalk," that part of a roadway reserved for pedestrian crossing located between two solid white reflectorized markings not less than six feet apart and each not less than six inches in width.

RULE 2. Pedestrian Obedience to Traffic Control Signals. Unless otherwise directed by a police officer, a pedestrian within three hundred feet of a traffic control signal shall obey the indications of such signal as follows:

(a) RED and YELLOW or "WALK": Whenever the red and yellow lenses are illuminated together or the single word "Walk" is illuminated, pedestrians facing such indication may proceed across the roadway but only in the direction of such signal.

(b) RED ALONE or "DON'T WALK": Whenever the words "Don't Walk" or any indication other than red and yellow shown together are illuminated in a traffic control signal having red and yellow or "Walk" indications, pedestrians approaching or facing such indication shall wait on the sidewalk or in the pedestrian refuge area of a traffic island and shall not enter upon or cross a roadway until the red and yellow or "Walk" indication is illuminated in the traffic control signal, but any pedestrian who has partially completed his crossing on the red and yellow or "Walk" indication shall proceed (or return) to the nearest sidewalk or safety island immediately on the yellow indication, the red indication or when the words "Don't Walk" are illuminated by rapid intermittent flashes.

(c) GREEN ALONE: At a traffic control signal having no red and yellow or "Walk" indication, pedestrians facing the signal may proceed across the roadway within any marked crosswalk in the direction of an illuminated green indication.

(d) YELLOW ALONE, RED ALONE or FLASHING "DON'T WALK": Pedestrians approaching or facing a yellow, red or flashing "Don't Walk" illuminated indication shall not start to cross a roadway.

(e) FLASHING RED, FLASHING YELLOW or FLASHING GREEN: At a traffic control signal where a flashing red, flashing yellow or flashing green indication is being given facing a crosswalk, pedestrians shall actuate, where provided, the pedestrian signal indication and cross the roadway only when the red-yellow or "Walk" indication is illuminated. If no pedestrian indication is provided, pedestrians shall cross within crosswalks with due care.

RULE 3. Pedestrian Actuation of Traffic Control Signal. At a traffic control signal having red and yellow or "Walk" indications which are illuminated only upon actuation by a pedestrian push button, no pedestrian shall cross a roadway unless or until the pedestrian push button has been actuated, and he shall then cross only when the red and yellow or "Walk" indication is illuminated. At a traffic control signal having no red and yellow or "Walk" indication, a pedestrian shall cross only when the green indication is illuminated. If the green indication is illuminated only upon actuation by a pedestrian push button, no pedestrian shall cross unless or until such button has been actuated and then only when the green indication is illuminated. No person shall actuate a pedestrian push button unless a crossing of the roadway is intended.

RULE 4. Crossing at Tunnels and Overpasses. No pedestrian shall cross a roadway within three hundred feet of a pedestrian tunnel or pedestrian overpass except by use of such tunnel or overpass or a marked crosswalk.

RULE 5. Crossing at Non-Signalized Locations. Whenever within three hundred feet of a pedestrian desiring to cross a roadway there is neither a police officer directing traffic nor a traffic control signal nor a marked crosswalk nor a pedestrian tunnel or overpass, the pedestrian shall yield the right of way to all vehicles upon the roadway and shall cross such roadway only at right angles to the sideline of such roadway.

RULE 6. Pedestrian Use of Roadway. (a) A pedestrian crossing a roadway shall yield the right of way to funeral or other processions, and to ambulances and civil defense, fire, police and like vehicles on emergency runs, and when such procession or vehicle has passed, shall cross the roadway only in conformity with these rules.

(b) No pedestrian shall leave a sidewalk or safety island and walk or run into the path of a moving vehicle which is so close that it is impossible for the driver to yield the right of way.

(c) No pedestrian shall stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride, employment or business from the operator, or any occupant, of any vehicle thereon.

(d) No pedestrian shall enter upon a marked crosswalk unless a crossing of the roadway is intended.

(e) A pedestrian crossing a roadway within a marked crosswalk shall use the half of such crosswalk to his right.

(f) A person alighting from a vehicle parked or stopped at a sideline of, or a curb in, a roadway shall alight from the side of such vehicle nearest such sideline or curb, or if he alights from the other side of such vehicle, shall proceed immediately to such sideline or curb, and in either case shall thereupon cross such roadway only in conformity with these rules.

(g) No pedestrian shall walk along the roadway of any way having a sidewalk open to pedestrian use; and no pedestrian shall walk along any other roadway except on the unfinished shoulder nearest to vehicles proceeding in the direction opposite to the pedestrian's direction.

RULE 7. Exemptions. These rules shall not apply to pedestrians actually engaged in work upon a roadway closed to travel or under construction, reconstruction or repair, or to public officers or employees, or the officers or employees of a public service corporation, upon a roadway in the performance of their duties or to a pedestrian upon a roadway in an emergency.

RULE 8. Penalties. Any person who violates any provision of these rules shall be punished as provided in Section 18A of Chapter 90 of the General Laws.

RULE 9. Provisions Severable. The provisions of these rules are hereby declared to be severable; and if any provision of any rule is invalid, such invalidity shall not affect or impair any other provision of such rule or any other rule.

INVOCATION BY REVEREND TIMOTHY McDONOUGH.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

O Lord of wisdom and of power, direct we beseech Thee, the deliberations of this Council.

Let us remember that our actions are only good and right if they are in accordance with God's will. And let us humbly ask Him to give us the light to know His will and the courage to follow it.

May we be kind in our differences, seeking always to do those things that benefit not ourselves, but that tend to serve our fellow-men and to advance God's kingdom.

PARKING METERS WHICH COULD BE IMPLEMENTED FOR STREET USE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 30, 1964.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Traffic and Parking Commissioner with reference to your resolution of November 16, 1964, relative to the number of parking meters that are presently on hand and which could be implemented immediately for street use.

Sincerely,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Traffic and Parking Department,
November 25, 1964.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

This is in reply to Council order dated November 16, 1964, which was received in this office on November 23, 1964, at 12.03 P.M., which reads as follows:

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report to the City Council within one week as to how many parking meters of all types and designs he presently has on hand and which could be implemented immediately for street use.

An investigation of our supply of parking meters shows that there is a total of 460 parking meters in this department which are in condition for street use.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS F. CARTY, Commissioner.

Placed on file.

AGREEMENT FOR ACQUISITION AND INSTALLATION OF PARKING METERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 30, 1964.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed is a communication I have received from the Commissioner of Traffic and Parking stressing the urgent need for eight thousand manually operated vandal resistant parking meters in addition to the thousand authorized by the order passed by your Honorable Body on May 11, 1964, so that once again parking may be adequately controlled in this city.

The current situation is well known to your Honorable Body. Suffice it to say, therefore, that I wholeheartedly approve the Traffic and Parking Commissioner's request.

Accordingly, I recommend that your Honorable Body adopt the accompanying order authorizing the purchase by the Traffic and Parking Commission of eight thousand parking meters under an agreement providing that payment of the purchase price is to be made over a period of five years out of receipts from the meters without appropriation by the city. You will note that the authorization is subject to G.L., c. 30, s. 39M, requiring the contract to be awarded to the lowest responsible and eligible bidder on the basis of competitive bids.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Traffic and Parking Department,
November 25, 1964.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

It is respectfully requested that the permission of the City Council be obtained for the acquisition of 8,000 parking meters and that the moneys to be used for payment shall be charged against the item "Parking Meter Fees."

It is estimated that the cost will not exceed the sum of $520,000. No cash outlay will be required inasmuch as it is possible to acquire the meters without cost and to pay for them over a period of five years from the revenue received when the meters are installed. This would mean a payment each year of approximately $104,000 from revenue received from the meters for this five-year period.

It is our intention that these meters be purchased subject to General Laws, c. 30, s. 39M, requiring that the contract be awarded to the lowest responsible and eligible bidder on the basis of competitive bid.

Our intention is to purchase vandal-resistant meters. Our experience with this type of meter for the past two years has been satisfactory and to date no case of forcible entry has occurred.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS F. CARTY, Commissioner.

Ordered, That pursuant to section 22A of chapter 40 of the General Laws, as amended, the Traffic and Parking Commission be, and hereby is, authorized, subject to section 39M of chapter 30 of the General Laws, to enter into an agreement for the acquisition and installation of eight thousand parking meters, such agreement to provide that payments thereunder to the vendor of such parking meters be made over a period not exceeding five years, without appropriation, from fees received for the use of such parking meters.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

WELFARE COSTS FOR NOVEMBER

Although direct client payments remained fairly stable, decreased medical costs led to an $80,864 drop in the November budget which, nevertheless, involved a substantial $4,379,275 outlay. The caseload, showing increases in all categories, was augmented by 278 clients with 1,307 approvals offsetting 1,029 closings. An additional 232 requests for assistance were denied.

Old Age Assistance: Depletion of resources being the major influencing factor, 152 approvals outnumbered the 141 cases closed chiefly because of death. Thus 11 cases were added to the category and the trend toward a declining O.A.A. caseload was reversed. An average payment of $88.99 resulted in a total expenditure of $1,016,817 in behalf of 11,424 clients.

Medical Assistance for Aged: The 5,520 persons, who participated in the program during November, absorbed 23.2 percent of the budget ($1,015,667). This percentage is identical with the proportion spent in behalf of more than twice as many O.A.A. clients (11,424), indicating the impact of medical expenses on departmental costs. With 259 approvals canceling out the 196 closings, the caseload continues to rise, showing an 8 percent increase over the corresponding month of a year ago.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children: Comprising an impressive majority of the department's caseload, this category with its 8,583 "parents" and 24,519 children, shows no abatement in its rising trend. With 390 approvals overbalancing 301 closings, 89 additional cases were assimilated during the month. While the $1,604,355 expended during November shows a 4.4 percent decrease below last month, it represents an increase of more than 10 percent above November, 1963, disbursements.

Disability Assistance: Both costs and caseload in this category rose during the month with hospital and nursing home services claiming the major portion of the $284,793 spent for medical care. This represents 50.2 percent of a $567,434 Disability Assistance appropriation which provided for 3,686 recipients. There were 126 approvals as against 101 closings while 44 additional applications were rejected during the month.

General Relief: With November in the vanguard, the onset of winter with its consequent reduction in outdoor job opportunities is reflected in a caseload rise from 1,950 to 2,040, a 4.6 percent increase over last month. The concomitant cost rise of $2,213 to $175,002 meant an average expenditure of $74.50 per client. Caseload activity also involved 380 newly added cases, 290 closings plus 50 rejections and voluntary withdrawals.

Police Department Orders

Personnel Order No. 604.

Patrolman William J. Keasley and Patrolman Henry Nelson, Tactical Patrol Force, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted one day additional vacation.

About 8.45 p.m., Tuesday, September 29, 1964, the above officers while patrolling in the Tactical Patrol Force radio car received a report over the radio of a handbag snatch at Columbia road and Washington street, and a description of the culprit. The officers patrolled the area and at 10 p.m., while in the vicinity of the Boston Housing Authority on Dewey street apprehended a 15-year old youth who answered the description given.

On questioning, the youth admitted the handbag snatch and took the officers to the site where he had concealed the handbag. Further investigation revealed that this youth had committed several unarmed robberies on Districts 11 and 19 during the past two months, from elderly people.

The youth was arraigned in Dorchester Juvenile Court and committed to Lyman School.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and devotion to duty shown by these officers in apprehending this youth who preyed on the elderly.

December 11.

Personnel Order No. 606.

Patrolmen Robert W. Ciccolo and George P. Gonis, District 7, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted one day additional vacation.

About 2.10 a.m., November 16, the above officers, while assigned to radio car patrol, observed a blue and white Oldsmobile, operated at a high rate of speed in Chelsea street, without lights and a safe protruding from the rear trunk. The officers pursued this car along Chelsea street, towards Chelsea and when near the center of the bridge the Oldsmobile swerved and struck an abutment. Upon approach the officers observed one of the occupants, Leo DeFreitas, 28 years, 74 Summer street, East Boston, lying on the sidewalk in an injured condition. Another occupant ran towards Chelsea. Patrolman Ciccolo chased this man, fired one shot from his revolver as a warning and overtook this second man, one Joseph Harkins, 26 years, 16 Gerrish avenue, Chelsea. On investigation a third man, Louis Sbrizzo, 35 years, of 23 Monmouth street, East Boston, was also arrested.

Investigation ascertained that these three men had broken into Clark and Mahoney's Drug Store, 254 Bennington street, East Boston, and removed the safe, containing approximately $1,700 in cash and checks from the premises.

Personnel Order No. 616.

Patrolmen Arnold James, Stephen Flaherty, and Richard Higgins, Tactical Patrol Force, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted two days' additional vacation.

About 9.20 P.M., Thursday, November 5, 1964, the above officers while patrolling District 4 in a radio car, were informed by a citizen that a robbery had taken place in Piedmont street, and a description was furnished of the perpetrator.

The officers observed a man answering this description running down Broadway in the direction of Shawmut avenue. Officers Flaherty and Higgins pursued the suspect on foot and Officer James followed in the radio car. The officers overtook him at Shawmut avenue and Broadway and on searching him found a .32 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver, fully loaded.

The suspect was identified as Thomas J. Mullen, 22 years, of 22 High street, Wilmington, Mass.

Further investigation disclosed that the suspect had approached Frank Mazzeo, night manager of the Winchester Street garage, with his hand in his pocket, as though he had a gun and said, "Don't move or I'll kill you." Mullen then took the above .32 caliber revolver from Mazzeo as well as a sum of money, and fled.

Mullen was arraigned in Boston Municipal Court and received an indeterminate sentence to the Concord Reformatory.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and devotion to duty displayed by the officers in the apprehension of this dangerous felon.

December 30.

Personnel Order No. 618.

Patrolman John Usher, District 4, and Patrolmen Stephen J. Murphy and Charles I. Ganimian, Tactical Patrol Force, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted two days' additional vacation.

About 12.40 A.M., Saturday, November 14, 1964, the above officers while in the vicinity of 21 Essex street, Boston, observed a group of five or six males in an apparent argument in front of 25 Essex street, city. Suddenly one of the group stepped back and fired four or five shots from a gun at another of the group.

The officers immediately pursued the assailant, who fled into a parking lot nearby and he was overtaken about 40 feet into the parking lot. Patrolman Murphy ordered the culprit to halt and when he whirled around and pointed his gun at Patrolman Murphy, the officer fired one shot in his direction, whereupon the assailant threw his gun to the ground and raised his hands. He was identified as William Connerty, 24 years, of 54 West Newton street, Boston, and was arrested S.P. of Assault with intent to murder. When searched he was found to have twelve .45 caliber bullets in his pockets. He was arraigned in Boston Municipal Court and held in $50,000 for the grand jury.

The victim, Donald King, 30 years, of 387 Salem street, Malden, was assisted to the Boston City Hospital, suffering from penetrating wounds of abdomen and buttocks and placed on the danger list.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and courage of the officers in pursuing and apprehending this dangerous felon.

December 30.

Personnel Order No. 619.

Detective Linsky and Patrolman Casey overtook and subdued the other suspect. The stolen property was recovered intact.

Further investigation disclosed that one of these youths was identified as the perpetrator of a recent armed robbery and assault with a knife.

They were arraigned in Boston Municipal Court and sentenced.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and courage displayed by the officers in the apprehension of these dangerous felons.

3 ABCD Appointments

Appointment of Paul R. Mico as supervisor of health planning for Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., was announced by ABCD Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet.

Mico will be responsible for designing and negotiating health programs under the Boston Youth Opportunities Project and other projects sponsored by ABCD and will serve as the staff representative to the Subcommittee on Health of the ABCD Board of Directors.

A graduate of Ohio State University in California, where he also earned his master's degree, he was for three years director of health education in the Wyoming Department of Public Health. He was also field director of a health education project with the Navajo Indians and, since 1962, has been director of Community Action Studies, National Commission on Community Health Services.

Slavet also announced the appointment of Frank Castro, Jr., as project research director for the evaluation of multiservice centers in Charlestown, Roxbury, and the South End. The centers, operated respectively by the boards of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Center and the Roxbury Multiservice Center and by United South End Settlements, Inc., house a variety of health, educational, employment, legal, and social welfare services. They will be evaluated to determine to what extent they constitute an improvement over the way such services are currently provided.

Castro was most recently research associate with the Interdepartmental Neighborhood Service Center in New York City. He also has teaching and research experience at Indiana University and research experience with the Department of Police administration at the university and he has been research assistant in training for the Psychological Corporation and a social investigator with the New York City Department of Welfare.

He is a graduate of the City College of New York and earned his master's degree from Indiana University.

A third appointment was that of John W. Schaut as administrative assistant for administration and central services at ABCD.

A graduate of the University of Florida, where he received his master's degree, Schaut has been administrative assistant in the business office of the university and was an instructor of history and political science at a junior college in that state.

He has 10 years of administrative experience in business.

Many Risk Tetanus

A random sampling of blood specimens in Massachusetts during 1964 revealed that many citizens over 30 were not protected against diphtheria and that more women than men over age 20 were definitely susceptible to tetanus infection.

Blood samples used in the survey were obtained from those received weekly by the State Health Department's Institute of Laboratories for premarital and other diagnostic tests. The immunity levels were based on the protective level of immune antibodies found in the blood samples.

There was small but definite evidence of improvement in the level of immunity over a tetanus survey made under similar conditions in 1954. Relative to the higher level of protection against tetanus among men, the authors related this to their greater involvement in military service. The risk to males usually was seen after age 50 and upwards in contrast to age 20 for women. In both sexes protection against diphtheria over age 30 appeared to be borderline or below.

Worth-While Gift

Miss Mildred Kaufman, Branch Librarian, received a delightful surprise recently when the Friends of the Mattapan Branch Library presented the Branch with a new seventy-five-cup automatic coffee maker. Several years ago the Friends had given a similar gift, holding thirty cups. In the meantime, the Branch's public programs have come to be so enthusiastically received and so well attended that every announcement has had to be accompanied by a frantic search for additional coffee makers. Fortunately, this will no longer be necessary.

In a letter to the President, Mrs. Robert Rotman, Milton E. Lord, Director, BPL, expressed his appreciation for the gift and commended the "Friends" for the "vigor of their program" and their "sustained interest in the well-being of the Branch."

Decoration For Tobin

Lieut. William G. Tobin, Jr., USA, son of the Assistant Superintendent, stationed with the Airborne Brigade in South Vietnam, was recently decorated by the Vietnamese and the American governments for heroism. Lieut. Tobin, a graduate of Boston Latin School and the Military Academy at West Point, received the Purple Heart for wounds received in action, was awarded the Cross of Valor of the Vietnamese, and was decorated by General Westmoreland, Commander of the U. S. Forces, with the Bronze Star.

E.B.H.S. Project Tops

For the third time since 1960, a student organization at East Boston High School has won acclaim from the Massachusetts Secondary School Principals' Association and the Massachusetts Department of Education. The award which is presented to school for distinguished service to the community is given to only seven high schools in the state annually.

The citation was earned this year by the boys of the school's Key Club. The two previous awards came as a result of work by Pro Schola, a girls' organization.

Supervisor of Personnel.

DEAR SIR:

As provided in Rule 5 (e) of the Compensation Plan for the employees of the Department of School Buildings of City of Boston, I wish to request an extraordinary step-rate increment for Joseph F. Dwyer, principal heating and ventilating engineer, Grade SBD 16, in this department.

Mr. Dwyer was appointed permanent principal heating and ventilating engineer on March 16, 1964, after serving in a provisional capacity from December 26, 1962, to March 15, 1964.

Mr. Dwyer has more than forty years' experience as a consulting engineer and contractor in the heating and ventilating field—outstanding qualifications for the position of principal heating and ventilating engineer.

It is requested that because of Mr. Dwyer's prior qualified service, his 2½- and 3½-year service step rates in the position of principal heating and ventilating engineer be determined under Paragraph (e) of Rule 5 of the School Buildings Department Compensation Plan to become effective on December 9, 1964.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM A. MCPHERSON,
Superintendent of Construction.

No Maternal Deaths During 1964 As Boston Sets New Health Record

Boston set a public health record in 1964.

"For the first time in Boston's history, the maternal death rate dropped to zero," said Dr. John T. Foley, Health Director, in a year-end review of the city's health statistics.

"Not a single maternal death occurred in a total of 14,040 live births and 203 still births," he continued. "This attests to the excellent care extended to Boston mothers by the city's health facilities."

Other statistics show:

A slight decline in the number of resident deaths and births. Resident deaths from all causes totaled 9,317 in 1964 and 9,425 in 1963. During the year, 25,044 babies were born in Boston. Of this number, resident births totaled 14,040 live and 203 still.

A slight drop in the number of deaths from tuberculosis—only 70 in 1964 as compared to 82 in 1963.

The five leading causes of death in Boston during 1964 continued to be heart disease, cancer, vascular lesions of the central nervous system, diseases of the arteries, and all types of accidents.

For the fifth successive year there were no resident deaths from polio.

BHA Aids Fire Victims

A total of 23 of the 30 families left homeless by the recent Hammond street, Roxbury, fire, have found new homes in public housing developments.

The Authority staff, headed by Chief James H. Crowley of the Tenant Selection Office, working out of temporary headquarters at the Red Cross shelter in the Robert Gould Shaw House, relocated 21 of the families in their new apartments by New Year's Eve.

The families, including 38 adults and 32 minors, have been housed in apartments of one to four bedrooms in Franklin Field, Franklin Hill Avenue, Heath Street, Bromley Park, Mission Hill, Mission Hill Extension, Orchard Park, Lenox Street, and Orient Heights.

The displaced families who meet the requirements for residence in public housing are eligible to remain as tenants, Chairman Edward D. Hassan of the Boston BHA declared.

Chamber To Explore Means of Bringing 1975 World's Fair to Boston

An internationally known research firm has been named to conduct a marketing study for the proposed 1975 World's Fair for Boston marking the 200th anniversary of the start of America's fight for freedom.

The selection of Arthur D. Little, Inc., of Cambridge, was announced January 10, by President Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The firm will start immediately on a four-month survey of the assets and support available in metropolitan Boston, Massachusetts, and other New England States. The appraisal will help determine whether the Chamber's 1975 World Freedom Fair of Boston, Inc., will submit a formal application to the U. S. Department of Commerce for consideration. Codirectors of the A. D. L. study are Bruce B. White and Harry G. Foden.

The federal government, Hood said, intends to support a Bicentennial Exposition in the United States in the years 1975 and 1976.

The study is based on the assumption that the federal government's participation will cover two major objectives:

1. Regenerating the interest and awareness of United States citizens in their heritage of freedom and democracy which had its start in 1775; and
2. Strengthening the ties that exist between the United States and other countries — ties that are most strongly founded on common interest in basic principles of individual liberty and democratic government.

Key Figures Sounded

Interviewers will sample the interest and support of state and local government agencies, financial organizations, labor groups and construction firms, transportation, utility and other services, educational and other institutions, hotels, motels and other housing facilities, foundations, societies and business organizations.

Potential exhibitors and participants including business organizations and government agencies in the United States and other countries also will be contacted.

The study will seek out key figures in government and industry whose opinions will probably influence and help shape the final plans for the exposition.

Included will be a description of important sites, buildings and other landmarks in Greater Boston that would have a role in the fair through their relationship to important events in 1775 and 1776.

Planning commissions and individuals in the area will be contacted to develop a description of logical sites for exhibits, amusements, and service facilities.

NO ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE IN THIS STUDY TO PIN-POINT ACTUAL SITE SELECTION, Hood emphasized.

"It will constitute a determination of the availability of sites that are physically adequate in terms of size and accessibility.

"We are bearing in mind, too, the federal government's interest in the use of exposition funds to create, at least in part, facilities of permanent value," he said.

To Report in May

The study will summarize the most significant competitive strengths and weaknesses of Boston versus the other most logical sites. Considered will be such factors as historical importance, accessibility, physical capacity for housing and intra-city transportation.

Other considerations for exposition attractions are sports events, entertainment, and educational programs.

An oral presentation of findings will be made in early May followed by a written report one month later.

W. T. Doyle Reappointed

William T. Doyle, deputy commissioner and secretary of the Boston Traffic and Parking Department, has been reappointed to a full three-year term on the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Doyle is a member of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, the American Public Works Association, and the American Legion.

During his prior service on the Planning Council, Doyle served as a member of the Legislative Committee and the Technical Advisory Group on Population.

He is a resident of 50 St. Theresa avenue, West Roxbury.

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council was created in 1963 and is charged with the development of a comprehensive planning process for the Boston metropolitan region.

The Chamber in May, 1963, formed the 1975 World Freedom Fair of Boston Corporation to act as the official organization to develop a calendar of progress and to submit the required application to the federal government for consideration as an exposition site in that year. Hood is also president of the fair corporation.

Seek Regional Backing

Last August, Hood and James G. Kelso, Chamber executive vice-president, met in Washington with U. S. Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges and Ralph A. Bergsten, director of the Commerce Department's office of international trade promotion. Outlined were the criteria basic to formal application filing. Secretary Hodges said a Presidential Blue Ribbon Committee will be established to review all applications and to nominate the community or communities which the federal government will support for a fair.

Hood said early local, state and regional backing is necessary to move the project ahead.

The fair has the enthusiastic endorsement of Mayor John F. Collins of Boston and the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The BRA will finance half the cost of the study.

Santa in January

Mayor John F. Collins last week proved Santa Claus' bounty to child en—particularly to sick and crippled child en—isn't limited to December 25. At his direction more than 1,000 toys of top quality and workmanship were distributed to the child en's wards of the city's hospitals.

The toys were one of the big attractions of the recent Christmas Festival on the Common.

Sharing in the distribution were Boston City Hospital, Massachusetts General, Joseph P. Kennedy Memorial, Boston Floating, Behr Israel, Nazareth, Home for Italian Children, and the New England Home for Little Wanderers.

Handling the delivery of the toys under direction of Festival Director Paul Hines were George Bouillier of the Park Department, long interested in the Boy Scout movement, and Joseph McKeen, the Festival's electrical supervisor.

Aid For Skid Row

A new center to help persons in Boston's South End, with particular emphasis on problem drinkers, will soon become a reality, it was announced January 8.

The center, a nonresidential facility, will be temporarily located in Dover street, near Albany, and will be operated by the Division of Psychiatry of the Boston University Medical Center in cooperation with the Massachusetts Department of Health Division of Alcoholism.

Funds for the first few months of operation for the clinic, which will serve as a screening center for unattached persons of the area, will be supplied by the Action for Boston Community Development, Inc.

Although considerable emphasis will be placed on aiding the alcoholic and alienated people, the new facility will also be concerned with their multiple social and physical problems.

The announcement of the Center drew praise from Mayor John F. Collins, who termed it "a core around which a battery of programs can be established to aid the unfortunate men and women in the South End to find new life and hope.

"We cannot in good conscience withhold the hand of assistance from those less fortunate than ourselves," he continued. "Our city can be proud that its institutions are joining in this effort. This is an important part of the over-all renewal of our city."

ABCD Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet declared the center's importance lies not so much in the number of persons it will service—about 400 in the first year—but what can be learned in the process.

At the beginning, the center's staff will diagnose and refer patients to proper sources. But in the future, an unusual aspect of the operation will be the finding and use of housing resources for the so-called "skid row" population.

Northeastern Grant

A National Science Foundation grant of $900,000 has been received by Northeastern University for use toward construction of a physics and electrical engineering research building, Dr. Asa S. Knowles, president, announced January 10.

The grant is the largest ever received by Northeastern for expansion of facilities. The university must match it, he said.

A $2.2 million research building was included in the institution's diamond anniversary development program, and the growth of doctoral programs at Northeastern has emphasized the need for such a facility, he added.

Hero Officer Felled

Patrolman Remi Kennedy, 37, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for smoke inhalation when he collapsed after alerting the occupants of a burning Commonwealth Avenue apartment building.

Kennedy raced through the smoke-filled halls of 1415 Commonwealth avenue and pounded on doors to wake the occupants.

Thirty persons fled the fire that was confined to a third-floor apartment. Another 60 persons were evacuated from nearby apartments.

Damage to the building was estimated at $5,000.

Be particularly careful this winter when you drive on bridges and overpasses. The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles warns that they can be accident traps for unwary drivers. While melting snow may have disappeared from most of the roadway, bridge surfaces exposed to the cold below may still be slippery.

Holiday Business Up

Greater Boston's business activity index for December reached an estimated 5.5 percent over the total business volume recorded for December, 1963, according to an economic research report of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Higher employment, more factory hours worked, increased banking activity, and exceptional Christmas sales combined to end the year on a record economic level.

From the 1st to the 26th of December, department store sales ran 6 percent over the same period in 1963.

As predicted at the Chamber's year-end business conference in early December, a strong business economy for Greater Boston will continue for the better part of 1965.

New GI Insurance Plan

Congress has passed a new law effective May 1, 1965, which will give certain veterans an opportunity to purchase new Government Life Insurance, or increase any existing Government Insurance they now have, to a maximum of $10,000. To be eligible, they must have served on active duty on or after October 8, 1940, and prior to January 1, 1957. In addition, the veteran must be in one of the following health categories:

1. Have a service-connected disability and be insurable per VA standards. This category will include many veterans with a so-called "0%" service-connected disability who are not receiving VA compensation.

2. Be uninsurable by VA standards because of a service-connected disability but be otherwise in good health.

3. Be unable to purchase commercial life insurance at the highest rates because of a non-service connected disability. A good example could be a veteran with a severe heart condition which was not caused by his service and, because of it, cannot buy life insurance at any cost.

New Plan

Those veterans who presently have Government Life Insurance also have the option of converting to a new insurance plan called "Modified Life."

Eligible veterans may apply for this insurance starting May 1, 1965, and not later than May 2, 1966. Applications will not be available until April of 1965. Veterans who are receiving VA disability compensation or who already have an active Government Insurance account will be contacted by the VA directly. All other veterans who feel they are eligible and are interested may be placed on the VA mailing list by writing, visiting or calling the Contact Officer, Veterans Administration Regional Office, One Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02108, Telephone—Lafayette 3-8600, Extension 258 or 259. If you write, please make sure your name, address, and date of birth are legible. Once on the mailing list, VA will forward pertinent information and the application as soon as available, which may not be until April, 1965.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, December 7, 1964.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Almighty and merciful God, infinite source of hope and strength for the souls of all men everywhere, qualify these Thy servants for the responsibilities of this day in the Council of our city. The venerable city is bedecked with lights and holly to hail once more the coming of God in human form to undertake the redemption of all men from the fetters and bonds of human frailty. His example and his teaching are our only hope. May He be our inspiration here in our efforts to help others—especially those who have a special claim upon us—the city dwellers who live, work, stay night and day within the borders of the city. We ask Thy benediction and favor upon the millions who come to the city to earn a living and then depart—who drive through it, fly over it—the commercial Bostonian, from 9 to 5, Monday to Friday. Bless them, guide them, prosper them. But our principal concern is for the almost forgotten Bostonian—the city dweller—whose life and whose love is part of Boston. Bless them with ever-increasing blessings. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

The meeting was opened with salute to the Flag.

ORDINANCE CONCERNING THE SALARIES OF OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF CERTAIN DEPARTMENTS OF THE CITY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1964.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Submitted to your Honorable Body herewith is an ordinance designed to adjust the salaries of officers in charge of certain departments of the city so as to keep them at a suitable level above their subordinates who benefited from last year's revision of the city's general compensation plan while the department heads' salaries remained unchanged. The accompanying ordinance does not endeavor to raise department heads' salaries to the levels recommended in July, 1961, by a report of the Boston Municipal Research Bureau after extensive study of the matter, a copy of which report is transmitted herewith.

Also enclosed is a schedule tabulating the ordinance establishing the current rate of each salary affected, the amount of such current rate, and the rate proposed in the accompanying ordinance.

Since the adjustments involved are long overdue, I recommend early adoption of the accompanying ordinance.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

ORDINANCE CONCERNING THE SALARY OF THE CITY COUNCILLORS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1964.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

G. L., c. 29, 6A, provides that notwithstanding contrary provisions of the city charter, members of the City Council shall receive for their service such salary as the City Council shall by ordinance determine. The current $5,000 annual salary which, since January 7, 1952, has been paid City Councillors under the Plan A Charter cannot today be said to be commensurate with either the dignity or the duties of the office of City Councillor elected at large under the Plan A Charter. Consequently, I am recommending adoption of the ordinance transmitted herewith, which, effective January 4, 1965, would make the annual salary of the President of the City Council $8,000, and of the other City Councillors $7,500.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-four.

POWER OF CITY COUNCIL TO EXCEED 22 WARDS IN REDRAWING WARD LINES.

The following was received:

Law Department, December 7, 1964.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

You call to attention that G. L., c. 54, s. 1, empowers you during the current month of December to make a new division of Boston's territory "into such number of wards as may be fixed by law." You inquire, as I understand it, what number of wards are fixed by law.

At the outset, I must emphasize that the answer to this question is not free from doubt. However, reading St. 1875, c. 243, s. 1, with St. 1876, c. 242, s. 1, and St. 1911, c. 469, s. 6, I am of the opinion that the number of wards fixed by law is twenty-six, no more no less. Both St. 1914, c. 630, which fixed the number of wards as not less than twenty-four nor more than thirty-six and St. 1924, c. 410, s. 2, which fixed the number of wards as not more than thirty-six, were specifically limited by their terms to their respective years 1914 and 1924.

Respectfully,

ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

LEGISLATION TO EXTEND TIME LIMIT ON REDRAWING OF WARDS.

In regard to the Council order dated November 23, 1964, addressed to the Board of Trustees of the Boston City Hospital, please be advised that at the direction of Mr. William Ellis, Chairman, the painting of the Honorable James M. Curley has been restored to its original position in the waiting room of the Boston City Hospital Administration Building.

The painting was removed during the renovations of the lobby and waiting room in order to preserve it from any possible damage. The painting was in very poor condition and needed to be refurbished. We have therefore had the oil painting retouched and have also had the frame reinforced and regilded.

We regret the length of time it took to have this painting restored and that it was necessary for the Council to take action to accelerate its restoration to its original position.

COMMUNICATION FROM HOUSE OF CORRECTION EMPLOYEES.

The following was received:

American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

Local Union Name — Penal Department,
No. 419.

Raymond Wallace, Secretary, Deer Island,
Winthrop, Mass.

December 7, 1964.

Hon. John J. Tierney,
President, Boston City Council.

My dear Councillor:

As President of Local 419, AFL-CIO, Penal Department, Deer Island, I wish to present to the Council Body several discriminatory factors that the one hundred and five officers at Deer Island are, and have been subjected to for some years. We certainly comprehend the present plight of the city financially speaking but in justice to the employees here, we wish to bring to your attention the many discrepancies that now exist. Traditionally we have been paid comparably with the Boston Police and Fire Departments but far below the standard set up by the State Correctional system. There were some changes made by the recent Jacobs Survey, but we feel that a further study should be inaugurated to rectify their errors.

At the present time we have 605 inmates, which is average as against the population of Walpole 534, Concord 449, Bridgewater 833, Deer Island is not considered maximum security legally, yet our population consists of 25 percent recidivist who have been in maximum security institutions, and 20 percent here at the present time are under twenty-one years of age. This of course disproves the popular theory that we only have the mild type inmates serving time at this Island institution. Assuredly they are only committed on misdemeanors but the pure fact remains that 25 percent have at one time or another done maximum security time elsewhere. We take the same Civil Service examination as the State Correction Officers, assume the same type hazards, but do not receive the same monetary or fringe benefits.

The "longevity law" as it applies to us is another factor that should be studied and rectified. At the present time any officer hired from the Civil Service list must wait sixteen years before reaching maximum salary as against the State system which is seven years and the Boston Police and Fire Departments which is three years.

Recently in an examination for Correction Officer for Deer Island approximately 27 were examined and 4 passed, thus bringing forcibly to the Council that this job no longer appeals to the career-minded man. This can be traced directly to the many inequities that exist in this department. Under normal conditions several hundred would have applied and there would have been an established list to call from in the event that any would have been needed. As it is now we must call civilians without any previous experience to fill the gap that apathy and discrimination have enveloped us in.

Sirs, we wish to place a request before the County Commissioners for a more comprehensive study and revision of the present situation as it now exists at Deer Island and that necessary adjustments commensurate with the work and hazards involved be thoroughly studied. We sincerely hope this will be one of your first tasks and your Honorable Body will and can be assured all the cooperation necessary in this long ignored matter. We most earnestly desire your help and ask your indulgence to this end. With kind personal regards I am,

LEO J. PITTS,
President, Local 419, AFL-CIO, Penal Department,
Deer Island.

INVOCATION BY THE REVEREND
JOHN RICHARDSON.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Let us pray:

Heavenly Father during this holy season when once again we celebrate the feast of the birth of your divine Son, grant that the spirit of peace promised by the angels to men of good will, might permeate our minds and hearts, helping us to see and understand our problems more clearly, emphasizing that which unites rather than that which divides, bringing victory over the evil that invades man's soul—sin in all its ugliness—filling us with joy and with happiness, for this is indeed the spirit of the Christmas season.

And particularly at this time for the men and women of this city council we beg a very special Christmas blessing. For if this spirit of Christmas is magnified in them, the leadership they will give to this city will inspire us all to live in harmony and sympathy with others and to plan for the future with hope and with confidence. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

LEGAL OPINION ON REDRAWING WARD LINES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Law Department, December 21, 1964.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

At your meeting on December 7, you passed several orders respecting a new division of the city into wards, to one of which I replied that day.

The current statute on the subject is G. L., c. 54, s. 1, which, as far as relevant, provides:

"In nineteen hundred and twenty-four, and every tenth year thereafter, in December, a city, by vote of its city council, may make a new division of its territory into such number of wards as may be fixed by law. The boundaries of such wards shall be so arranged that the wards shall contain, as nearly as can be ascertained and as may be consistent with well defined limits to each ward, an equal number of voters . . ."

You ask that I draft legislation which would extend to December 31, 1965, your power to make such redivision of the wards of the city.

The Constitution of Massachusetts prescribes that "In the year nineteen hundred and thirty-five and every tenth year thereafter a census of the inhabitants of each city and town shall be taken and a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters therein. Said special enumeration shall also specify the number of legal voters residing in each precinct of each town containing twelve thousand or more inhabitants according to said census and in each ward of each city. Each special enumeration shall be the basis for determining the representative districts . . ." (Const. Amtd. Art. XXI, as amended by Art. LXXI), and further that "Each special enumeration of legal voters required in the preceding article of amendment shall likewise be the basis for determining the senatorial districts . . ." (Const. Amtd. Art. XXII, as amended by Art. LXXI).

In 1965, the date of the census is to be January first. G. L., c. 9, s. 6. Compare Opinion of the Justices, 220 Mass. 609. Under the above-quoted constitutional provisions, the special enumeration of legal voters made in the course of that census "shall be the basis" for determining the representative and senatorial districts. If the wards are changed after January first, the Constitution does not furnish the General Court with the means of ascertaining the number of voters who resided in the ward on January first. The Constitution does not intend that the number of voters be ascertained in any other manner than by the official enumeration, taken and returned to the Secretary of the Commonwealth incident to the census. It is this official enumeration which is to be the sole guide of the General Court in making the apportionment. Any redivision of wards made after December in the current year cannot under the Constitution of Massachusetts be the basis for the next apportionment of representative and senatorial districts. Opinion of the Justices, 142 Mass. 601. Opinion of the Justices, 157 Mass. 595, esp. 597. Consequently, it is not possible under the Constitution of Massachusetts for me to draft legislation which would extend to December 31, 1965, your power to redivide the city into wards; and I am unable to comply with your request.

In accordance with another of the above-mentioned orders passed by your Honorable Body on December 7, I enclose summaries of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States in Baker v. Carr, 369 U. S. 186, Gray v. Sanders, 372 U. S. 368, Westberry v. Sanders, 376 U. S. 1, WMCA, Inc. v. Lomenzo,—U. S.—(decided June 15, 1964), and the case most nearly in point, Reynolds v. Sims—U. S. (also decided June 15, 1964).

Appended to these summaries is a supplemental memorandum dealing with the United States Supreme Court's use of the word "population."

You will note that in the provisions quoted above from the Constitution of Massachusetts, the corresponding term is "legal voters", which Opinion of the Justices, 247 Mass. 583, 588, states to mean "those persons, who, possessing the constitutional qualifications to become voters, have proved them by taking the necessary steps to become duly recorded on lists of registered voters of the several cities and towns." Thus, if you do redivide the city into wards during the remaining days of this month, the boundaries of such wards must be so arranged that the wards shall contain, as nearly as can be ascertained and as may be consistent with well defined limits to each ward, an equal number of registered voters. This is a mandate of the statute which you may not disregard.

Pursuant to the other of your orders, I have caused to be prepared and transmit herewith a memorandum concerning your power to make a new division of the city into wards.

Respectfully,

ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

(Annexed hereto is the memorandum referred to herein.)

CEPTABLE METERS.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

5. Shifting as soon as possible the bulk of tagging duties to officers of limited authority from the Boston Traffic Commission.

Mayor Stresses Need of Fiscal Burden Shift from City-Town Tax Load

Following are excerpts made from an address by Mayor John F. Collins before a Kiwanis gathering at Springfield on January 13. The address concerned itself with immediate fiscal problems faced by the cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

"The one public concern, as viewed from the vantage point of any city hall in the Commonwealth, that demands attention as the next step in our march to a New Massachusetts is that of fiscal responsibility. I subscribe wholly to the assertion that our fiscal plight can no longer be hidden under the rug.

"Our immediate responsibility—and, consequently, our next step—is to assess our public needs, wants and resources and then assign responsibilities appropriately. This does not require constitutional modification; this does not require the appointment of a recess commission; this does not require a referendum at some future date. All it does require is the concerted attention of responsible citizens alerted to the possible disaster facing them as homeowners and rent payers in their respective cities and towns. This apprehension must in turn be the stimulus to direct participation in the political processes of our community.

"Financial problems of local governments are surely not peculiar to Massachusetts. But they do exist here and for the same reason as elsewhere. Cities and towns are created by and are political subdivisions of the state; all of their powers, including the power to tax, are delegated to them by the state. I do not quarrel with that arrangement in principle; what does concern me is the manner in which that principle is applied.

Traditional Burdens

"Contemporary Massachusetts is the heir to customs, traditions, and the allocation of public concerns that may have served admirably in the nineteenth century. Today, however, many of them are anachronistic and must be altered. Even a brief look at the vast catalogue of services, programs, and activities currently undertaken in the name of the public will suffice to convince the viewer that government has a different meaning today from what it had in 1780. While this list was growing through the years, both state and local governments were engaging in more and more activities but with one appreciable difference. The state was not restricted in its revenue sources while the local community was and still is.

"All across the country the state governments have almost inexorably shifted their tax programs to tap wealth in movement. They have abandoned property taxes in favor of taxes on sales and income. Local governments, particularly those in our Commonwealth, have been left with the property tax as their principal means of raising revenues to sustain the ever-increasing activities and burdens thrust upon them.

BCH Head Praises Sanatorium's Work in Twin Fields of Alcoholism and TB

Representing Mayor John F. Collins at a meeting commemorating the establishment of the "Half-Way House" by the Boston Sanatorium in Mattapan, President William H. Ellis, Jr., of Boston City Hospital, paid a glowing tribute to the "San's" pioneering work in the field of alcoholism and tuberculosis.

The occasion was the fifth anniversary of the "Half-Way House." Attending were personnel of the Sanatorium and officials representing other sanatoria across the state.

Dr. David S. Sherman, superintendent of the Boston institution, presided. Guests included Dr. Philip Solomon, director of psychiatric services at City Hospital; Rt. Rev. George V. Kerr, representing Cardinal Cushing; Rev. Emil Hertyl, and State Representative Robert H. Quinn.

Participating in discussions were Miss Marjorie Linder, rehabilitation counsellor and alcoholism coordinator; Dr. Benson Charis and James J. Scott, social worker and director of the "Half-Way House," all identified with the "San's" program, first of its kind in the United States. Since its initiation more than 100 men have been aided by the psychiatrically-oriented program at the "Half-Way House." Presently it has 20 patients.

Following is President Ellis' address:

Today the word—"Research"—is one of the most overworked and most poorly understood in our language. Basically, it means exhaustive, devoted study toward the solution of a problem.

In the field of medicine it means an unswerving determination to unlock secrets which—down through the ages have resisted the best brains of man.

As Mayor John F. Collins pointed out to me, the work, started five years ago in this Sanatorium in the field of tuberculosis and alcoholism, was the first of its kind not alone in Boston but in the United States as well.

This Sanatorium and its parent institution—the Boston City Hospital—have been front-runners in many divergent fields of public health over a long period of time.

Alcoholism A Disease

I congratulate you and your associates from other parts of the Commonwealth for your work. You are pioneers in a particular avenue of health investigation too long neglected by too many leaders in public health.

Long ago it was recognized here that alcoholism was a disease in its own right. It has been a disease that has robbed our civilization of the talents and the potential for good citizenship of countless thousands of human beings.

Linked—as it is so often—with the dread scourge of tuberculosis, it has been as unrelenting in its punishment of man as heart disease and cancer.

Some 45 years ago alcoholism was considered a disease by very few even in the field of medicine. Today our ideas have changed quite a bit. Yet, I daresay, most laymen will reject that concept.

Back in 1919 alcoholism was a wrecker of homes. It helped fill our hospitals and our jails.

It Didn't Work

As a nation we decided to do something about it.

We passed a law against alcohol. No less than 46 of our 48 states placed their stamp of approval on the law. Think of that! That was about as close to national unanimity as you can come!

This far-reaching new law, we were confidently told, would eventually erase the curse of overindulgence in alcohol in the United States for all time to come.

As we all know now, it didn't work out that way.

Curley Painting Back

A painting of James Michael Curley, made during his third term as Mayor of Boston, completely refurbished, under the subdued glow of indirect lighting, has been again placed in the waiting room of the City Hospital Administration Building. The painting was taken down during the rehabilitation of the building, during which two badly needed floors have been added for administrative offices. A portrait of the late Mrs. Mary Curley in oils hangs in the Children's Building of the hospital.

J-Walk Campaigners

A group of prominent Boston businessmen, educators, and labor leaders has been named by Mayor Collins to the city's "Pedestrian Lifesaving Campaign Committee."

The committee will conduct a public education campaign designed to inform motorists and pedestrians of the new anti-jaywalking rules which become effective September 1.

Details of the education program will be unveiled at the group's first business session on January 26 at Boston City Hall.

Robert S. Kretschmar, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Division, American Automobile Association, is chairman of the committee.

Fiscal Burden Shift . . .

"My lament, and that of every municipal officer who must weigh the prospects of carrying out assigned responsibilities within the framework of a balanced budget, is that the state charges us with the responsibility to provide essential governmental services but it gives us neither sufficiently productive nonproperty tax sources nor adequate financial aid to enable us to forego property tax increases.

"The real nub of the problem with which our governor, our state legislators, and you—if I can enlist your aid—are going to have to wrestle was stated just this simply ten years ago:

"The strengthening of local governments requires that activities that can be handled by these units be allocated to them, together with the financial resources necessary for their support.' These were the views of the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations in their final report to the President and Congress. They are my views now.

State Responsibility

"While a minor share of the burden has been shifted from local taxpayers to the broader community of the state, there does remain a disproportionate incidence of costs for the more traditional governmental obligations. I refer most specifically to educational programs, welfare activities, and the administration of justice through the courts.

"The highly mobile nature of our population coupled with the tendency of the more affluent to flee the city for the suburbs and the persons with low income to take their places in the big city, creates problems in all three areas that defy adequate solution within our present framework. I am considerably heartened by what I believe will be state policy in the educational field as a consequence of the Willis-Harrington Commission Report and the comments that have followed. There can be no doubt but what education as a public concern has emerged as an important state responsibility. This augurs well for relief of the local taxpayer and rent payer.

"I have never believed that the operation of our court system had a reasonable relationship to the fixed situs of taxable property. I am all the more convinced after watching the daytime population of my city double that of our permanent residents on every business day that the financial burdens of securing justice should not be borne by Boston taxpayers. Despite earlier acknowledgment of the difficulty of properly distinguishing state from local concerns and doing it absolutely, I am convinced that the Commonwealth should accept responsibility for the court function."

DIRECTIVE NO. 1. RECORD OF ABSENCE.

January 13, 1965.

To All Department Heads.

The City of Boston is initiating an extensive Safety Program to protect city employees. To be most effective, this Safety Program must be based on accurate records of accidents to employees both On and Off-The-Job.

So that there will be a minimum of record keeping, data on accidents will be combined with records of absence. A new data processing card has been developed to relieve individual departments of the necessity of developing totals and summaries, which will be done in a fraction of the usual hand-method time by our Data Processing Department.

Payroll Clerks will be provided with a "Record of Absence" card for each department employee by Data Processing. Whenever an employee is absent from work a simple process will be followed:

1. Payroll Clerk pulls employee's "Record of Absence" card, enters the date absence began, reason for absence if known and forwards card to Data Processing.

2. Upon receipt of the "Record of Absence" card, Data Processing will prepare two cards, an Absence Closing card and a new Record of Absence card. Both of these will be returned to the Payroll Clerk.

3. When the employee returns to work, the Payroll Clerk enters the date of return, reason for absence and obtains the employee's signature on the Closing Card and forwards it to Data Processing.

This procedure shall apply to every city employee (not including the School and uniformed Police and Fire Departments) with the exception of department heads. However, department heads shall also record any accidents occurring to them either On or Off-The-Job which result in their absence from work.

This information is vital and no exceptions or omissions will be permitted. We believe accidents are controllable and consider the resulting injuries to city employees and loss of valuable service, factors we should not tolerate.

Arthritic Panels

Dr. Edgar S. Cathcart, head of the arthritic clinic at Boston City Hospital, participated in the recent two-day panel discussions conducted under the joint sponsorship of Jordan Marsh and the Massachusetts Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. Outstanding physicians in the field of arthritic treatment and research were members of the various panels and discussion groups.

Quarterly Reports

Mayor Collins has ordered all city department heads to report their expenditures on a quarterly basis in a drive to keep a tighter checkrein on Boston's budget.

Administrative Services Director Henry A. Scagnoli, who distributed the notice to officials, points out it also applies to county departments.

Scagnoli said department heads will be required not only to report their expenditures every three months, but to "justify" them.

Chief aim of the program is to eliminate the need for supplementary budget appropriations after the basic budget has been set by the City Council.

Mary R. Kelly

A Solemn High Mass of Requiem for Mrs. Mary R. Kelly, 66, of 100 Holly Hill Circle, South Weymouth, was celebrated at 9.30 A.M., January 8, at St. Lazarus Church, East Boston.

Mrs. Kelly was the wife of William F. Kelly, who was for many years an employee of the City of Boston Health Department and who was a candidate for the Boston School Committee in 1945. Mrs. Kelly died January 4 at the Parkway Hospital, Brookline.

Sanatorium's Work . . .

Alcohol—on which we had pronounced a death sentence in 1919—became an even worse and more implacable enemy.

In more cities than we can count—alcohol instead of disappearing from the face of the land became a master. Its tentacles reached into the very vitals of our economy and into every level of government.

It spawned violence and corruption which has no parallel in our history.

Alcohol went right on wrecking homes while this law was in effect. The burden it imposed on our hospitals became even greater. Our jails bulged. Our Skid Rows grew.

On top of all that we created a monster called—among other things—"Big Syndicate Crime."

Names like "Capone" became household words. The deadly machine gun in the hands of a gangster became the enforcer of the syndicate's law. The only appeal was a machine gun in a rival gangster's hands.

Well, in 1933 we decided that you couldn't cure alcoholism and all its vicious by-products simply by passing a law. No less than 75 percent of the states got together and wiped the law off the books.

Now, we were back where we started in 1919 but we had learned a lesson.

Terrible Price

We paid a terrible price for the lesson. Yet, we didn't learn a complete lesson. We still failed to recognize that alcoholism was not only an evil to which man voluntarily subjected himself but likewise a disease which could be devastating.

Until people such as you came along the antidote to alcoholism was jail and the Hospital's "Drying Out" Ward.

That is why I hail you as pioneers. Today as the science of medicine swings to the concept you recognized and adopted years back, you have just reason for satisfaction.

Comprehensive Program

Mayor Collins, during the last six years, has not been content to ride along on the proud record of achievement Boston has held for decades in the field of public health.

No one has recognized better than he that you cannot win today's ball game on last year's base hits. If our city is to remain at or near the top in the vital matter of public health we must improve—month by month and year by year.

Soon, under his leadership Boston will have in being what I believe will be the broadest, most comprehensive program ever created in any major city.

You are all acquainted with the tremendous progress which has been made within a comparatively few years in the rehabilitation of the physical properties of Boston City Hospital. That great surge will be continued in the years just ahead by our multimillion-dollar capital improvement program.

True Pioneers

Soon, under the aegis of a vastly expanded Health Department, Mayor Collins and Boston will present to the world a public health program unparalleled in its scope.

In behalf of his Honor and myself—I congratulate you upon the role you have undertaken as true pioneers in one of the most important fields of public health.

You will find, I am certain, that many of the concepts you have so carefully nurtured, tested and retested in the years just behind us, will be mirrored and further developed in the near future.

Your advice, your experience and your know-how are precious in the dawning of a new era of public health. Men and women of your unselfish devotion and dedication to our fellowmen will continue to be pioneers, I am sure.

DIRECTIVE NO. 2. ACCIDENT PREVENTION POLICY.

January 13, 1965.

To All Department Heads.

Because of his concern about on-the-job accidents which injure city employees and damage city property and vehicles, the Mayor has recently approved a contract with the Massachusetts Safety Council to perform the following services:

1. Provide a General Occupational Safety Training Course for Supervisors and to instruct a number of supervisors.
2. Provide an Occupational Safety Training Course for Motor Vehicle Operators and to instruct a number of operators.

3. Provide the services of suitable Accident Review Boards to study all on-the-job accidents involving city employees to determine the causes and to recommend actions to prevent recurrence.

In order to clarify his position on this important subject, the Mayor assigns the responsibility for accident prevention as follows:

Each Department Head is responsible for:

1. The accident prevention performance of the supervisors reporting to him.
2. Providing Accident Prevention Training for each supervisor.
3. Ensuring that accident reports are promptly completed and distributed and that appropriate corrective action is taken to prevent recurrence.

On-the-job accident prevention is an important part of each supervisor's job. Each supervisor in discharging his accident prevention responsibility has among his principal duties the following:

1. To teach every employee the hazards of his job and how to avoid them.
2. To see that needed safety equipment and protective devices are provided for each job.
3. To take prompt corrective action whenever unsafe conditions or acts are noted.
4. To teach employees that accidents are caused and can be prevented.
5. To investigate and find the cause of all accidents, even those which result in minor injuries.
6. To see that all injuries are reported and promptly treated.
7. To instill a safety awareness in each employee through personal safety contacts and by group safety meetings.
8. To conduct regular safety appraisals of his section, including a check on new or relocated equipment.
9. To impress on each employee that violation of safety rules and safe work practices will not be tolerated.

DIRECTIVE NO. 3. JOB INCURRED ACCIDENT REPORTING.

January 13, 1965.

To All Department Heads.

Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts require a report of each job incurred injury. This procedure has been in effect within the city organization for several years and is not changed. However, a new, additional form entitled "City of Boston Supervisors Accident Report" is to be completed in full on any job incurred injury which occurs on or after January 1, 1965. These forms may be filled out by hand if legibly written, signed by the supervisor and sent to Mr. T. J. Hoppe, Training Coordinator, Administrative Services Department, within 24 hours of the accident date.

It is the responsibility of all Department Heads to inform each of their supervisors of this additional report and to make copies available.

HENRY A. SCAGNOLI.

DIRECTIVE NO. 4. MOTOR VEHICLE ACCIDENT REPORTING.

January 13, 1965.

To All Department Heads.

Effective immediately, the following procedure must be followed whenever a City-owned vehicle is involved in an accident. The four-copy form entitled "CITY OF BOSTON MOTOR VEHICLE ACCIDENT REPORT" must be completed by the vehicle operator, checked by the responsible supervisor and the copies distributed as indicated on the form. The Accident Review copy must be mailed to Mr. Theodore J. Hoppe, Training Coordinator, Administrative Services Department, within 24 hours of the accident date.

It is the responsibility of all Department Heads to inform each of their supervisors of this change in procedure and that the forms are completed and distributed as indicated.

NICE STOP

G. F. Birtles, former British lawn tennis champion, was waiting at a Birmingham intersection for the traffic light to change when a police car drove violently into the back of his car.

The officers showed obvious relief that a man well into his 70's was still able to get out and walk over to them. But their expressions changed when Birtles asked benignly, "Tell me, sergeant, how do you stop when I'm not here?"

Mayor Orders City-Wide Anti-Accident Campaign for All Municipal Workers

Because of his concern about the increasing number of work incurred injuries suffered by city employees, Mayor Collins announced on January 14 the start of a dual purpose municipal accident prevention program at a meeting with city department heads.

"Injuries to city employees resulting from on-the-job accidents are both regrettable and preventable," the Mayor stated, "therefore, I am initiating a comprehensive municipal accident prevention program."

This program is aimed at improving the accident record by reducing:

1. The number of work injuries.

2. The number of work days lost as a result of these injuries.

3. The number of service delays resulting from accidents.

4. The amount of accident costs.

These objectives will be accomplished by an increased emphasis on accident prevention action at all levels of city management and an improved reporting procedure. Training in accident prevention methods will be given to supervisors.

In-Service Program

Two 20-hour in-service accident prevention training programs have been prepared, the first in General Occupational Safety Training and the second for Supervisors of Motor Vehicle Operators. Both programs have been prepared by the Massachusetts Safety Council, Inc., under contract to the city to furnish teaching services.

A new reporting procedure has been devised which will provide city management with both on and off-the-job accident information believed at least equal to any city in the nation. Based on a study of the off-the-job accident information, city employees will be informed of the major causes and prevention of these accidents to help them protect themselves and their families from injury.

The Mayor told those attending the meeting "Accidents can be prevented. These programs will teach supervisors and employees what the accident causes are and how to prevent them, and will also increase the effectiveness of all departments while reducing accidents costs."

Ben Franklin Honored

The 259th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth was observed at his statue in front of City Hall on January 18, with Thomas A. Pokaski, a student of the City of Boston School of Printing, making the traditional Franklin speech.

The ceremony annually marks the opening of Printing Educational Week in Boston and New England. Participating in ceremonies at the statue were General Chairman Morris Greenbaum; President Norman D. Sproul of the Boston Club of Printing House Craftsmen; President Arthur Chapman of the Franklin Typographical Society; and Miss Diane Dubour of Brighton, "Miss Printing Week."

President John J. Tierney of the City Council represented Mayor Collins. Wreaths were placed at the statue.

DIRECTIVE NO. 5. GENERAL SAFETY RULES

January 13, 1965.

To All Department Heads.

Every organization or group of people requires a set of rules or regulations as a guide for the safety and protection of the people who make up the group. The safety rules listed below have been devised as guides to workers and supervisors in their cooperative efforts to prevent accidents. Following safety rules and safe operating practices on your job are key points in the performance of your work. Rules are established to prevent injuries to individuals and their fellow employees and the enforcement of these rules is necessary to the well-being of the organization. A single violation might place the safety of many in jeopardy.

Because of these reasons it has been agreed that intentional violations of the following safety rules will result in immediate disciplinary action. This action is required to safeguard our ability to perform our various tasks.

1. Do Not Operate Equipment Unless You Have Been Authorized To Do So By Your Supervisor. This rule is required to protect individuals from injury and equipment from damage.

2. Personal Protective Equipment Must Be Worn. Eye protection, gloves and other equipment are furnished on certain jobs because of an indicated need. Use of this equipment is a condition of employment.

3. Use Of Safety Devices And Guards. For their own personal protection employees are not permitted to make these devices inoperative or to remove guards. Also, equipment must not be operated if the safety devices are not functioning correctly. This condition should be reported immediately to the supervisor.

4. Horseplay Is Prohibited. Fooling or "horseplay" has caused serious injury, even death. Horseplay is defined here as running, tripping others intentionally, throwing things at another person, or any act that will startle or distract fellow employees.

5. Get First-Aid Promptly. Prompt first-aid attention should be obtained for any injury no matter how slight. The treatment may prevent later complications such as infection and the report will enable your supervisor to make an investigation and to take steps to prevent a similar accident.

You are required to observe the above safety rules so that your actions will not lead to injury to yourself or others or to damage City materials or equipment. These rules also protect you from someone else's safety violation.

HENRY A. SCAGNOLI.

Anti-Trust Check

Boston has received a check for $35,896.24 as settlement of anti-trust actions brought against several electrical firms in Federal Court. The suits, based on purchases for 1956-59, were against General Electric, Moloney Electric Company, Westinghouse, Allis-Chalmers, McGraw Edison, and Wagner.

Anniversary

Members of the Boston Police Department appointed January 3, 1940, observed their 25th anniversary reunion recently at the Boston Police Post, VFW, on Morton street, Mattapan.

The commission in charge included Supt. John T. Howland, Lieut. Michael F. O'Malley, Sergts. Weldon Bray, Stanley Jundzil, George Galvin, and Detective Thomas Donahue.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

January 11.

Personnel Order No. 631.

Patrolmen Samuel M. Baptista and Leo W. MacDougall, Identification Section, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each is granted two days' additional vacation.

About 1.35 A.M., Thursday, November 5, 1964, the above-named officers upon completing an assignment and returning to Police Headquarters, and when at Dorchester avenue and Howell street, South Boston, observed a fire on the rear porch of a three-story dwelling at 6 Howell street.

Patrolman Baptista notified the dispatcher by radio and both officers left the car and entered the building and aroused the occupants, assisting them to the street. On reaching the street after the third time in this building the officers were informed by a citizen that another woman was still in the building and probably on the third floor. At this time the flames had grown in intensity and the smoke was very heavy, but without regard for their own safety Patrolmen MacDougall and Baptista returned to the building and located Sarah Devine, occupant of Suite 3, between the second and third floors of this dwelling and assisted her to the street.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and courage displayed by these officers, who disregarded their own safety in assisting the occupants to safety, possibly preventing the loss of lives.

January 11.

Personnel Order No. 632.

Patrolmen Edward G. Dailey and John Slowe, District 9, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted two days' additional vacation.

About 3.10 P.M., Thursday, December 3, 1964, one Arthur Whitkin, proprietor of the Island Junk Yard, 63 Island street, Roxbury, was held up by three unknown assailants, savagely beaten about the head and robbed of $300. Whitkin was assisted to the Boston City Hospital and a description was broadcast relative to the assailants.

Patrolmen Dailey and Slowe assigned to Wagon Duty, responded to the scene and on receiving descriptions of the culprits, made a diligent search of the immediate area and the nearby drinking establishments.

Upon entering one of the nearby taverns, the officers observed one, Robert Slowe, 21 years, of 583 East Fourth street, South Boston, seated in the rear, counting a sum of money. The butt of a revolver was sticking out of his pants pocket. He was arrested by the officers for armed robbery of the Island Junk Yard.

He was arraigned in Roxbury District Court and held in $25,000 bail for the grand jury.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and devotion to duty displayed by the officers in the apprehension of this dangerous felon.

Boylston Street Bridge

Complete with ribbon cutting and a parade of Fire Department equipment, the 500-foot Massachusetts Avenue and Boylston Street Bridge was officially opened to traffic the other day. Traffic and Parking Commissioner Thomas F. Carty, hailing the opening of the span, pointed out the action marked the completion of all new Boston bridges over the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Boylston street will be made one way inbound from Hereford street to Copley square and downtown.

DIRECTIVE NO. 6. QUARTERLY ALLOTMENT SYSTEM.

January 14, 1965.

To All Department Heads and County Officers.

It is anticipated that all City Departments, commencing with the beginning of the third quarter of 1965, will be required to justify for each quarterly period, a request for that quarter's proportion of the department's annual appropriation.

It is also anticipated that a selected number of departments will be placed under the quarterly allotment system commencing with the beginning of the second quarter of 1965.

The purpose of installing a Quarterly Allotment System is to provide the Mayor with necessary controls over the rate at which annual appropriations are expended by city departments as well as provide better over-all management of the city's financial affairs.

In view of these plans, City Department Heads would be well advised to plan their first and second quarter expenditures in such a manner that will enable them to distribute their expenditures proportionately over the entire four quarters of 1965.

DIRECTIVE NO. 7. SYSTEMS REVIEW ADVISORY PANEL.

January 14, 1965.

To All Department Heads and County Officers.

It shall further be the duty of the Systems Review Advisory Panel to advise the Administrative Services Board, after appropriate consultation, whether or not such proposals are in accordance with sound administrative practice.

Members of the Advisory Panel shall be appointed by the Director of Administrative Services.

Effective immediately, all City Departments and Agencies shall submit all pending and future proposals for the purchase, rental or disposition of book-keeping and accounting machines, punched card and electronic data processing and other types of business equipment, other than typewriters, desk adding machines and desk calculators in writing to the Systems Review Advisory Panel of the Administrative Services Board.

New Rules to Handle South Station Pike Flow

Traffic and Parking Commissioner Thomas F. Carty announced the following new traffic regulations, in addition to existing regulations, effective on Sunday, January 17, in the Kneeland Street-South Station area in preparation for the anticipated opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension into the downtown area next month.

1. The Lincoln Street northbound off-ramp from the Southeast Expressway will be closed permanently to all exiting traffic at 10 A.M., by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works. Traffic formerly using this ramp will now use either the Kneeland Street or Northern Avenue-High Street ramps to reach downtown Boston.

2. One-Way Streets.

Lincoln street, from Kneeland street to Summer street.

South street, from Kneeland street to John F. Fitzgerald Expressway surface road.

3. No Backing, 7 A.M. to 10 A.M. and 4 P.M. to 6 P.M.

Atlantic avenue, from Kneeland street to Essex street.

Beach street, from Atlantic avenue to Hudson street.

Lincoln street, from Kneeland street to Summer street.

South street, from Kneeland street to Summer street.

4. No Backing, 7 A.M. to 6 P.M.

Kneeland street, from Atlantic avenue to Washington street.

5. No Parking Anytime.

Atlantic avenue, both sides, from Kneeland street to Essex street.

Kneeland street, both sides, from Atlantic avenue to Hudson street.

Lincoln street, both sides, from Tufts street to John F. Fitzgerald Expressway surface road.

South street, both sides, from Essex street to Summer street.

6. No Parking, 1 A.M., to 6 P.M.

Lincoln street, east side, from Kneeland street to Tufts street.

Pamphlets describing these changes have been circulated by the Boston Traffic and Parking Department to all businessmen in the area and to trucking companies directly involved in order that they may become familiar with these changes and make necessary adjustments prior to the effective date.

The Commissioner points out the new regulations are necessary to accommodate the substantial increase in the volume of traffic entering this area both from the Turnpike and, because of the closing of the Lincoln Street Off-Ramp, from the Southeast Expressway.

DIRECTIVE NO. 8. REQUESTS FOR PERMIS- SION TO AWARD CON- TRACTS WITHOUT AD- VERTISING.

January 19, 1965.

To All Department Heads and County Officers.

On May 14, 1964, Directive No. 9 was forwarded to all Department Heads and County Officers. This directive is now repeated for your information and compliance.

"His Honor the Mayor has directed my attention to a procedure which is being followed by certain department heads in the initiating of new contracts or the renewing of existing contracts that is contrary to all the rules of sound business practice and good administration.

"I refer more specifically to contracts that are renewable or become effective on April 1 of each year. An examination of requests for permission to award contracts, without advertising, during the current year disclosed that certain department heads have failed to either forward or request such permission until the latter part of March or early in April.

"I believe you will agree that this type of procedure does not afford sufficient time to permit a review in a proper manner of the request involved. Therefore, it is requested that you now plan to forward to his Honor the Mayor on or before March 1, 1965, and each year thereafter, such requests for permission to award contracts, without advertising, that become effective on April 1."

HENRY A. SCAGNOLI.

The man at the next desk, down with a heavy cold, inquires incredulously: "You mean I can feel this bad with a disease that doesn't even have a national foundation?"

Bureau Elects Burgin

The Boston Municipal Research Bureau at its 33d annual meeting elected C. Rodgers Burgin, former chairman of the board of directors, New England Merchants National Bank, as bureau chairman, succeeding Maynard L. Harris. Mr. Harris replaced Malcolm C. Stewart as vice chairman. Elliott Henderson, treasurer, and Joseph R. Barresi, secretary, were reelected.

Elected directors were Thomas L. P. O'Donnell, Edward H. Osgood, Everett P. Pope, and Herbert P. Wilkins. Mr. O'Donnell is with the Ropes & Gray law firm. Mr. Osgood, Vice-President and Director of Fiduciary Trust Company, is a trustee of the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

Mr. Pope, a graduate of Bowdoin, holds the Congressional Medal of Honor. He is president and director of the Workingmens Co-Operative Bank. Mr. Wilkins is a partner in the Palmer, Dodge, Gardner & Bradford law firm.

We'll Be in Business

Conventioneers will spend more than $88 million in Boston between now and 1973, a spokesman for the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce predicted recently.

Speaking at a news conference at Chamber headquarters, Robert M. Brush, chairman of the convention and visitors bureau, said this is a conservative figure since it is based on an estimated average spending of $125 for each visitor.

The new War Memorial Auditorium and the new Sheraton Boston Hotel have provided the missing links needed to attract larger national conventions here, Brush said.

Prior to this, the bureau could not book groups numbering more than 3,000 persons. Now, however, since the facilities are nearing completion, that figure has risen above 8,000.

In 1964 Boston was host to 200 conventions, a drop of between 2 and 3 percent from the previous year due in part to the New York World's Fair. There were only three groups numbering above 2,000.

One copy of the general bid shall be filed with the Awarding Authority, at the office designated above, accompanied by a bid deposit in the form of cash or a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by, a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the sum of $200. The general bids and subbids will be deemed to relate to that signed set of specifications for the project on file at the office of the Awarding Authority designated above and bidders will act at their own risk if any variance exists between the aforesaid set of specifications and the set (or sets) of specifications furnished to the bidder by the Awarding Authority. In short each bidder has the burden of checking to make certain that the set (or sets) of specifications furnished to the bidder is a true and complete copy of the set of specifications on file as aforesaid.

Specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Awarding Authority.

A performance bond, and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, will be required of the successful general bidder.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the public interest so to do. The Awarding Authority also reserves the right to reject any subbid on any subtrade if it determines that such subbid does not represent the subbid of a person competent to perform the work as specified or that less than three such subbids were received and that the prices are not reasonable for acceptance without further competition, in accordance with section 44D, chapter 149, of the General Laws, as amended.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORT.

Coun. G. F. FOLEY, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

The business with respect to which we had the bearings here earlier this month involving the redesignation of ward lines in the City of Boston has certainly evolved itself down to a comprehensive problem. We had a diversification of opinion with respect to what should be done. The matter is presently in the committee of which I am vice-chairman, and I think a report from that committee is in order.

It has been suggested and it is the feeling of the members present that this problem should be referred to the Law Department for an opinion as to what is probably the best way to solve the situation, and to come to an equitable and fair conclusion.

With this in mind, I suggest that a copy of this report be sent to the Law Department for an opinion consistent with the law both on the federal and state levels as it exists today.

The report was accepted.

LEGISLATION RE COUNCIL AUTHORITY TO REDRAW WARD LINES.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY, offered the following:

Whereas, The City Council under chapter 54, section 1 of the General Laws has this year 1964 explored the question of redrawing the ward lines in the City of Boston; and

Whereas, It appears there is very serious doubt legally as to the number of wards "established by law" (in the language of chapter 54, section 1), and which shall apply; and

Whereas, The exercise of authority under chapter 54, section 1 should and must be on the basis of clear statutory powers about which there can be little dispute during the process of electing representatives to the Great and General Court; be it therefore

Resolved, That the Corporation Counsel be requested in the year 1964 to study and prepare special legislation for presentation to the Great and General Court either during the legislative year 1965 or 1966 which will clarify the authority of the Boston City Council in redrawing ward lines in the City of Boston.

President TIERNEY in the chair.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON URBAN REDEVELOPMENT.

Coun. IANNELLA, for the Committee on Urban Redevelopment, submitted the following:

Report on order (referred September 14) for information on sales of land in downtown waterfront area—recommending that the same be placed on file.

The report was accepted, and the order was placed on file.

Mayor Asks All-Out Support for March of Dimes War on Birth Defects

The work of the National Foundation and the March of Dimes in marshaling the nation's resources in an all-out fight against birth defects is the most important in the history of these complementing organizations, Mayor John F. Collins said on January 26.

Speaking before the annual March of Dimes dinner at the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel the Mayor hailed the historic victory over polio. As all-important as that great achievement was, the Mayor said, its present attack on birth defects could mean an even more spectacular advance by mankind.

The present drive, he said, is one which "must be won; one that will be won."

Following is his address:

On April 12, 1955, the news media carried to the nation and the world the story of one of the greatest discoveries of our time.

The work of an obscure researcher—little known outside his own laboratory and a small group of scientific associates—had received the final unqualified approval and acceptance of a group of exacting judges.

The anti-polio vaccine which he had developed was pronounced on that day 10 years ago as "safe, potent, and effective." His work and the long, painstaking, self-sacrificing hours he gave to achieve that historic "breakthrough" were made possible by a March of Dimes grant.

Massive Problems

Today, the name of Dr. Jonas Salk is known all over the world. Today, we know that future generations will inscribe that name in the imperishable records of the giants of science—with Pasteur and Galileo, with Marconi and Curie.

For the part it played in making possible Dr. Salk's gift to all mankind, the National Foundation-March of Dimes might well have retired to rest in the reflected glory of its hard-earned victory over one of the worst scourges visited on man.

It did not.

Seven years ago, the National Foundation-March of Dimes turned its major attention upon another massive problem in the field of public health.

It refused to accept any line of thought which told us we could make but little progress against an old scourge in which we grouped some 1,000 maladies, diseases, and basic infirmities under the broad term "birth defects."

Today, the force of its experience, its tremendous know-how and its far-reaching ability to organize research is directed by the foundation toward the solution of another scourge of mankind—one that has existed practically from the creation of man.

Great Polio Victory

Today the work of the National Foundation-March of Dimes is more important than ever before.

I speak advisedly and with full understanding and appreciation of the victory over polio. Its work in making possible the practical eradication of polio was tremendous in

Churchill Mourned

Immediately on receipt of news of the death of Winston Churchill, Mayor John F. Collins directed that all flags at municipal buildings be flown at half-staff during the period of mourning for the great British leader.

Brighton BRA Project Readied for Occupancy

The Boston Housing Authority's newest development for the elderly on Washington street in Brighton was turned over to the Authority by the contractor on January 25.

The building, completed approximately three months ahead of schedule, previously had been inspected and approved for acceptance by the Public Housing Administration.

The federally-aided development, a seven-story brick structure with community facilities on the ground floor and six stories of elevator apartments above street level, has a total of 82 apartments, ten of which have two bedrooms. All of the apartments are equipped with facilities especially designed to contribute to the health and safety of elderly people.

Completion of the building, approximately three months ahead of schedule, will enable prospective occupants to move into this development earlier than anticipated.

Tenants for the apartments will be selected from hundreds of applicants after a careful consideration of all eligibility factors and a determination of the relative urgency of their housing needs.

its significance. It is an advance in medical science which will stand as an eternal monument to the unlimited potential of the brain of man.

Yet, it cannot be gainsaid that "birth defects," and all that term conveys, is an even more implacable and more devastating enemy.

In the pre-Salk years, 1950-1954, we averaged in the United States some 39,000 polio cases annually. The annual death toll alone from birth defects is today estimated at 56,000 and beyond the toll of death is the terrible, exacting price of the blighted minds, blighted bodies and blighted lives of those innocents who survive infancy.

More than 250,000—a quarter of a million—babies are born in the United States each year with physical or mental defects. One of every 16 infants are defective at birth. Each day 700 infants are born in this country suffering from serious birth defects.

It is estimated that it cost about 940 million dollars, spent in large measure for March of Dimes=Financed Research, to bring about the victory over polio. A study made in 1963 has found the nation's economy saved $9.3 billion on income loss and potential medical costs in the first nine years after Salk.

None of us tonight knows how long it will require to reach the answers to the manifold problems of birth defects. No one of us can forecast accurately how deep our penetration will be.

Cites BCH Center

However, I can assure you progress already made in a field, in which little has been done up to now, has been tremendous.

Take as an example the Bill Cunningham Defects Center at our Boston City Hospital, made possible in 1962 by the National Foundation=March of Dimes. Already I am in receipt of reports on progress in many areas of the total problem. Already this great center has developed knowledge and procedures unknown only a handful of years back.

Already it has begun to attract more and more doctors, nurses, therapists, and medical social workers to a too-long-neglected field.

I am as sure as any man can be, when he deals with the future, that the National Foundation=March of Dimes and those who give it their support will one day conquer this enemy.

I am firmly confident that there is a day ahead when a broken-hearted mother will not be obliged to travel from clinic to clinic, from doctor to doctor, from one counselor to another, seeking a ray of hope and a modicum of help for a beloved baby or for an innocent child born under the curse of a birth defect.

Here, truly, is a fight that demands the wholehearted assistance of every one.

This is a fight we can eventually win.

This is a fight we must win.

This is a fight we will win.

Iran Calls Dr. Byrne to Premier's Bedside

Dr. John J. Byrne, director of all B. U. surgical services at Boston City Hospital, answered an emergency call from the government of Iran on January 22 to attend Iranian Premier Ali Mansour, seriously wounded in Tehran by a would-be assassin. He was accompanied to Iran by Dr. Sam Moore of New York.

The noted Boston surgeon is a magna cum laude graduate of Princeton and received his M.D. degree at Harvard Medical School in 1941. On June 4 he was awarded the Boston City Hospital Centennial Award and Special Citation for Distinguished Service in Medicine.

Five years ago at the request of the National University of Iran he helped set up a six-year medical program patterned after one used at B. U. Medical School.

Premier Mansour's physician immediately after the shooting attack was Dr. Saeed Ahari, a graduate of B. U. Medical School, who served under Dr. Byrne during his internship and residency at City Hospital, 1954-59.

Aid for BCH Research

Dr. Maxwell Finland, director of Thorndike Memorial Laboratory at Boston City Hospital; Dr. Norbert Freinkel, an assistant physician at Thorndike, and Dr. Sidney H. Ingbar, a Thorndike associate director, will share in the $2,757,833 grants made for basic research, teaching, and training in medical sciences.

The grants are three of 113 which have been awarded to Harvard Medical School, the Harvard Dental School, and the Harvard School of Public Health, by the U. S. National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Finland's grant is for research in infectious diseases and anti-microbial therapy; Dr. Freinkel's for research in the metabolism of insulin, and Dr. Ingbar's for research on the relation of thyroidal metabolism to hormone synthesis. Their research work will be carried on at City Hospital.

Mayor Praises State Defenders Services Plan as Boon to Justice for Indigent

A program to place defender attorneys in every Suffolk County criminal court was hailed by Mayor John F. Collins as a "giant step" toward bringing into finer balance the scales of justice when the poor and legally indigent are involved.

The Mayor, himself, helped shape the program as a director of the ABCD which announced it on January 22 in a joint statement with the Massachusetts Defenders Committee.

Valuable Answer

"The public defender project which ABCD is launching in Suffolk County is a giant step toward restoring the balance between the power of the state and the resources of the poor person charged with a crime," the Mayor said.

"We all know that the objective of our criminal law is the protection of society. But we are also aware of our obligation to protect the innocent and to insure that the courts are not impeded in the administration of justice.

"If a defendant is unrepresented, as so many are, he is often unable to obtain the facts necessary to establish his innocence. A lawyer appointed by the court must serve without pay and take time from his regular practice to defend his poor client.

"The Massachusetts Defenders Committee staff has been a valuable answer to this problem in the superior courts. Their extension into the district courts on a major scale has long been overdue.

"Both the defenders and ABCD deserve the community's praise for this program. As a board member of ABCD I have long had a personal interest in the shaping of the program and I am delighted that it now becomes a reality."

The Model Defender Project is being financed for the first year by a grant of $138,000 from the National Defender Project of the National Legal Aid and Defender Association. The association has set aside a total of $320,000 to help finance the program for three years.

In All Courts

Representing the first blanket extension of public defender services into the district courts, the project is a demonstration to show the need for extension of such services into district courts throughout the state.

Eight attorneys, under the direction of a chief criminal attorney, will appear for defendants in cases involving possible imprisonment in each of Suffolk County's nine district courts. In addition, two investigators will be available to the county project.

The project staff will be under direction of a chief criminal attorney who will be answerable to the Chief Counsel of the Massachusetts Defenders Committee.

The project is a "springboard and prototype" for similar projects throughout the country, according to ABCD Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet.

Early Entry

The objective of the project staff will be to provide defense counsel for indigent defendants in serious misdemeanor and felony cases. Working with the staff of the Massachusetts Defenders, they will enter each case at the earliest possible moment and continue representation through to final judgment. As a general rule, they will follow the standards for determining inability to pay legal fees currently followed by the public defenders.

However, during the course of the project, these standards together with those applied in other states, will be tested to discover the most effective way of determining whether a person is "indigent" for

James G. Roberts to Head Back Bay Group

James G. Roberts, of New England Mutual Life Insurance Company was elected president of the newly formed Back Bay Planning and Development Corporation.

Other officers elected are Joseph W. Lund and Carl B. Rechner, vice-presidents; Richard Campo-bello, treasurer; Robert B. Springer, clerk.

The Back Bay Planning and Development Corporation has been organized with the cooperation of Mayor John F. Collins and Boston Redevelopment Authority to prepare and implement a development plan for the Back Bay. This will be the first major planning effort designed to solve area problems and accomplish maximum growth potential.

The corporation will work closely with the recently formed Back Bay Council, an organization of residential, business, and institutional leaders of the area. The council has been established to enable Back Bay interests to work together and take united stands on issues affecting the area.

Year for Building

The Johns-Manville Corporation building materials division looks to total construction in the United States during the coming year reaching a record-breaking volume of $90 billion. About $66.9 billion will go for new construction; $23.2 billion will be for remodeling, maintenance, and repair of existing structures.

Smart drivers prepare for bad winter driving conditions by keeping their cars at their best by having brakes adjusted for equalized pressure, snow tires mounted for the winter season, reinforced tire chains in the trunk for use under severe conditions, windshield wiper blades of good rubber to clear glass smoothly, battery and ignition system up to standard, and all lights working properly.

$3 Million Aquarium to Spark City's New Waterfront at Central Wharf

Boston, which reluctantly closed down its modest aquarium in South Boston just over 10 years ago, was given the details of the magnificent $3 million playhouse for the denizens of deep and shallow water, January 22.

The details were unfolded at a fund-raising dinner of the New England Aquarium at John Hancock's Dorothy Quincy suite.

Site of this glittering New Boston asset will be on Central Wharf. More than $800,000 has been raised for the aquarium since the BRA gave the NEA the go-ahead signal in December.

Mayor Collins congratulated David B. Stone, Boston stockbroker, who is president of the aquarium.

"The aquarium will be the first major project, the focal point of Boston's Waterfront Urban Renewal," he said. "As the only cultural institution planned for this area, this is exciting news for the entire community."

Target date for completion is 1967.

Here are some of the features it will boast:

An exhibit showing live penguins in their native habitat, artificially refrigerated.

A tidal pool that rises and falls naturally, allowing visitors to handle starfish and other small marine life.

A coral reef inhabited by tropical fish.

A salt water marsh, located outside the building on the two-acre site.

A children's aquarium, extensive research laboratories, and many instructional exhibits.

A 40-foot waterfall dropping to a pool in the main entrance lobby.

A 140,000-gallon tank containing live sharks, porpoises, turtles, and other marine life.

New Family Center at St. Mary's School

St. Mary's School in Charlestown is being rehabilitated to be used as the John F. Kennedy Family Service Center, which will open next month.

Action for Boston Community Development has assigned a $20,000 grant for carrying out a "multi-service" social aid center in Charlestown. It will be administered by the Kennedy Center Executive Committee.

The center will provide a variety of employment, guidance, legal aid, family counseling, and other services. The work will be financed through President Johnson's anti-poverty program, funds from the Ford Foundation and from the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime.

The St. Mary's building, which will serve as headquarters for the social-aid program, is being renovated by Charles J. Dinezio of the Charlestown Home Improvement Center, operated by the Boston Redevelopment Authority. It was donated by the Archdiocese of Boston.

Got a Candidate?

Mayor Collins has announced the opening of nominations for the 1965 Outstanding Young Men of Greater Boston awards. The contest is sponsored annually by the Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The competition, now in its 15th year, honors Boston men under 35 for professional achievement and service to the community.

Nominations are submitted by Boston's civic and business leaders to a panel of judges. Announcement of the winners will be made at a banquet at the Harvard Club of Boston in March.

Further information and nomination blanks can be acquired from the Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce, 125 High street, Boston. Deadline for nominations is February 14.

Skid Row Program

Mayor Collins has announced his enthusiastic approval for the plan to establish a new center designed to assist alcoholic victims who've reached the point of no return in the Skid Row areas of the South End.

The center, soon to be in operation under the joint sponsorship of the State Health Department, the B. U. Medical Center, and ABCD, "will," said the Mayor, "offer a core around which a battery of programs can be established to aid the unfortunate men and women in the South End find new life and hope."

The center will seek out ways and means to bring about the rehabilitation and relocation of an estimated 5,000 persons, according to its director, Dr. Edward Blacker.

Cooperating with the center will be Boston City Hospital, Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital, the Salvation Army, the South End Health Unit, the United South End Settlements, Inc., and leaders such as the Very Rev. Francis J. Gilday, S.J., pastor of Immaculate Conception Church.

Bannister in Bronze

Dr. Roger Bannister, who made a host of friends around here during a year of research at Boston City Hospital a couple of years back, is to get a bit of immortality outside the record books.

At Vancouver, B. C., they are raising funds for a full-sized bronze statue of Dr. Bannister and John Landy of Australia. Ten years ago Bannister defeated Landy in a mile race hailed as the greatest mile run of all time. In turning the trick the modest Englishman recorded the first under-four-minutes mile in track history. His time was 3:58.8. Landy's was 3:59.6. purposes of being provided free legal counsel. The objective is to insure that persons able to pay fees to practicing lawyers are not defended at public expense, but that persons unable to pay such fees are provided with counsel.

Survey Shows Need

The program is the result of 15 months of joint planning by the board members of the Voluntary Defenders Committee and ABCD representatives.

Primarily responsible for developing the project were LaRue Brown, Edward J. Duggan, and Samuel A. Wilkinson of the Massachusetts Defenders Committee; F. Douglas Cochrane of the ABCD Board of Directors; and Joseph F. Dee, Jr., and William H. Wells of the ABCD staff.

The need for defender services at the district court level was shown in a survey conducted in 1963 by the Voluntary Defenders Committee, Inc. That survey indicated that about 60 percent of the defendants in serious cases in district courts are unrepresented by any counsel.

The survey showed that this percentage is close to uniform from court to court. It also revealed that a defendant represented by counsel is three times as likely to be acquitted as an unrepresented defendant. The courts chosen for the survey were broadly representative and included one court in Suffolk County.

The Massachusetts Defenders Committee underscored the need for such extension of service by submitting a budget of $714,000 to the Legislature for fiscal 1965 in order to provide counsel in all district courts in the Commonwealth. The figure is $500,000 above the committee's present appropriation.

The Suffolk County project, part of a Unified Legal Service Program sponsored by ABCD, also includes participation by students from the area's law schools.

Formed in 1960, the Massachusetts Defenders Committee, which will be given a conditional gift by ABCD to carry on its portion of the project, is supported by state appropriations and is under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Judicial Court. It has provided defender services at the superior court level throughout the state and, within limitations of manpower and budget, in some district court cases.

The National Defender Project of the NLADA is financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation and is encouraging establishment of similar projects throughout the country.

ABCD, a private, nonprofit corporation, is supported by grants from the Ford Foundation, the Federal Government, and local foundations and helps design, finance, and oversee demonstration programs in education, employment, social services, and related areas.

BHA Elects Brier

Jacob I. Brier of Mattapan was elected chairman of the Boston Housing Authority at the Authority's annual meeting on January 25. He succeeds Edward D. Hassan who had served as chairman of the Authority for five years.

Charles H. Savage of West Roxbury was elected vice-chairman. Other officers of the Authority, reappointed at the meeting, are Victor C. Bynoe, treasurer, and Cornelius T. Kiley, secretary.

Mr. Hassan was named assistant treasurer and assistant secretary.

MAPC Seeks Federal Funds for Play Space

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council has filed application with the Housing and Home Finance Agency for approximately $300,000 in federal planning assistance to undertake major programs in open space, recreation, environmental health, disposal of solid waste, and the determination of regional goals.

The federal money requested represents two thirds of the total cost of three major studies the MAPC proposes to undertake over the next two-year period.

MAPC Names McBride

Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., president of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, has announced appointment of Paul E. McBride of Newton to the staff of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council as a coordinator of metropolitan projects.

His duties will include responsibilities for establishing and maintaining liaison for cooperative relations with private and civic agencies concerned with transportation and related developmental programs throughout the metropolitan area.

Pretty Good Record

The Journal of the American Medical Association reported last week that of the nation's 275,142 physicians only 319 have lost their licenses to practice from 1960 through 1963. The Federation of State Medical Boards said the most common causes for license revocations are "mental" disorders; conviction on felonies, ranging from performing illegal abortions to evading income taxes; drug addiction, and "unprofessional conduct," including falsifying insurance claims and operating while drunk.

Catherine A. Scully

Mrs. Catherine A. Scully, mother of John J. Scully, administrative analyst for Administrative Services, died on January 25. She was the widow of Francis R. Scully and a long-time resident of Dorchester. Her home was at 11 Speedwell street.

Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Margaret L. Dalton, and three grandchildren, John W., Jr., Philip M., and Paul F. Dalton.

Funeral services were held on January 28 at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

9-Month Educational Campaign To Bring About Abolition of Jaywalking in Boston

There's hardly a man, woman, or child capable of self-locomotion between the age of 3 and 101 in Boston who hasn't been guilty of jaywalking — that cute All-American trick of defying instant death or a speedy trip to the emergency ward and its operating tables.

After September 1 it is scheduled to become an ancient, outmoded tribal practice in Boston. It will be agin' the law after that date. Those caught in this cousinly art to Russian Roulette will pay $1 for their first offence; $2 for each relapse.

The nine-month period between now and September 1, will be one of grace — and education for all jaywalkers — be they native Bostonians, aliens from the suburbs, or outlanders from elsewhere.

Following is an outline of the educational campaign as given to the special meeting of Mayor Collins' Citizens Traffic Advisory Committee by James H. Fairclough, Jr., a vice-president of Jordan Marsh Company. The committee, made up of distinguished business and civic executives, will sort of act as the faculty for the educational operation.

Said Mr. Fairclough:

"For many years Boston has had the worst pedestrian death and injury record of any large city in the country. Now we are going to have an intensive campaign to correct the situation.

"Why are the new regulations necessary and desirable? Last year 75 persons were killed in Boston traffic accidents; 55 were pedestrians.

"In Boston the traffic signals and police regulate the flow of vehicles, but not the movement of pedestrians. When you are driving your car and come to a red light, or a policeman holds up his hand, you are required to stop. However, if you are walking you can legally disregard the red light and the policeman.

"Next September this situation will change. It will become illegal for a pedestrian to disregard the signs or the police.

No Crackdown

"On the other side of the coin, motorists will be required to stop if a pedestrian steps into a painted crosswalk at an intersection where there is no traffic light or policeman. In other words, people on foot and people in cars will both be required to obey the signals and take turns at busy intersections.

"There are other important rules, such as not walking across a street in mid-block; but they are just common sense and will be so recognized by everyone.

"Many people have asked me — will there be a crackdown on jaywalkers and how much are the fines?

"There will be no crackdown. The purpose is not to arrest people, but to teach them safe habits which could save their lives.

"The fines are nominal—$1 for each of the first three violations in a calendar year—$2 for each offense after that.

"The fines are just to show that the law has some force, but we hope that not one single person has to pay a fine. This program has the complete support of Commissioner Edmund J. McNamara, and the Police Department is now conducting training programs for all officers.

"Later they will use loudspeakers to talk to pedestrians at intersections to teach them the rules, to kid them, even shame them if necessary, but get them to understand and willingly comply before next September.

"Theme of this campaign is Jaywalkers must be taught, not caught.

New York Did It

"In Boston we have to achieve this goal as quickly as possible, so we need a more accelerated program.

"New York City had a similar program in 1957 and developed a very successful educational and publicity campaign. They planned an eight-month educational period before they began to actually enforce the regulations. Mayor Wagner gave full support and leadership. His first move was to organize a special committee of top civic and business leaders to give status and support to the program.

"You are beginning to see the parallel here in Boston. Mayor Collins has supported this effort from the start.

"Commissioner Thomas F. Carty has set up a special Division of Pedestrian Safety within the Boston Traffic and Parking Department. He has engaged a professional public relations man, Vincent J. Tuscher, to direct the division and this will be the operating headquarters of the campaign.

"With the full cooperation of the School Department we are developing a campaign especially adapted to school age children. Special material is being prepared for foreign language groups."

John C. Murphy

John C. Murphy, 50, twice-commended fire fighter attached to Ladder 14, Brighton, was fatally stricken in Brighton on January 22. He made his home at 4 Academy Hill road, Brighton.

He had been a member of the Boston Fire Department for more than 20 years. He leaves a son, John C., and a brother, Edwin A.

On December 30, 1946, he rescued a bedridden woman in a fire on Market street, Brighton, and on January 2, 1954, he assisted other fire fighters in the rescue of two men trapped in a fire in Allston.

Funeral services were held January 26 at St. Anthony's Church, Allston.

If you are not yet a seat-belt user, winter is a good time to get them installed. Use them for safety's sake!

JOHN J. TIERNEY
PRESIDENT CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 57

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1965

NO. 6

Factors Beyond Mayor's Control Force $10.6 Million Budget Hike

Mayor John F. Collins submitted to the City Council the 1965 budget totaling $151,989,462 on February 1. The 1964 budget was $141,349,721.

In his message to the Council Mayor Collins said this year's operating estimate represents an increase of approximately 7.5 percent over 1964. "I consider this to be an achievement of no small proportion in view of the current tendency of municipal budgets everywhere to increase on an average of 10 percent annually. In this fashion, my administration will continue to meet its objectives of building a New Boston and of maintaining an adequate level of services to our citizens," Mayor Collins said.

The Mayor said that in addition to the estimated increase of $10,941,420 for city and county departments must be added the sum of $3,958,886 which represents salary increases for police, firefighters, and others.

Policy Conflict

Referring to this figure, the Mayor said, "the great bulk of these salary increases resulted from decisions made by the General Court and the voters of the City of Boston and are in direct conflict with the policies of my administration. Nevertheless, the figure must be added to current expenditures resulting in a total increase of $14,900,306 above the 1964 appropriations."

The Mayor's message to the Council continued:

"Were it not for the fact that the City of Boston faces an increasingly difficult and expensive problem of providing assistance to the needy, I could present a brighter picture for 1965. Of the total increase of $14 million plus, over half, or about $7,500,000 will go for increases in Veterans and Welfare services. Just as in the case of police salaries, this is a figure over which my administration can exercise little discretion, it being determined in large part by factors completely outside my control.

Outside Assessments

"I should like to emphasize for the benefit of the Honorable City Council, the citizens of Boston, and those who occupy important positions in our state government, that the total increase of $14,900,306 in city and county departments for 1965 will mean an increase of approximately $10.40 in the present tax rate.

"This does not include increases that are bound to occur in the cost of School Department operations, pensions and assessments levied against the City by the State, the Metropolitan District Commission, and the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority. We do not yet know what the total of all these assessments will be and, consequently, we cannot say with certainty what the total increase in the tax rate will be eventually.

"But this much can and must be said—there is something basically wrong in Massachusetts government when the Mayor and

City Hospital Adopts Finest Phone System

On June 15, Boston City Hospital will change over its present telephone system to Centrex, proclaimed by engineers as the most efficient, ultramodern, and speediest of telephonic developments.

The present number KEnmore 6-8600 will be changed to a new designation. The old-type telephone switchboard will be replaced by consoles, about the size of adding machines, placed on modern desks.

There are many extraordinary features connected with the new system. They will be discussed from time to time in future issues of the City Record.

Each a Private Line

One feature is certain to attract instant enthusiasm. For instance, there are about 1,000 phones in active operation at Boston City.

Under Centrex each will become a private line.

An outsider calling a certain party at the hospital will dial the line he wants directly. His call will not go through a central switchboard. As an example, a person in a pay station, in an outside office, or in his home outside the hospital wishes to reach Dr. Blank, whose number at the hospital is 434-7777. The caller merely dials 434-7777. He reaches the phone he is seeking immediately.

administration of the state's largest city cannot exercise control over large increases in expenditures. If, as is quite possible, we are faced with a total increase on account of these uncontrollable factors of $20,000,000 or more, and consequent tax rate increase of as much as $15 per thousand, it should be crystal clear that we are suffering a breakdown in our system of local government.

$15 Tax Hike Possible

"I just said that it is entirely possible that we will have to increase our tax rate by as much as $15 per thousand. I am ready and willing to take that part of the responsibility which is mine. Of this possible $15 increase, my administration will have been directly responsible for about $2.75. In other words, it is clear to me that maintaining an adequate level of services, in the face of rising costs, will cost more in 1965 than it did in 1964, and the added cost should be no more than $2.75 on the tax rate. I cannot, in good conscience, accept responsibility for the remainder of the increase except that which will be dictated by our debt requirements. Instead, I believe that the responsibility for as much as 75 percent of the tax increase will have to lie with people, organizations, and factors which are not responsible or responsive to the voters of this city."

Mayor Collins concluded:

"There are signs all about us that 1965 will give birth to a new spirit of cooperation between and among state and local governments in Massachusetts. The state and local governments have simultaneously arrived at a period of fiscal crisis. The man in the street talks about it. The man in the street echoes the sentiment of our many leaders who feel that the proper assignment of responsibility has been allowed too long to lie in the dustbin of neglect and apathy. The citizens of Boston and the citizens of Massachusetts deserve far better. It is my fervent hope and prayer that the governments of Massachusetts will now be caught up in the great spirit of change and modernization of progress and improvement that is sweeping the nation.

"Enlightened economy continues to be the watchword in the performance of the city's fiscal affairs. The policy of replacing equipment on an annual basis is continuing this year with an allowance for all departments amounting to $1,470,919. The system initiated last year for the control of appropriated funds for equipment proved most successful and will be continued in 1965. Stringent budgetary controls will be applied and improved upon wherever possible without impairing the services now performed. We shall continue to keep our house in order. We shall make further improvements in the administration of our finances and our services. We shall continue to employ budgetary and accounting principles required by the public good and consistent with the reputation for fiscal integrity and sound credit which we have worked so hard to achieve. The accompanying budget and appropriation orders have been prepared and are submitted with these ideals uppermost in mind."

Phone System . . .

In other words, the 1,000 phones at the hospital become 1,000 private lines under the new system—as individual as a subscriber's home telephone.

Between now and June 15 an all-out campaign will be undertaken to educate outsiders to use the individual, private line numbers.

Basis of the campaign will be the distribution of some 40,000 post cards to hospital personnel. The cards will provide spaces by which outside callers—both those who call often and those who call infrequently—will be informed of the "private line number" they seek to reach at the hospital. The filled-out cards will then be mailed to outsiders.

City Hospital is the first hospital in New England to adopt the system.

$2.8 Million Dorm

Northeastern University has received a federal loan of $2.8 million for construction of a five-story men's dormitory on its Huntington Avenue campus, University President Asa S. Knowles disclosed on January 31.

Designed to house 415 students, the dormitory will be built in the University's north parking area, bounded by Forsyth and Hemenway streets and Spear place. Construction will start this spring, with occupancy slated for the fall of 1966.

BCH Volunteer Increase

Mrs. Jean W. Blake, deputy for volunteers at Boston City Hospital, in her annual report of volunteer activities at the hospital notes that the number of persons donating time to hospital work without pay has increased from about 60 in 1962 to 518 last year.

They served 41,830 hours, which at the hospital minimum wage scale of $1.53 per hour would have totaled $64,000.

Among the volunteers were 141 college students and 136 teenagers from 33 different high schools.

They're All Alike? You Can Be Utterly Wrong; Take These Two Boys from BLS

The term "teen-agers" has become a term of reproach in the lexicon of too many people.

If you use it as an absolute yardstick to measure the sterling achievement and brilliant promise of all teen-agers you couldn't be more wrong.

Take the cases of Stuart Flashman, 16, 45 Lyndhurst street, Dorchester, and Joseph W. Kennedy, 17, 176 Corey street, West Roxbury. They are seniors at Boston Latin School. They've just been awarded one of the highest awards ever placed within the reach of the millions of boys and girls attending high schools anywhere in the world.

They have been given 24th Annual Westinghouse Science Talent Search Certificates. Stuart's is for "Sequence of the Carbohydrate Moiety of Fibrinogen." His mother, Mrs. Joseph Flashman, is president of the Boston League of Women Voters. Joseph's is for "Investigation of the Galactic Structure in the Solar Neighborhood by Means of Galactic Clusters."

Recently Mayor Collins took time out of a backbreaking schedule to congratulate them and their headmaster, Wilfred O'Leary.

SCIENCE AWARD WINNERS — Mayor John F. Collins congratulates (left to right) Stuart M. Flashman, 16, 45 Lyndhurst Street, Dorchester, and Joseph W. Kennedy, 17, 176 Corey Street, West Roxbury, who won certificates of honor in the 24th Annual Westinghouse Science Talent Search. Looking on is headmaster Wilfred O'Leary of Boston Latin School where both boys are seniors.

In congratulating the youngsters, both of whom will enter Harvard University next year, the Mayor said he was delighted with their awards and that they are examples to be held up as the pride of Boston teen-agers.

Public Library Holds Negro History Week

This year, as formerly, the Boston Public Library has held meetings with representatives of various groups which are planning Negro History Week observances. Some of the groups contacted were the Massachusetts State Union of Women's Clubs, the Ministerial Alliance, the Negro Artists Association, the NAACP, the League of Women for Community Service, the Women's Service Club, and the Association of Business and Professional Women of Boston and Vicinity. From those meetings have come a decision by the groups to cosponsor with the Library a program to open Negro History Week. The program will be held in the Lecture Hall of the Central Library Building on Sunday, February 7, at 2.30 P.M.

The program will open with a series of musical presentations by the Ernest Simms Chamber Ensemble. The principal speaker will be Dr. Howard Thurman, University Minister-at-Large, Boston University. Dr. Thurman, who is the author of many books, including Deep River, Footprints of a Dream, and The Inward Journey, has, over the years, addressed the faculties and students of some 500 institutions throughout the world. His travels have taken him twice around the globe during the past five years, and he has lectured in Cairo, Hong Kong, and Tokyo, as well as in the United States and Canada.

Measles Increase

The Boston Health Department's Vital Statistics Division notes that 131 cases of measles were reported in Boston during the week of January 21 as compared with only three during a comparable period in 1964. State Health Department officials also report a heavy increase in the incidence of the disease.

It is dangerous to use parking lights, instead of headlights, for driving in periods of dusk, haze, or fog. Parking lights can be mistaken by an approaching driver as meaning you are much farther away than you actually are. Keep your headlights clean, have them properly aimed and use them even in daylight when the atmosphere is not clear.

WELFARE COSTS FOR DECEMBER

Following is a summary of the Welfare Department for December:

Although the December caseload increase of 317 was normal for this period of the year, a concerted drive to process all outstanding medical payments was primarily responsible for a budget increase of more than three quarters of a million dollars above last month. As a result, the over-all budget of $5,230,759 is a new high for the year 1964. During the month 1,454 applications were approved, 254 were rejected, and 1,137 cases were closed. The current caseload of 32,763 represents a gain of 2,140 (7 percent) above the figure of one year ago.

Old Age Assistance: With an occasional exception, the general pattern of the month to month Old Age Assistance caseload has been one of gradual diminution. During December, with 180 closings neutralizing 156 approvals and reducing the count by 24, the current figure of 11,321 is 165 below the same month of one year ago. An appropriation of $1,303,192 was required to finance the program during December.

Medical Assistance for Aged: Since in contrast to the Old Age Assistance program, the caseload trend in this category has been a rising one, it comes as no surprise that an analysis of December's figures shows approvals outnumbering closings 256 to 208 for a net gain of 48 cases. Nor is it unexpected that in the year intervening since December, 1963, more than 500 cases (586) were added to the rolls with a corresponding rise in costs from $856,544 to $1,111,568.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children: The segment of the December budget allocated to underwriting this program, $1,873,969 was the largest outlay for a single category made during the entire year. Chiefly because of desertion or illness, 334 applications were approved; with the addition of 108 eligible unemployed fathers, over-all approvals totaled 442. Offsetting those caseload gains were 375 closings, including 80 previously unemployed fathers. An additional 44 cases were rejected or withdrawn.

Disability Assistance: As might be expected from the nature of this category, medical payments represented 60 percent of a total budget of $717,150 an increase of nearly a quarter of a million dollars ($242,037) above the December budget of 1963. The caseload, however, remained stable, showing 122 approvals vs. 122 closings leaving a balance of 3,720 as of the end of the year. Of the 46 applications rejected, 41 percent were for failure to meet the medical standards of the State Medical Review Team.

General Relief: With inclement weather increasing health hazards, in addition to reducing available outdoor jobs to a minimum, the consequent rise in General Relief applications is a sure harbinger of winter. During December, 543 applications were received and of 480 approved, 85 percent were for unemployment due to illness or job layoff. An appropriation of $224,880 was required to finance this program; a cost rise of $49,878 above last month.

Youth Trainees Transforming Tobin Memorial Into Top Recreation Center

A team of 14 Boston youths, training for employment, are helping to convert the Maurice J. Tobin Memorial Building in Roxbury into one of the city's finest community recreational centers.

The young men are members of job crews organized as part of the Youth Training and Employment Program of ABCD under the Manpower and Training Act. While helping their community they are also learning basic job skills and what it means to hold regular employment.

The project is under the general direction of the Parks and Recreation Department of the City of Boston.

Erected in 1952, the Tobin Memorial possesses one of the outstanding gymnasiums in New England. However, the remainder of the building, once planned as a community center, has been used for storage of city material.

The project was jointly planned by Park Commissioner William J. Devine and Arthur T. Noren of the ABCD staff with the assistance of Patrick J. Ryan, director of recreation for the department.

Mayor John F. Collins declared the program was illustrative of the close cooperation between city departments and ABCD in preparing youth for a lifetime of meaningful employment.

ABCD Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet and Commissioner Devine joined in describing the project as a unique venture in both aiding youth and improving city facilities.

The job crews cleared the building of stored materials, restored a large recreation room for dances and similar activities and developed another section of the building as an exercise and physical development room.

A room has also been renovated to serve as a center for a senior citizens organization which currently numbers 35 members.

Miss Helen Dunn is in charge of the remodeled center, which is expected to be the focal point for community activities in the Mission Hill area.

Commissioner Devine also disclosed that some job crews are working to improve the facilities of Franklin Park. He urged youth in the neighborhood who have special talents in recreational leadership to make themselves known to the ABCD recreation staff at 18 Tremont street.

The Youth Training and Employment Program, which has been under way since the beginning of 1964, is financed by grants from the United States Department of Labor to ABCD.

Hood Grant Aids BCH Help To Ailing Mothers

A baby "sitting services" which will enable ailing mothers to obtain physical examinations, treatment, and medical advice at the Out-Patient Department of the Boston City Hospital was made possible on February 2 by a grant to the hospital by the Charles Hood Foundation.

To initiate the program, Harvey P. Hood, president of the H. P. Hood Company, presented to Mayor Collins a check for $22,000.

For many years the hospital has found that some mothers have denied themselves the hospital's OPD services because a visit to its clinic would mean leaving small children alone at home.

Dr. Leon R. Lezer, the hospital's deputy superintendent for medical services, after an extended study, brought the situation before the Hood Foundation. The grant announced was the result.

Under the grant, the hospital will be able to institute a service by which mothers can bring their children with them to the hospital and turn them over to trained kindergarten teachers and social workers. They will know that the children are safe during their clinical visits. Such visits can last from a period of 30 minutes to three hours, depending on the number of clinics the mother must attend and the complexities of her medical problems.

Mayor John F. Collins hailed the grant as "another big step" in Boston's over-all health program.

"These mothers," the Mayor said, "are not to be overlooked in any comprehensive public health program. They cannot be allowed to go on suffering from ailments which might be quickly alleviated by medical attention. They cannot, above all, be permitted just to suffer or try to doctor themselves because of the fact that their love for their small children will not permit them to care for their own health."

Lasker Retires, Feb. 28

David J. Lasker of West Roxbury, 66, announced last week that he plans to retire as a member of the Election Commission, on February 28.

He has been a member of the board for 13 years.

Lasker, at the time of his retirement, will have worked for the City and Suffolk County for 20 years and eight months.

He served as chairman of the Boston Finance Commission from 1937 to 1939 and earlier as an assistant district attorney, from 1930 to 1935.

Charles D. Walsh

A Solemn Requiem Mass was sung for retired Boston Police Sergt. Charles D. Walsh of 18 Davison street, Hyde Park, Monday, February 1, at 9 A.M., at Most Precious Blood Church.

Sergeant Walsh died January 28 at the Veterans Hospital in Jamaica Plain after a long illness.

He was a World War II veteran and a member of Boston Police Post, V.F.W.

He leaves his wife, Marguerite; two sons, Cornelius and Charles; two daughters, Marguerite and Mary; two brothers, Cornelius J. and Timothy J., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Walsh.

January 25.

Personnel Order No. 645.

Patrolmen Edward W. Stewart and Stephen A. Murphy, Jr., District 9, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted two days' additional vacation.

About 9 P.M., Friday, January 1, 1965, the above officers patrolling in a sector car on Stanwood street, near Blue Hill avenue, observed four males assaulting a male who was down on the sidewalk. Upon approach of the officers one of the four was observed to throw a number of U.S. bills, which were taken from the victim, to the ground and take off on foot towards Blue Hill avenue. The other three fled on foot in various directions.

While Patrolman Stewart went to the assistance of the injured victim, Patrolman Murphy pursued two of the men into Blue Hill avenue, capturing one, who was identified as Gene Nelson, 26 years, 21 Lorne street, Dorchester. Leaving this prisoner with Patrolman Stewart, he searched establishments on Blue Hill avenue, near Grove Hall, and entering the Savoy on the Hill, observed a blood stained black topcoat and black soft hat thrown in the telephone booth. One of the patrons sitting at the bar, was without a hat or coat and breathing heavily. As a result of questioning he was arrested. He gave several fictitious names but was finally identified as Theodore Wilson, 25 years, 43 Stanwood street, Roxbury. The coat and hat found in the telephone booth was found to fit Wilson perfectly. On his person was found a counterfeit operators license.

Both were arraigned in Roxbury Court and held in $5,000 bail.

The Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness of the officers in apprehending these two vicious felons, possibly preventing the death or serious injury to the victim.

Don't jam on your brakes for a stop on ice or snow. Pump your brakes with quick, intermittent pressure, for best control.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

January 13.

General Order No. 2.

I. FIRE FIGHTER WALTER D. KRIPP.

It is with deep regret that the Fire Commissioner announces the death on January 5, 1965, of Fire Fighter Walter D. Kripp of Ladder Company 22. Fire Fighter Kripp was appointed to the department on October 21, 1942.

The funeral was held from the John H. Sawyer Funeral Home, 329 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, at 8.10 A.M., Saturday, January 9, 1965, followed by a Solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Mary's Church, Warren street, Charlestown at 9 A.M.

The Chief of Department made the customary detail to act as funeral escort, and members of Ladder Company 22 were excused from duty in order to attend the funeral services.

II. MARCH OF DIMES.

His Honor, Mayor John F. Collins, has appointed Acting City Collector-Treasurer Edmund W. Holmes to be chairman of the city employees' drive for the 1965 March of Dimes Campaign. His Honor the Mayor is deeply interested in the success of the campaign inasmuch as he knows from personal experience the tragedy that the onslaught of polio can bring upon a family.

During the past year the National Foundation has spent thousands of dollars in Suffolk County on old polio cases for hospitalization, physical therapy, orthopedic appliances, physical checkups, etc. Since the 1955 epidemic, there have been over one thousand new cases of polio, causing an expenditure of over one million dollars.

This appeal is part of a nationwide effort to fight polio and other viruses, arthritis, birth defects, and disorders of the central nervous system. Volunteer contributions are being solicited and members of the Fire Department are requested to respond generously to this appeal as they have done in the past.

Members contributing should place their names and addresses on the stub end of the pledge card, which is being issued with this order, and also the amount being contributed. The company commander, or other person collecting the money, shall give the large portion of the card to the person contributing as his or her receipt.

Company numbers should be placed on the front right-hand corner of the stubs which are to be returned with the money to Principal Clerk and Stenographer Mary E. Hourihan in the Headquarters Division. Contributions and stubs will be received from 9 A.M. to 12 noon each weekday except Saturday, and all contributions should be delivered before January 29, 1965.

III. HIGH COMMENDATION.

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend the following-named fire fighters for meritorious acts performed by them during fire at 109 Eustis street, Roxbury, Box 2126, about 9.23 P.M., December 26, 1964:

Fire Fighter James J. Coakley, Ladder Company 4.

Fire Fighter Vincent P. Hurley, Ladder Company 4.

Fire Fighter Edward C. Donovan, Jr., Engine Company 12.

Upon arrival of Ladder Company 4 at the scene of the fire, heavy smoke was emanating from second floor windows. Members of the company ascended the front stairs and forced the door into the second floor apartment which was involved in fire. Fire Fighters James J. Coakley and Vincent P. Hurley of Ladder Company 4 crawled on the floor through the burning living room and into rear bedrooms where each man found a child whom he carried back through the living room to the front hallway.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 12, Fire Fighter Edward C. Donovan, Jr., ascended a ladder, squeezed through a narrow window and found a third child in a rear bedroom of the apartment involved in fire. Realizing that there was insufficient room to make his exit back through the same window, he carried the child through the burning living room to the front hallway.

All three rescues were made prior to the operation of hose lines, without the use of gas masks, and when only limited ventilation had been effected. The foregoing men performed the rescue work at considerable risk to their persons and without thought of their own safety.

REAL SHOWPLACE

The City of Boston's new $12 million War Memorial Auditorium at the Prudential Center is truly the "showplace of the New Boston."

The decorative facade over the main entrance is made of 22-karat gold-faced terra-cotta and porcelain enamel on aluminum panels. Terra-cotta, highlighted by gold leaf, is also used on the 10-foot diameter city seal at the right of the facade.

The foyer of the auditorium is faced with Botticino marble from Italy and French rouge antique marble. The green granite used in the base of the building is from Maine.

Sidewalk mosaics of varicolored stones embedded in cement, are an unusual exterior feature.

The War Memorial Auditorium was designed by the Boston architectural firm of Hoyle, Doran and Berry.

Over $2 Million Worth of Food To Go to 20,000 Needy Families

Mayor John F. Collins on February 4 announced a program designed to distribute more than $2 million worth of federally supplied food to the city's needy. The program is expected to begin by April 1.

The City of Boston Welfare Department will administer the program with the assistance of the Commonwealth Service Corps and ABCD-sponsored Neighborhood Youth Corps trainees. It is estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 families in Boston might avail themselves of the opportunity to secure surplus foods.

Mayor Collins said it is expected the Welfare Department will establish six distribution points which will correspond roughly with welfare districts from which the neighborhoods can best be served. The program climaxes many months of work by the Mayor who asked the Welfare Department to establish such a system last year.

Mayor Collins sent a message to the City Council requesting an appropriation of $170,000 to administer the program for the remainder of 1965. The Council concurred.

Under the plan, Mayor Collins said, each needy family could receive 86 pounds of food per month. Foods being offered for distribution are: butter, dried milk, lard, cheese, hominy grits, flour, pea beans, canned meat, cornmeal, rice, rolled wheat, dried eggs, and peanut butter.

Mayor Collins continued, "assuming that a person avails himself of all the foods, it is estimated that their value will be approximately $26 per month. For the Welfare Department's computation we have assumed that probably a better approximation might be from 50 to 70 pounds per case, having a value of between $15 and $21. Hence this would mean that the surplus food made available would be well over two million dollars per year."

The Mayor said, "recipients can include those on welfare and other persons with insufficient income such as elderly people on Social Security. Rules and regulations for the distribution of food, eligibility requirements, inventory control, and certification have all been prescribed by the federal government and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and will of necessity involve considerable clerical effort."

The Mayor said ABCD already has filed with the federal government a request for certain manpower to operate the distribution points with personnel of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Under this plan youth employed under provision of the act would be used in moving and handling food packages as counter help and as clerks at the points of distribution.

1,600 Boys and Girls Aided by YAB and YEA

The Boston Youth Activities Bureau and Youth Educational Assistance, Inc. (YEA), provided service to 1,629 youths during 1964, Mayor John F. Collins was informed in the Bureau's Annual Report submitted by Executive Director James A. Travers.

Welcome Exit Near

Last year was the lowest poliomyelitis year on record in the United States, the Health Insurance Institute reported recently.

The estimated toll of children and adults stricken in 1964 if the Salk and Sabin vaccines had not been available would have been 35,000, the Institute said. Instead, it continued, only 121 cases were reported. The figure for 1963 was 449 cases.

The Institute announcement said that the disease—which took 8,822 lives and crippled countless others between 1952 and 1961—appears to be on its way out.

It noted that last year, unlike previous ones, there were no outbreaks or seasonal rises in polio incidence. The majority of reported cases were among unvaccinated persons, the Institute said.

Excise Tax Speed-Up

In Boston, 23,841 tax bills, representing $1,115,440.22, will be mailed to residents by February 15, as compared to the 17,535 at a value of $924,088.44 which were not mailed until March 27, 1964, according to Motor Vehicles Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin.

New data processing computers, which allow cities and towns to have their excise tax bills many months earlier than in previous years, were first installed in the Registry in 1963.

Great Turnout to Feature Opening of Boston's War Memorial Auditorium, Sunday, Feb. 21

In one of the most glittering openings ever accorded the introduction of a great new building in Boston, the Boston War Memorial Auditorium at Prudential Center will swing open its doors at 2 p.m., Sunday, February 21.

Among the participants, headed by Mayor Collins and Governor Volpe, will be 13 National Guard and Reserve Units, the Massachusetts Military Academy, 30 veterans' organizations, and 33 patriotic societies.

At the opening of the program 1,500 uniformed persons will parade into the auditorium to the music of the U. S. Navy Band from Pensacola, Florida, and the 215th U. S. Army Band from the Massachusetts National Guard.

Using the only remaining cannon of the Revolutionary War, the Newport, Rhode Island, Artillery Company will provide a salute during a flag-raising ceremony at the Boylston Street entrance.

The cannoners will be flanked by 30 members of the Massachusetts National Lancers, the oldest mounted governor's escort in the nation. Then a memorial plaque will be unveiled, and dignitaries will be escorted to the auditorium stage.

The Green Mountain Boys from Vermont, the Acton Company of Minute Men, Civil War Centennial Commission, Children of the American Revolution, the Cranston Blues from Rhode Island, Kentish Guards, Putnam Phalanx from Connecticut, and Varnum Continentals will be represented.

Among the veterans' organizations will be the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Navy League, Legion of Valor, Military Order of the Purple Heart, American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., and Blinded War Veterans Association.

The Air Force Pipe Band will offer a 15-minute demonstration, and 27 aviation students from the Naval Air Basic Training Command at Pensacola will present the Pageant of Flags, which traces the history of the flag.

In addition to Governor Volpe and Mayor Collins, Chairman Robert C. Nordblom of the Auditorium Committee, Senators Leverett Saltonstall and Edward M. Kennedy, House Speaker John W. McCormack and Congressmen James A. Burke and Thomas P.

O'Neill have been invited to participate.

Eli Goldston, chairman of the Dedication Committee, will preside.

The plaque reads: "Dedicated to the veterans of all wars. They offered their lives for the nation and received each for his own memory the noblest of shrines, not the graves in which their mortal bones are buried but a home in the hearts of men."

The chairman of the dedication program is John Gould, director of Public Relations for the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

Statistics show that 326 youngsters were helped by YEA. Counselling was provided to 193; 27 were placed in private trade or commercial schools; 15 were returned to public schools; 4 were placed in MDTA courses; 19 were assisted in going to college or preparing for college; 12 were given full-time employment; 38 were provided part-time jobs, and 12 were given summer employment.

Twenty private and public agencies made referrals to YEA.

A total of 1,303 youths were seen on a regular basis by Area Youth Workers assigned to eight sections of Boston by the Youth Activities Bureau. Of these youths, 247 were girls and 1,056 were boys. The Area Youth Workers had 602 contacts with parents of youngsters, 362 of which were requested by either the parent or the youth.

YAB prevented 126 dropouts and 50 dropouts were assisted in returning to school. The combined figures of the Bureau and YEA shows 126 dropouts prevented and 65 returned to school.

The Bureau obtained 115 youth jobs: 23 full-time, 47 part-time, and 45 summer jobs. The combined totals of YEA and the Bureau shows 35 full-time, 85 part-time, and 57 summer jobs were obtained.

A total of 18 were counselled and assisted into entering the armed services, 6 through YEA and 12 through the Bureau.

Forty-three were assisted in entering college, making a total of 62 who were so aided by YEA and the Bureau.

The Youth Activities Bureau's budget for 1964 was $156,993; $60,520 from the city, $60,520 from the state, and $39,953 from grants obtained through ABCD.

YEA is the abbreviation for Boston's Youth Educational Assistance, Inc., a nonprofit organization founded by Mayor John F. Collins and others to provide scholarship assistance to school dropouts and poorly trained high school youths who want a second chance to make something of their lives by obtaining additional education and training.

The Boston Youth Activities Bureau is the city's official delinquency prevention agency.

Work Training Program for 2,700 Boston Youth Offers Unprecedented Opportunity, Says Mayor

A $1,541,000 work-training program to benefit 2,700 Boston youth during the next six months has been approved by the federal government's antipoverty agency—the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Mayor John F. Collins has designated ABCD as antipoverty planning agent in Boston. He hailed the grant as “an unprecedented opportunity for the city's youth.”

He said that the municipal agencies are ready to do their part in giving young men and women work experience which will help prepare them for future employment. He declared he would push with all vigor toward expanding antipoverty efforts in the city.

Up to 1,500 in-school and 1,200 out-of-school youth in the 15-through 21-age bracket will be provided with useful work experience. They will be paid $1.25 an hour.

The out-of-school youth will be employed up to 30 hours a week with municipal and private nonprofit agencies.

The agencies will be able, through the supplementation of staff, to extend their existing services and initiate new services.

Enrollees in the in-school program will be regular students in 16 public high schools, the Boston School of Business Education and the 25 Catholic high schools located in the City of Boston.

ABCD Executive Director Joseph S. Slavet said “this first grant toward what will be one of the largest antipoverty programs in the country is the first step in making Boston a city of opportunity for its youth.

Job Training

“It is our objective to help youth prepare for the world of work while assisting city and the nonprofit agencies carry out worthwhile projects which would otherwise not be possible. One by-product of the out-of-school effort will be to prepare a cadre of youth trained for whatever full-time positions may be available in the agencies.”

He said the in-school program is concerned primarily with those students who will become dropouts if economic aid is not quickly provided. Students, working both during and after school hours, will help to free teachers and other school personnel to concentrate on their basic professional work.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps of the U. S. Department of Labor is providing $1,275,000 toward the program with the remainder of the program cost to be provided from local sources.

The entire program, together with ABCD's on-going Youth Training and Employment Program and other employment and training programs for all ages to be financed from federal antipoverty funds, will be under the direction of a Manpower Administrator on ABCD's staff.

ABCD's youth employment and work-training headquarters centers and subcenters in Roxbury-North Dorchester and the South End will be used as the intake and screening facilities in those areas for the Work-Training Program. Youth Opportunities Centers to be set up under the State Division of Employment Security will serve as the intake and screening facilities for work-training for youth living in the rest of the city.

125 Categories

More than 1,600 positions in more than 125 different job categories have been made available for the out-of-school youth.

Referrals to these intake centers will be accepted from all public and private agencies dealing with youth. Active recruitment will also be carried out by the Youth Activities Bureau of the City of Boston through a contract with ABCD under a grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Self-referral and referrals by families or friends will be encouraged.

To be eligible, youth must be between 16 and 22 years old, live in Boston, come from low-income families, be free from serious mental or physical disabilities and not be enrolled in another federally-sponsored training or employment program.

The jobs to be filled in municipal agencies will include only those which would not be carried out except for this program and no regular full-time positions will be taken over by work-training enrollees.

Positions to be filled will include clerical assistants; custodial assistants; painter, carpenter and electrician assistants; book menders and movers and bindery assistants in the public library; battery room, canvas and leather work, blacksmith, storekeeper, automotive mechanic, plumber, steamfitter and glazier assistants in the Boston Fire Department; and hospital medical worker assistants, kitchen assistants and messengers in the Boston City Hospital.

In-School Plan

Students will work an average of 10 to 15 weeks in the in-school program. They will be recruited primarily by school personnel including principals, guidance counselors, attendance officers, and teachers. Other agencies are also expected to serve as recruitment and referral resources.

In particular, dropouts returning to school will be referred to the program.

Enrollees will be subject to the same qualifications applied in the out-of-school program.

Enrollees will be assigned to specific jobs by specially recruited Guidance Advisors after consultation with the principal, assistant principal, regular guidance counselor, and student's teacher. Each student will be carefully screened to determine the type of work for which he is best qualified.

Although most of the students will work within the public and parochial school systems, work will be available in nearby nonprofit agencies for youth whose in-school assignments would conflict with class schedules.

Youth Training Program

Positions in the schools include those of library assistant, laboratory assistant, book room assistant, health room assistant, clothing guard in gymnasiums, assistant athletic manager, front door receptionist, general shop assistant, office messenger, audio-visual projectionist, cafeteria cashier and counter help, typist, custodial assistant and switchboard operator.

In all, more than 2,000 openings for the in-school program are now available in Boston's public and parochial schools.

Cassius Again Boosts City Hospital's Image

Whatever his talents as a champion heavyweight may be, regardless of his predilection for the creation of controversy, Muhammad Ali, nee Cassius Clay, has a built-in talent for attracting a favorable focus of publicity for Boston City Hospital.

On what may be his last visit to the hospital on February 8, he won a clean bill of health from Dr. William V. McDermott, the operating surgeon, who first found Cassius an unannounced patient one Friday night several months ago.

The actual physical check on February 8 was carried out with dispatch. But the rest of that afternoon and into the next day Boston City Hospital was receiving favorable publicity on TV screens, radio networks, and on about every sports page of the country.

Dr. McDermott has never witnessed a professional boxing match. Dr. James V. Sacchetti, acting director of the hospital, who became a friend of Cassius during his hospitalization, witnessed a couple of rounds of amateur boxing at Fort Banks years ago. He didn't like what he saw. He'd rather watch the Red Sox or root for his Alma Mater, Harvard, in gridiron conflict. Given his "druthers," Dr. McDermott would prefer a nice fast tennis match.

Boston City Hospital Prepares Plans To Make Smooth Transition to New Telephone System

The task of acquainting so-called "outside callers" with the new telephone system to be in operation at Boston City Hospital starting June 15 will require the assistance of a large percentage of hospital employees to make the transition smooth and efficient from the start.

Task of those using telephones at the hospital will be to make certain that persons calling in have their correct "new numbers." The big hospital complex has more than 1,000 telephones. Under the new, ultra-modern system called Centrex, these will become private-number phones.

The work of assigning the numbers which become effective in June is progressing. A new hospital telephone directory, of course, will be published.

As soon as possible, the job of informing outsiders of the new in-hospital numbers, will be initiated, according to Deputy Superintendent James G. Walsh. "The transition from the old system," said Deputy Walsh, "will not be difficult if we can acquaint those calling from outside the hospital with the numbers they will seek to reach. Actually, along with being modern and efficient, the new system will have the advantage of simplicity."

Both doctors have been promised ringside seats when and where Cassius defends his title. It's completely unlikely that either will take up Clay's promise.

Paintings to Mayor

Six framed full-color reproductions of watercolor paintings depicting Boston's Freedom Trail recently were given Mayor John Collins for efforts in boosting the "New Boston" and the trail.

Alexander M. Tanger, senior vice-president of WHDH Radio and WHDH-TV, made the presentation. The paintings, by Robert Keenan, show these points of interest along the Freedom Trail: Old North Church, Faneuil Hall, Paul Revere's House, the State House, King's Chapel, and Louisburg Square.

WHDH is offering the entire series of reproductions free to 100,000 readers through more than 100 full-page advertisements in eight leading national advertising trade publications in a current advertising campaign. Hoag & Provandie, Inc., agency prepared the campaign.

Vocational Exams

Entrance examinations for Boston Vocational Technical Institute will be held on Monday, March 8, at 2.30 P.M., at Boston Technical High School.

The two-year secondary school established in 1964 offers training in electronics, machine design, and mechanical technologies.

All courses are free and available to high school graduates from Boston and surrounding communities who seek careers as technicians.

Exam subjects will be in Algebra and English. A Mechanical Drawing exam is required for enrollment in the Machine Design course.

Aquarium Model

An architect's model and blown-up photographs of Boston's planned new aquarium are on display at the Wharf Trader Gallery, in Commercial Wharf—two blocks from the proposed site of the aquarium.

The New England Aquarium will be located on Central Wharf near the foot of State street. Work on the project will begin in April and it is expected the structure will be completed in the spring of 1967.

Parcel Eight Okay to Cabot, Cabot & Forbes

The Boston Redevelopment Authority's five-man board has unanimously approved Cabot, Cabot & Forbes as developer for a 40-story office building on Parcel 8 in the Government Center.

BRA's sanction followed the selection by Mayor Collins' blue ribbon panel of the firm's design and financing plan for the $24.3 million tower structure.

Panel Chairman Robert W. Meserve told the BRA the firm was chosen in competition over State Street Redevelopers on the basis of both design and financial commitments.

BRA Chief Edward J. Logue said: "In my opinion, the Cabot, Cabot & Forbes proposal is the strongest ever made in an urban renewal project in regard to financing and tenancy commitments. They provide the best kind of assurance that this major office structure will be constructed at the earliest possible time."

The firm has 30 days to post a $500,000 performance bond. The target date for starting construction is April, 1966, with completion expected in 1968.

Father Fahey Ordained

The Rev. Paul L. Fahey of Dorchester, one of 27 young men ordained to the priesthood by Richard Cardinal Cushing in ceremonies at Holy Cross Cathedral, February 9, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Fahey of 18 Bodwell street and a brother of Joseph Fahey, a member of the City Record staff.

Father Fahey will sing his first Solemn Mass at St. Kevin's Church, Dorchester, at 12 noon, Sunday, February 14. Officers of the Mass will be the Rev. Harold Johnson, assistant priest; the Rev. Leo J. Fahey, S.J., another brother, deacon; the Rev. J. Joseph Kierce, subdeacon; the Rev. Philip J. King, preacher. George Fahey, a cousin, will be master of ceremonies.

Father Fahey served two years in the Navy before studying for the priesthood.

Mayor Collins Protests Closing of Hospital

Mayor Collins has registered an "official protest" to Washington against the contemplated closing of the U. S. Public Health Hospital in Brighton.

Mayor Collins told Secretary of Health, Welfare and Education Anthony J. Celebrezzy the so-called Brighton Marine Hospital serves large numbers of workers in coastal seaport industries as well as Marine emergency and Coast Guard cases.

The Boston Mayor said plans to treat these patients at Veterans Administration Hospitals are unrealistic because of an already increasing demand for VA services from former military personnel. He said more, not less, space for governmental hospital treatment facilities is needed as more and more retired veterans of World War II seek services.

Mrs. Elliott was chief telephone operator in Boston City Hall for 20 years. At her retirement in September, 1963, she had worked for the City of Boston for 44 years.

She was the widow of Frank Elliott, an official of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company. She died in the Long Island home of her only surviving relative, Mrs. Mary Kelley, where she had lived since her retirement.

Meter Award

The Boston Traffic Commission on February 8 voted to award a $465,930 contract for 9,000 vandal-resistant parking meters to M. H. Rhodes, Inc., of Hartford.

Rhodes, the lowest of three bidders, gave a unit price of $50.73. Representatives of the three competing companies demonstrated their products before the commission voted.

The meters, to be paid for from the revenues they raise, are to be installed within 120 days.

Organizations seeking information about speakers are asked to contact the Boston Traffic and Parking Department.

Cathcart, a resident of Needham, is vice-president of Industrial and Public Relations for Boston Gas.

HOMETOWN PRIDE

The Swiss will go out of their way to make visitors happy, but in the small towns they are likely to call the fellow from the next town a damn-foreigner. The story is told of the people of Ermen, an old village in the Vallee de Conches, who refused to allow their gallows to be used for the execution of an outsider. "The gallows," they explained, "is for us and our children."

Welfare Costs Soar Under State Increases

Boston spent more than $9.2 million for hospital bills for the indigent last year, a 30 percent increase over 1963.

Welfare Director William F. Lally disclosed this week that half of the $2.1 million difference was due to the state-directed increase in per diem (from $36.75 to $41.25) in several of the large general hospitals. Increases in chronic care rates accounted for another $700,000.

Care in general hospitals cost almost $4.9 million, with Boston City and Long Island accounting for $3.7 million. Massachusetts General, as in past years, received the largest payment to a private hospital—$845,670, or $265,473 more than in 1963.

Care of the chronically ill totaled $3.7 million, a 22.6 percent hike, and outpatient care in general hospitals and clinics used the remaining $632,916.

Director Lally said $6 million, almost two thirds of the total, was for care of elderly persons under the programs of Old Age Assistance and Medical Assistance for the Aged.

Mayor Collins said this pointed up the necessity for early congressional passage of the proposed Medicare program.

"If the King Anderson bill presently pending in Congress is enacted," Collins said, "our proposed estimate would indicate that hospital payments for elderly by the Welfare Department would be cut by more than $3 million during the first full year of operation of the federal program."

CINCH TO FIGURE OUT

There are eight reasons why a woman buys something: Because her husband says she can't have it; it will make her look thin; it comes from Paris; the neighbors can't afford it; nobody has one; everybody has one; it's different; and because.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, January 4, 1965.

First meeting of the City Council for the year 1965 held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 10 A.M., Councillor CRAVEN, Senior Member, presiding.

The Reverend Dr. Lee C. Siler, D.D., Pastor of Columbus Avenue, A.M.E. Zion Church, Boston, was escorted to the rostrum.

DR. LEE C. SILER, D.D.

Infinitely great, and ever adorable God, we a part of the workmanship of Thine own hand, have gathered in Thy presence to reorganize and readjust the position of the city fathers.

We thank Thee for America The Beautiful: With its towering mountains, its rolling hills, its rippling brooks, and its beautiful cities.

We thank Thee for her varied form of government: whether national, state, or city. May those who have the responsibility of executing the principles of this city government, be fair in all their dealings with both men and measures.

We pray that each councillor may be endowed, with physical strength, moral courage, and spiritual guidance to do the right as Thou dost give the wisdom to know the right.

Bless this city with its many schools, colleges, churches, and all of its efforts to promote the betterment of its citizens; and now may the words of my mouth and meditation of my heart be acceptable in Thy sight O Lord, our strength and our Redeemer. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

ESCORT TO MAYOR COLLINS.

Chairman CRAVEN—His Honor, Mayor John F. Collins, will deliver his annual address at 10.35 A.M. The CHAIR will, therefore, appoint Councillors Kerrigan and Langone to escort the Mayor to the Council Chamber.

The CHAIR now declares a short recess while we await the arrival of his Honor, the Mayor.

(Short recess.)

The committee appointed to escort Mayor Collins to the chamber retired and presently returned in company with the Mayor, who was greeted with applause upon his entrance.

Chairman CRAVEN—Members of the City Council, invited and honored guests, it is a deep privilege and honor to present to you the Honorable John F. Collins, Mayor of Boston, who will now deliver his annual address. Mayor Collins.

ANNUAL MESSAGE OF HON. JOHN F.
COLLINS, MAYOR OF BOSTON.

Thank you, Councillor Craven.

Reverend Clergy, Honorable Members of the Boston City Council, Honorable Elijah Navi, Mayor of Beersheba, Israel, and Mrs. Navi, Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Except for the dark shadows of certain fiscal problems which we must face and solve during the coming year, I look forward to 1965 with renewed confidence and continuing enthusiasm, so far as the prospects of the City of Boston are concerned.

Nineteen hundred and sixty-four was a year which started in sadness but ended in hope, not only for this nation but for this city. It was a year which began while we were still numb from shock and grief, following the tragic death of our beloved President, John F. Kennedy.

It was a year attended by much physical and emotional violence, in connection with the great struggle for civic rights. It was a Presidential election year, giving rise to intense, and frequently bitter, partisan political debate.

Happily, the year ended with what I am positive is a better and genuine spirit of mutual understanding, respect and cooperation among all the people of this nation. Moreover, as far as the national political debate which took place, if there was no unanimity as to what kind of government the people want, they were unequivocal in indicating what kind of government they do not want.

Were it not for the fiscal problems to which I will advert, the outlook for our city during 1965 would not only be cheerful, but exclusively cheerful. For 1965 is the year in which we cap many of our major efforts of the last several years. Nineteen hundred and sixty-five will see substantial completion of the Prudential Center, with the Prudential Building itself fully occupied, the new Sheraton-Boston Hotel opened for occupancy, and the new War Memorial Municipal Auditorium dedicated on February 21.

Faith and confidence in your "New Boston" is underlined by the tremendous increase in private building construction. Currently more than 45 million dollars is being spent for multiunit dwellings which will provide accommodations for more than 6,000 families. And at the same time, more than 2,000 single and two-family homes are being built for new residents.

And as buildings go up, some others come down, as the city continues its never-ending war against blight. Also the Zoning Code for the New Boston will bring further improvement in the type of new construction which can be foreseen.

Nineteen hundred and sixty-five will see the completion of major elements of the new Government Center, with the new Federal Building completed, the new State Building up in part, the new City Hall above ground, and the superstructure of the new privately-financed office building rising to its maximum height.

Elsewhere in the city we will see completion or dedication of more and more of the edifices which mean so much to the spirit, as well as to the appearance, of our great city, with more and more pleasant and dignified housing for those of moderate income, including relocation housing; and a start on the great Waterfront Project.

There is another building on the Boston scene that deserves the salute of each of us—and that is Boston City Hospital which continues to move forward with an aggressive multimillion-dollar capital improvement program.

Boston City Hospital, which just celebrated its 100th birthday, marking a century of service, continues to stand in the forefront of municipal teaching hospitals dedicated to improving health standards throughout the nation. Soon plans will be completed to link the hospital with the City Health Department. A merger such as this will provide a better, stronger, and more efficient public health program for the City of Boston and her people.

I must pause here to say that I would be remiss if I were not to notice and congratulate the Honorable City Council for its role in making all of these projects realizable.

Boston's image, Boston's spirit, Boston's reputation have never been better than in 1965, and you and all the fine people of Boston can take pride in your accomplishments—the results of efforts so courageously undertaken, despite the forbidding prophecies of the gloomy soothsayers.

But most of all, Boston and, I am sure, all of Massachusetts, will benefit during 1965 from a quantity and quality of legislative accomplishments for the people of our state which have never been surpassed in the history of our Commonwealth.

For there is evidence that not only the legislative leadership, but also the rank and file of the Great and General Court are both attentive to the fiscal problems of the cities and towns, and determined to attack those problems with an energy, industry and wisdom unmatched in many years.

The problems which the Legislature faces this year are neither few nor simple, ranging as they do from meeting the state's own fiscal needs, as well as the crucial needs of all the cities and towns, and including, as they do, the matter of implementing those portions of the Willis Report on education which admit neither of debate nor delay.

By any standard, the recent state election must be interpreted as a decision by the Massachusetts electorate that the needs of the cities and towns must be met, even if that involves an increase in our state tax structure.

What is needed is a demonstration by the people of this city and this state, through public communication to the Legislature, by every means and through every medium, that this decision by the electorate is also a mandate, the execution of which will have their universal approval.

I firmly believe that you and I can place our reliance on the Great and General Court, and that we may look forward with confidence this year to forward-looking legislation, of immediate benefit to Boston and its sister cities and towns, which will bespeak the statesmanship of the legislative leadership and a sense of public responsibility on the part of the Legislature as a whole.

Needless to say—and for reasons already familiar to most of the people of Boston—substantial financial relief, resulting from such legislative action, is crucial to the City of Boston in 1965.

It is anticipated that the gross increase in the 1965 municipal budget will be about 25 to 26 million dollars. Of this amount, 7½ million dollars is represented by increases in Welfare and Veterans' Services, 3 to 4 million dollars is represented by additional school department budgeting, 4 million dollars by Police and Fire Department salary increases, 1½ million dollars by additional MBTA assessments, 1½ million dollars by additional retirement payments.

Also involved are normal increases of about 3½ million dollars in general departmental expenses, and an increase of about 4 million dollars in debt service, resulting chiefly from capital investments in the improvement of the equipment and structures of the New Boston.

Although we can anticipate free cash that will offset some of these increases as a result of diligent efforts to tighten the city's financial affairs, net additional appropriations may have to be as much as fifteen to twenty million dollars.

Unless this amount is offset by additional aid from the state, or action by the state to take over the administration and costs of certain programs now being performed by the city, then the property tax rate must, perforce, go up.

The property tax rate, without help from the state, will probably go up by an amount of between ten and fifteen dollars per thousand.

I shall, however, continue to closely scrutinize every area for expenditure and endeavor to collect all outstanding revenues due to the city in a constant and determined effort to lessen the burden on our homeowners and rent payers.

We could, of course, obviate a portion of this increase by reducing the quantity and quality of municipal services. But I do not believe that any of our citizens would seriously consider a cessation of our program of modern street lighting, or a diminution of our highway reconstruction program, or a deliberate downgrading of our excellent fire, police, traffic, and other municipal services.

Of course, a significant part of the increase in our 1965 appropriations results, directly or indirectly, from the November referendum on the Police Pay Raise, a referendum which passed by the narrowest of margins, after a rather well-financed campaign on its behalf while the city was legally powerless to expend one cent for radio, television or newspaper advertising for the purpose of contesting the same.

Now I do not begrudge any man a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but there are three lessons inherent in this referendum experience:

First of all, such a referendum should not—in the absence of manifest injustice or inequities—be authorized except with the approval of the local mayor or board of selectmen.

Second, such a referendum should not—in fairness to all other employees—be authorized for the benefit of a single class of municipal employees.

And third, the Legislature should either forbid the expenditure of any moneys for political advertising in connection with such a referendum, or should authorize the city or town involved to expend reasonable sums in opposition thereto.

In any event, what is done is done, and we now have to pay the piper, and it would be most unfortunate if the property owner, as usual, has to pick up the bill by himself.

I am therefore all the more hopeful that the Legislature will, in its wisdom, this year devise a definite means of relieving the strain on the homeowners' pocketbooks and that of other local taxpayers.

For myself—and I am sure I speak for all of you, as well—I intend to devote myself with renewed energy and unbounded enthusiasm in helping to strengthen our beloved city, which truly grows better and more magnificent each year.

May Divine blessings attend our efforts.

APPROPRIATION FOR POLICE DEPARTMENT, PERSONAL SERVICES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 4, 1965.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am forwarding herewith a communication from the Commissioner of the Police Department in which he has requested the funds necessary to implement the new salary schedule of the patrolmen and superior officers of the Boston police.

Under the provisions of section 3A of the City Charter, city and county officers who are authorized to make expenditures in the period after the expiration of any fiscal year, and before the regular appropriations have been made by the City Council, are restricted in incurring liabilities during such interval for regular employees to an amount not exceeding in any one month the average monthly expenditure of the last three months of the preceding fiscal year. This limitation would make it impossible to carry out the provisions of chapter 230 of the Acts of 1964, in accordance with the mandate of the voters of the city in their acceptance of Referendum No. 8 which appeared on the November 3, 1964, state election ballot.

In order to make the proposed increases effective as of January 6, 1965, the first Wednesday of the New Year, I am submitting the attached order appropriating $2,640,000 for annual salary and overtime which it is estimated will provide the adjustment for Personal Services requirements of the Police Department for the fiscal year 1965. So that there will be no delay in payment of the current pay rolls of the department, I recommend immediate consideration and adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Police Department, December 29, 1964.
Hon. John F. Collins,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

In order to adjust the compensation of the patrolmen and superior officers of the Boston Police Department, effective January 6, 1965, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 230 of the Acts of 1964, as approved by the registered voters of the City of Boston on November 3, 1964, the following budgetary appropriation is respectfully requested:

GROUP 1. PERSONAL SERVICES.

Class 10 (Permanent Employees).....	$2,540,000
Class 12 (Overtime).....	100,000
Total	$2,640,000

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND L. MCNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

Ordered, That the respective sum of money specified for the Police Department, in the schedule hereinafter set out be, and hereby is, appropriated for the purpose hereinafter specified, said sum to be raised by taxation on the estates of the City of Boston, and that all orders heretofore or hereinafter passed by the City Council relating to appropriations, taxes and interest thereon apply to the appropriations and taxes herein provided for.

1-02-11 Police Department.

1. Personal Services.....$2,640,000

On motion of Councillor Hines, the rules were suspended and the order was passed, yeas 9.

APPROPRIATION FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT, PERSONAL SERVICES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 4, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith a communication from the Commissioner of the Fire Department in which he has requested funds for the implementation of the new salary schedule of the Boston Fire Fighting Force and the Fire Alarm Division.

Since it has been my policy to compensate the uniform members of the Fire Department on an equitable basis with the Police Department, I am adjusting the compensation plan of the Fire Department to conform to the police plan adopted by the voters of Boston at the last state election.

Under the provisions of section 3A of the City Charter, city and county officers who are authorized to make expenditures in the period after the expiration of any fiscal year, and before the regular appropriations have been made by the City Council, are restricted in incurring liabilities during such interval for regular employees to an amount not exceeding in any one month, the average monthly expenditure of the last three months of the preceding fiscal year. This limitation would make it impossible to carry out this policy.

In order to make the proposed increases effective as of January 6, 1965, which is the first Wednesday of the year, I am forwarding herewith an order appropriating $1,295,886 which it is estimated to provide the Personal Service requirements for annual salary and overtime adjustment for the fiscal year 1965. In order that there be no delay in payment of the current pay rolls of the department, I recommend immediate consideration and adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, December 30, 1964.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request that your Honor appropriate the sum of $1,295,886.21 which will be allocated to the following classes in the 1965 Fire Department Budget:

10 Permanent Employees.....	$1,251,886.21
12 Overtime	$44,000.00

This appropriation is required for the implementation of the new salary adjustments for members of the Fire Fighting Force and the Fire Alarm Division of the Fire Department as approved by your Honor to become effective January 6, 1965.

Very truly yours,

THOMAS J. GRIFFIN, Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That the respective sum of money specified for the Fire Department, in the schedule hereinafter set out be, and hereby is, appropriated for the purpose hereinafter specified, said sum to be raised by taxation on the estates of the City of Boston, and that all orders heretofore or hereinafter passed by the City Council relating to appropriations, taxes and interest thereon apply to the appropriations and taxes herein provided for.

1-01-21 Fire Department.....	$1,295,886

POLICY STATEMENT FROM BRA.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

Whereas, Thirty percent of federal funds available for urban renewal may be allotted to nonresidentially related projects:

Whereas, Such projects within this 30 percent reservation may be pointed toward increase in the net taxable commercial property in Boston:

Whereas, Boston has need in this year of an additional 15 to 20 million dollars in revenue;

Whereas, Boston's urban renewal program has been in effect since 1950 and under the present Development Administrator since 1960;

Whereas, In view of the enormous sums expended, a substantial net increase in taxable property this year under the aforesaid 30 percent reservation should be expected;

Whereas, The Annual Message of the Mayor indicates no such expectations; be it therefore

Resolved, That the City Council calls again upon the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority to indicate in a policy statement that its program is designed toward a substantial net increase in commercial property in the City of Boston; and be it further

Resolved, That the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority is hereby requested respectfully to state when its enormously costly program will produce for the City of Boston a net substantial increase in revenue with which to meet the constantly rising service charges with which the City of Boston is faced.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, January 11, 1965.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Our Father, God, by whose good providence we are the sharers of the rich and costly privileges which are our heritage in this land of freedom's holy light, we solemnly invoke Thy blessings. In the 335th year of its founding as a town, its 143rd year as a city on the three hills we ask Thy benediction upon Boston, its Mayor, its Council, and its People.

We come to this chamber, to positions of privilege and of power, desiring nothing for ourselves which we do not desire for all others. In the pursuit of our duties save us from all compromise of principle, from shoddy workmanship, and cowardly expediency. Let not a passion for security, a morbid fear of change, a cringing timidity crush out our high aspirations to work here for the honor, the safety, and the welfare of our people.

We seek the light of Thy wisdom, the strength of Thy might, that we may think clearly, act kindly, and play valiantly our part in the life of our time, in this New Year for a New Boston.

May the words of our city's motto be the content of our prayer.

Sicut patribus, sit Deus nobis. As He was with our fathers, may God be with us. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

JURORS DRAWN.

Jurors were drawn in the manner prescribed by law, Councillor G. F. Foley presiding at the box, in the absence of the Mayor, viz.:

Four additional grand jurors, Superior Criminal Court, to appear February 1, 1965: Ludger N. Nichols, Ward 1; Wyatt J. Robare, Ward 13; William King, Ward 17; Adele Turetsky, Ward 21.

PROPOSED SALE OF LAND IN EAST BOSTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, January 11, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Supplementing my transmittal letter of October 29, 1962, with accompanying order and enclosing communication received from Thomas J. Griffin, Fire Commissioner, recommending the sale of land owned by the City of Boston located at Saratoga and Byron streets, East Boston, formerly used for Fire Department purposes, I submit herewith offer dated January 5, 1965, of the Grace Church Federated of East Boston. Also enclosed is signed petition and magazine article which the petitioners requested be forwarded to you,

I am informed that this matter is pending before the Committee on Public Lands of your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

John Santoro,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
January 5, 1965.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

In Re: Order of Sale of Land at the Corner of Saratoga and Byron Streets, East Boston, Mass. An Empty Lot of Land, Consisting of About 10,000 Square Feet Formerly Occupied by a Discontinued Fire House.

My dear Mayor Collins:

As a result of a personal conference which your Honor was gracious enough to hold, with a committee in behalf of the Grace Church Federated of East Boston, and in keeping with your suggestion to reduce to writing the offer for the acquisition of said land; therefore we in compliance with your suggestion are hereby setting forth our detailed offer and promises which are as follows:

The Grace Church Federated hereby offers one thousand (1,000) dollars for the title to said land.

If said offer is accepted by the City of Boston, we the members of the Grace Church Federated promise within a reasonable time to erect a fence with proper gates leading onto said lot.

That within 5 months, spring time, said lot will be hardtopped.

That said land will be used by the church for church and civic affairs such as open-air activities, church fairs, open-air suppers, and many other church activities.

Our present church building facilities are at present being used by young people of all religious faiths, for Cub Scout Troop, Girl and Boy Scouts—Scout leader's meeting place, East Boston Garden Club members (for their meetings), and also other groups too numerous to mention and since we as members are fully aware that the present church facilities are not adequate, therefore said lot could also be used by the aforementioned groups and it is the hope of the church members to ultimately use said land to build a one-story structure to be used as an auxiliary assembly hall in order to more adequately provide the facilities for all these activities.

Merely as a suggestion, will your Honor, together with any correspondence which you send to the Boston City Council, please also forward to them the signed petition and the magazine article (concerning Rev. Roger P. Cleveland) which were presented to your Honor during our recent bearing with you.

May I take this opportunity in behalf of Rev. Roger P. Cleveland and the members of the Grace Church Federated to extend to you our heartfelt appreciation for your kind and courteous attention which was accorded us during the discussion of this problem.

With sincerest regards, I remain

Respectfully yours,
JOHN SANTOS.

P. S. As a result of a meeting held Tuesday evening, January 5, 1965, the church stands ready to spend at least another $1,000 to fence and hardtop said lot. (Annexed hereto is petition and magazine article referred to.)

Referred to Committee on Public Lands, when appointed.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, January 25, 1965.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair. Absent, Councillor Langone.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Eternal God with the light of Thy wisdom and the strength of Thy grace enable these Thy servants who have been entrusted with the stewardship of our city's welfare to be true servants of Thine and of Thy people. May they be ever faithful in their response to human need and the common good that they may never fear the searching judgment of their fellowman nor the final judge of all the earth from whom no secrets are hid.

In unity with the civilized world we share a common sorrow in the passing of a public servant who will be remembered forever as the most faithful guardian of liberty, the noblest sentinel of human dignity, courageous custodian of human rights. Age will follow age along the pathway of the years, and great men will come and go, but as long as there are men like the great-hearted Winston Churchill just so long will men be brave and free. May he now enter into paradise amid whose sylvan bowers no enemy lurks, where blood, toil, tears, and sweat will be no more. In the joy and peace of heaven may the old soldier find that his finest hours—that have no ending—are yet to be.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

LOAN IN ANTICIPATION OF REVENUE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of the attached communication of the City Auditor. In accordance with the recommendations contained therein, I submit herewith an order authorizing the issuance during 1965 of temporary loans in anticipation of revenue to an amount not exceeding $40,000,000.

I respectfully recommend adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

January 18, 1965.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

In order to provide for the financing of the operation of the municipal government during the fiscal year 1965, it is necessary to submit to the City Council at an early meeting an order authorizing the issuance as needed during the year of temporary loans in anticipation of revenue receipts. This method of financing is made necessary by the fact that under the Massachusetts municipal tax calendar, the major portion of the city's revenue receipts is received late in the year.

By authority of section 4 of chapter 44 of the General Laws, the city could issue in 1965 in anticipation of revenue receipts temporary loans which would not exceed, in the aggregate, the total tax levy of the fiscal year 1964 together with the corporation and income tax distributions received from the Commonwealth in the same year. This would total $166,830,767.08. In 1964, a total of $40,000,000 was authorized by the City Council and approved by the Mayor. During the year it was necessary to issue $30,000,000. At the present time it appears that the 1965 requirements for this type of financing will be $40,000,000.

I respectfully recommend, therefore, that an order in the amount of $40,000,000 be submitted to the City Council for consideration and adoption.

Respectfully,

JOHN T. LEONARD,
City Auditor.

Ordered, That to provide temporarily money to meet the appropriations for the financial year 1965, the Collector-Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized to issue and sell, at such times and in such amounts as he may deem best, notes or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston, not exceeding $40,000,000 in the total, in anticipation of the revenue of the financial year that all such notes or certificates of indebtedness be made payable with the interest thereon within one year of their date and bear interest from their date until the same are made payable at such rate as the Collector-Treasurer and the Mayor may determine. The said Collector-Treasurer is hereby further authorized to renew or refund any such notes issued for a shorter period than one year, under the provisions of section 17 of chapter 44 of the General Laws.

OPPOSITION TO DECISION OF MASSACHUSETTS PORT AUTHORITY TO ADAPT LOGAN AIRPORT FOR SUPERSONIC TRANSPORT AIRCRAFT.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

Whereas, Under the so-called Prudential omnibus legislation, the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority is the Planning Board of the City of Boston; and

Whereas, The Massachusetts Port Authority has determined upon a policy of adapting Logan Airport for supersonic transport aircraft; and

Whereas, Supersonic transport aircraft upon the present and foreseeable state of the art of aircraft design have space requirements in excess of the needs of subsonic aircraft and can be operated only at the extreme inconvenience of persons in the vicinity; and

Whereas, The location of airports to accommodate supersonic transport aircraft is a question much debated in aeronautical circles; and

Whereas, The Massachusetts Port Authority has available in Hanscom Field a major airport now little used in an area of low-density residential use, which could be expanded at little cost and inconvenience; and

Whereas, Logan Airport should be operated in a way most complementary to the interests of the City of Boston; be it therefore

Resolved, That the City Council strenuously opposes the policy decision of the Massachusetts Port Authority to adapt Logan Airport for supersonic transport aircraft as an undue and unjust imposition upon the many residents of Boston who will be inconvenienced by the operation of these aircraft; and be it further

Resolved, That the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, as it is the Planning Board of the City of Boston, obtain unqualified technical advice upon the subject of the use of Logan Airport for supersonic transports; and be it finally

Resolved, That the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, as it is the Planning Board of the City of Boston, obtain technical advice as to the operation of the airport pursuant to policies which will do the city the most good.

Ordered, That the Building Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to give his reasons in writing for the issuance of a license for the storage of new and used cars on the premises located in the rear of 800 Huntington Avenue, Roxbury, in view of the fact that three previous requests for this type of license were denied by the Board of Appeal.

Passed under suspension of the rules.

SYMPATHY UPON DEATH OF SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL.

Coun. HINES offered the following:

RESOLUTION.

The Boston City Council, which happily saluted Sir Winston Churchill only a few weeks ago on his 90th birthday, today sadly adjourns in commemoration of his death. We recall today our city's singular good fortune in having known the presence of Sir Winston, Second Honorary Citizen of the United States of America, as indeed in former days, Boston also was singularly honored by the presence of our only other Honorary Citizen of this country, the Marquis de Lafayette.

At the outbreak of World War II, when Poland was wantonly invaded, a famous broadcast closed with the words: "The lights of the world are going out tonight—God grant that they be turned on again in our time!"

After six tragic years of war against oppression and tyranny—a war which devoured the lives of thirty million men, women, and children—the lights did come on again for the world and no man could claim greater glory in the awesome and blessed victory than Winston Churchill.

Ordered, That this Resolution be forwarded to Her Majesty's Consul General.

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous rising vote.

ELECTION OF CITY CLERK.

Coun. TIERNEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the City Council now proceed to the election of a City Clerk to serve for the term of three years beginning with the first Monday in February, 1965, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

Assistant City Clerk O'Donnell called the roll with the following result:

Ordered, That effective January 27, 1965, Mary Claire Sullivan be, and is hereby, appointed in the service of the Clerk of Committees Department to the position of temporary clerk until the fourth Wednesday in February at a salary of $105 per week.

Passed under suspension of the rules.

REQUEST RE PRIVATE NONTAXABLE INSTITUTIONS.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That the private nontaxable institutions in Boston be requested to publicly explain their true economic impact upon the City of Boston.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

RENTALS IN PROBLEM AREAS.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and the BRA and ABCD be requested to realistically determine

1. The lowest average rental which can be obtained in a problem area in which codes are strictly enforced and the property is operated according to conventional Real Estate financing.

2. The number of families and persons who cannot pay an economic rent for this property in the City of Boston.

On motion of Councillor Craven, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Public Housing.

POLICY RE VIOLATORS OF VARIOUS CODES.

Coun. G. F. FOLEY offered the following:

Whereas, Considerable publicity has been devoted depicting the situation regarding slumlords and buildings which are inadequate according to the code; and

Whereas, The courts have been mentioned in these communications and whereas these statistics bear a relevancy to the present topic; be it

Resolved, That the City Council approves the consistent policy on the part of the courts of punishing violators of the various codes when the evidence warranted the same.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

FUNDS FOR REHABILITATION OF OLDER PROPERTIES.

Coun. W. J. FOLEY offered the following:

Whereas, In 1964 legislation was enacted by the Great and General Court providing money for loans for rehabilitation of older properties; and

Whereas, Legal or administrative difficulties have arisen and these monies were not made available; be it

Resolved, That the Corporation Counsel, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to interest himself and the Law Department in the question of freeing those funds from whatever legal or administrative restriction presently denying their availability.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 4.30 P.M., on motion of Councillor Iannella, to meet on Monday, February 1, 1965, at 2 P.M.

100,000 To Participate in Four-Day Auditorium Dedication Ceremonies

New Boston's "Showplace"—The Boston War Memorial Auditorium—will be opened Sunday, February 21.

The official time is 2 P.M.

It will be an historic moment, when they cut the ribbon.

It will become even more historic when the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner" are offered for the first time to a distinguished Auditorium audience—to an audience which will include many military organizations carrying the colors of those who have fought and died to make America great.

It was Mayor John F. Collins who first called the Auditorium "The Showplace of New Boston." He was aware that this was the first completed major city structure from an explosive blueprint which has attracted national attention.

From a floor 'way up in the sky-reaching floors of the great Prudential Tower a stray observer will see an estimated total of 100,000 men, women, and children passing through the Auditorium, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, February 21, 22, 23, and 24.

There'll be pageantry, concerts, lectures, plays, panel discussions, fashion shows, and sparkling exhibitions.

All events will be open to the public without charge except for "Pops Night," February 22, and "Variety Night," February 23.

More than 1,500 uniformed representatives of military, veterans, and patriotic organizations will participate in the dedication exercises February 21, along with civic, political, and religious leaders.

Governor Volpe, Senators Saltonstall and Kennedy, Speaker of the House John W. McCormack, and Congressmen James A. Burke and Thomas P. O'Neill are scheduled to attend. Eli Goldston, president of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, will preside as chairman of the Dedication Week Committee.

Music will be provided by the U. S. Navy Band from Pensacola, Florida, the U. S. Army Band of the Massachusetts National Guard, and the Air Force Pipe Band.

A flag-raising ceremony outside the Auditorium and the unveiling of a black marble plaque in the foyer will precede the exercises. The plaque's gold letters read,

"Dedicated to the veterans of all wars. They offered their lives for the nation and received each for his own memory the noblest of shrines, not the graves in which their mortal bones are buried but a home in the hearts of men."

Nobel Luncheon

Following the Sunday opening, many events are planned for Monday, February 22, through Wednesday, February 24.

BHA Opens Its 9th Project for Elderly

Approximately 1,000 applications were received by the Boston Housing Authority for 81 apartments being leased in the Authority's new housing development for the elderly in Brighton, BHA Chairman Jacob I. Brier announced on February 11.

The federally-aided development is the ninth completed by the BHA in its elderly housing program. It is at 91-95 Washington street.

The brick structure, completed three months ahead of schedule, has community facilities on the street floor and six floors of elevator apartments above ground level. Four automatic elevators, two at each wing of the building, serve each floor.

A number of special facilities for the safety, comfort, and convenience of the elderly occupants have been incorporated into the design of the 72 one-bedroom and 9 two-bedroom apartments.

These include handgrips in the bathrooms which have low (recessed) bathtubs and emergency signals located in both the bedroom and bathroom which sound an alarm outside the apartment and unlock the door automatically.

Apartments are easy to maintain. There are no thresholds throughout the building.

Federal Job Corps Physical Exams

Boston's first group of volunteers for the Federal Job Corps were given medical examinations at the Norfolk House Center, Roxbury, on February 10. The 18 youths were 16 through 21 years old and come from Roxbury and the South End.

Medical evaluation and other information will form the basis for selection of applicants by the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington.

The Job Corps, one of the federal antipoverty programs, places youth in training centers in rural and urban areas throughout the country. At these centers corpsmen will contribute to the further development of the country's natural resources and the betterment of its communities. They will also learn work skills and receive remedial education which will provide them with greater job opportunities when they leave the Corps.

The centers will provide housing, education, training, and recreational facilities. They are already operating in Maryland, Oregon, and California. One is slated to open soon in Wellfleet, Massachusetts. Others are expected to open across the country within the next few months.

Applicants are being screened and processed at Norfolk House Center (a member of the Roxbury Federation of Community Centers) and the youth employment center operated by United South End Settlements, Inc., at 48 Rutland street.

The centers are part of the youth training and employment program developed in partnership between the City of Boston and Action for Boston Community Development. ABCD has been selected by the federal government to handle Job Corps applications.

Vocational Training

ABCD, a private, nonprofit organization, was earlier designated by Mayor Collins as the coordinating agency for Boston's antipoverty programs.

Vocational training opportunities for corpsmen include reforestation surveying, botanical investigation, heavy equipment operation, auto mechanics, clerical and sales duties, data machine processing operation, electronics and other rural, industrial and business skills.

Selection for training in rural programs or urban programs will be based upon individual interests and aptitudes.

Both rural and urban Job Corps Training Centers will provide remedial education studies. They include reading, writing, arithmetic, and speech. The studies are geared to enable each corpsman to extend his educational achievements beyond their present limits.

Clothing and Board

Corpsmen will be furnished with all necessary clothing, equipment, room and board. In addition, they will receive a monthly allowance and a termination payment.

An allotment plan is available to members whereby they agree to have a portion of their termination money sent home each month. The amount they specify will be matched with a like amount by the Corps. This enables corpsmen to actively contribute to the financial support of their families.

Membership in the Corps is open to one million young men and women whose lack of secondary education, inability to secure satisfactory work and substandard reading and arithmetic levels prevent them from entering the job market. In exceptional cases, high school graduates will be enrolled.

Enrollment in the Corps may range from three months to two years. The average period of service is expected to be one year.

Basic requirements for young men and women desiring to join the Job Corps are: they must be 16 to 21 years old, out of school, and unable to find a job.

United South End Settlements, Inc., will be conducting a similar medical examination for a second group of Job Corps applicants within the next two weeks.

Job Corps is one of the many opportunities offered youth applying to ABCD's youth training and employment program. Others include neighborhood work crews, on-the-job training, remedial education, and MDTA skill training. The purpose of all of these programs is to provide youth with greater opportunities to enter—and remain in—the job market.

Creative Arts

Participants in the War Memorial Auditorium discussion on creative arts Wednesday, February 24, at 4 P.M. include Francis Robinson, assistant manager of the Metropolitan Opera, guest speaker; Perry T. Rathbone, director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts; Sara Caldwell, artistic director, Boston Opera Group; Freda H. Goldman, of the Center for the Study of Liberal Education for Adults, and Elliot Norton, drama critic for the Boston Record-American, as chairman.

Herbert A. Kenny, editor for the arts, Boston Globe, is coordinator of the poetry symposium and workshop to be held February 22 with William Alfred of Harvard University, Father Sweeney, S.J., Boston College, and Samuel L. Albert of the Boston Center for Adult Education, participating.

Boston's Master Ten-Year Plan Expected to Attract $2 Billion in Private Financing

(The following article was printed in the January issue of The Realtor, published by the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, Inc.):

Boston has announced a new master plan for the city.

It is a ten-year plan proposing the investment of $3.6 billion in public and private funds. According to the announcement by the Boston Redevelopment Authority, about $2 billion of the total is expected to come from private sources.

The plan for the physical development of Boston under Mayor John F. Collins, entitled "The 1965-1975 General Plan for the City of Boston and the Regional Core," is available at the library of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board for study.

Included in the $3.6 billion figure is the sum of $502 million for new housing construction and rehabilitation; $200 million for transit improvements; $426 million for street construction and alterations; $287 million for public schools, recreation, and other municipal facilities; $401 million for commercial development; $508 million for institutional development; and $42 million for industrial development.

Among the plan's most important proposals are:

the elimination of over 3,000 acres of unused vacant land in the city by 1975 with acreage increases by that date of 44 percent for public facility land uses (including a small proportion for expansion of major institutions), 29 percent for commercial land use, 21 percent for open spaces, 9 percent for industry, and 4 percent for residential uses; the construction of 37,000 new housing units, including over 16,000 in the Regional Core and the rehabilitation of 32,000 existing housing units, to replace Boston's 29,000 substandard housing units by 1975;

the extension of the city's main rapid transit lines to or beyond Route 128, limited new highway construction, and the net addition of over 25,000 new parking spaces among other major transit and parking improvements;

the construction and/or modernization by 1975 of $287 million worth of new municipal facilities, with major emphasis upon the construction of 61 new elementary and intermediate schools, and additions to 18 elementary and intermediate schools, as recommended in the BRA-prepared 1963-1975 Capital Improvements Program published last year;

the projected increase of about 35,000 new jobs largely owing to the opportunities for development in office work, retail, government service, institutions and other means of employment; out of a forecasted overall population increase by 1975 of approximately 40,000;

the filling in of parts of the Fort Point Channel for industrial, institutional, and open space uses; the development of air rights over the Turnpike extension and railroad yards; and more intensive re-use of fringe, industrial, and railroad use areas around the path of the proposed new Inner Belt to emphasize industry, wholesaling, goods distribution, institutions, and other activities requiring a comparatively central location near major, high-speed transportation facilities; the reclamation for recreational uses of the Neponset River, the harbor shoreline, large sections of the foreshore between the Neponset River and Columbus Park, the Harbor Islands, and the harborside area around the Fort Point Channel;

the preservation and enhancement of those unique assets which have made Boston throughout its history the "City of Ideas," with particular emphasis upon its character as a center for advanced educational, medical and cultural institutions, and its unique combination of historically independent neighborhoods; the adoption of a policy of "Capital Design" to give publicly financed development projects "the maximum generating, guiding effect on privately planned and financed projects"; and the staging of a 1975 "World's Freedom Fair" in Boston, situated at a cluster of zones in or near the heart of the city, to mark the completion of the Development Program and the "commemoration of two centuries of Boston's leadership in American independence."

Specific Proposals

As an attempt to give explicit direction to the ideals that underlie one of the most extensive renewal programs in the country, the proposed General Plan makes many specific proposals for Boston's physical, social, and economic development.

Among its noteworthy departures from customary comprehensive planning proposals are its recommendations for specific legislative and financial aids to its own achievement.

"Because" the plan states, "the needs of the city are too extensive to be solved by government alone," the plan particularly stresses the need for "Capital Design" in Boston, a companion process to capital budgeting which, by controlling the geographic distribution, site selection, and architectural and landscape treatment of municipal facilities, would give publicly financed development projects "the maximum generating, guiding effect on privately planned and financed projects."

To establish this long-range "New Design for Boston," the plan would establish recommended standards for building and site design, together with imaginative redesigning of land use and transportation patterns throughout the metropolitan area.

The end result, according to the plan, would be to "make the City of Ideas not only more commodious, but more beautiful as well," and to enable rebuilding to begin again in Boston on a "grand visionary scale."

Several of the plan's legislative recommendations touch upon areas of long-standing concern to city administrators. Among these are the need for further consolidation of government functions in the metropolitan area, the question of development rights to railroad rights-of-way in the metropolitan area, the proposed office of city architect, and other public powers of design review over private construction in Boston.

The plan also asserts that the BRA will not implement project plans "without first seeking the views and winning the support of locally responsible groups." It restates the need for city-wide application of the "Planning with People" approach that "has proven so successful in the Washington Park Urban Renewal Project and in the collaboration between the city and the business community in the waterfront project."

Declaring that the most important resource of the city is its residents, the plan also calls for a program of social renewal to coincide with physical renewal, particularly among disadvantaged families and in minority areas.

Long Range

Two years in preparation by the BRA planning staff, the proposed General Plan incorporates recommendations made in many previous plans, including last year's Capital Improvements Program, the North Station Terminal Area Study, and others.

Among important administrative functions of the plan are:

- comprehensive, long-range standards with which land assembly and development projects must comply for state approval;
- guidelines for revisions of the city's zoning map and standards for passing on applications for zoning variances;
- guidelines for all public facilities development, particularly for the City's Capital Improvements Program; guidelines for the formulation of:

- (a) federally-assisted urban renewal plans, which must conform to the general plan;
- (b) Boston's Workable Program, of which the plan is an integral part;
- (c) a Community Renewal Program which, for federal approval, requires the substantial completion of a general plan; and
- (d) other studies eligible for federal financial assistance.

There are two additional roof sitting areas, located on each wing of the building.

An applicant, to be eligible for an apartment in such federally-aided housing, must be 65 years or older, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the City of Boston for at least three consecutive years at the time the application is filed, of low income, and in need of decent housing.

Bands and Marshals

South Boston's annual Evacuation-St. Patrick's Day parade this year will have its traditional supply of bands, marchers, and enthusiasm galore. It will also have five marshals—four of them holding honorary designations.

Charles B. Peck of South Boston is the elected chief marshal.

Mayor John F. Collins, U. S. House Speaker John W. McCormack, U. S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy, and Supreme Judicial Court Clerk John E. Powers are listed as honorary chief marshals for the March 17 parade roster.

Peck's appointments include:

Joseph W. Walker as adjutant; William J. Casey, chief of staff; Rev. John F. Lincoln, chaplain; State Comptroller Joseph Alecks, personal aide; Harold Epstein, personal aide; Charles A. MacGillivray, Medal of Honor, chief aide-de-camp; and Alfred T. Duncan, officer of the day.

Health Dept. Moves

Offices of the Boston Health Department have been moved from the old Haymarket Square Relief Station to 745 Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, property formerly occupied by the South Department of Boston City Hospital.

Under direction of Dr. John T. Foley, health commissioner, the transfer was carried out with no service interruptions.

The move was necessitated by taking of the former Health Department building by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for urban renewal.

"All administrative services now proceed from our new quarters," Dr. Foley said, "including general services, medical services, nursing, health education, housing and sanitation."

Dr. Foley said licenses issued by the Health Department may be obtained from the Bureau of Licensing, City Hall Annex, and burial permits will be issued by the South-eastern Mortuary, 784 Massachusetts avenue.

February 11.

Personnel Order No. 661.

Sergt. John V. Dow, Patrolman Matthew J. Cotugno and James M. Pitts, District 6, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted three days' additional vacation.

About 2.20 P.M., Saturday, January 16, 1965, a clerk in a liquor store at 226 West Broadway, South Boston, was held up and robbed of $150 by a white male armed with a .32 calibre revolver.

Investigation ascertained that the perpetrator was identified as one John J. Connolly, 30 years, of 108 B street, South Boston. The above officers investigated in all known hangouts and liquor establishments frequented by Connolly, and about 8.55 P.M., observed him entering the Colonial Lounge at 45A West Broadway, South Boston. Entering the premises they observed Connolly standing at the end of the bar and as they approached him, Connolly removed a fully loaded .32 calibre revolver from his pocket and wielded the gun towards the officers. The officers immediately struggled with Connolly and subdued him. He was arrested for armed robbery of the liquor store.

About 10 P.M., same date, while the officers were concluding the investigation relative to the above incident, one Andrew Ferris, 49 years, a U.S. postal mail collector, came to the station and reported that about 9 P.M., while he was parked in the mail truck at 141 West Broadway, South Boston, two unknown white males one of whom pointed a .45 calibre revolver at his head, ordered him to turn over his money and keys to the mail truck to them. He struggled with them and managed to slam the sliding door of the truck closed. They immediately broke off the struggle and fled on foot in the direction of D street, South Boston.

The above officers immediately searched the vicinity and at D street and West Sixth street, observed two males acting suspiciously in front of a liquor store. The officers arrested the two and they were identified by Andrew Ferris as the two who attempted to rob him. They were identified as Dennis Geary, 25 years, 157 West Sixth street, South Boston, and Winfield Russell, 22 years, 159 West Fifth street, South Boston. At the time of arrest Geary had a .45 calibre automatic pistol in his possession.

The .45 calibre gun found on Geary was found to have been stolen by him while holding up Blinstrub's Village on January 8, 1965.

Further investigation disclosed that Geary also held up the C & R Delicatessen, 145 Dorchester street, South Boston, on January 13, 1965. He was identified by the owner as the perpetrator.

The prisoners were arraigned in the South Boston Court. Geary was charged with two counts of armed robbery; assault with intent to rob Andrew Ferris, and unlawful possession of a firearm and receiving stolen goods. He was held in $61,000 for the grand jury.

Russell was charged with assault to rob Andrew Ferris and unlawful possession of a firearm and held for the grand jury in $26,000 bail.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness, courage, and devotion to duty displayed by these officers in the investigation and apprehension of these felons, thus terminating their crime career.

February 11.

Personnel Order No. 662.

Patrolman William M. Fennell and James W. Ralston, District 6, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each granted three days' additional vacation.

About 9.45 P.M., Thursday, January 21, 1965, the above officers, assigned to a radio patrol car, responded to a radio call of a holdup at the Bay View Pharmacy, 543 East Eighth street, South Boston. Upon arrival, the officers observed an unknown man, wearing dark glasses, with adhesive tape over part of his face, crouched partly behind the store counter and holding a gun at the head of the proprietor, who was kneeling at the safe and putting money into a paper bag.

The officers proceeded behind the counter with drawn revolvers, and succeeded in disarming the holdup man of a loaded .32 calibre revolver.

The proprietor, Edward Healey, stated the holdup man entered the store and told him this was a holdup and forced him to take the money out of the safe. Two other employees of the store were forced at gunpoint to the cellar of the store.

The proprietor identified the holdup man, one Anthony J. Kuchinsky, 25 years, of 564 East Second street, South Boston, as the same one who held him up on January 18, 1965, and took $1,600 in U. S. currency.

Kuchinsky was arraigned in South Boston Court and held in $60,000 for the grand jury.

Modern Living

The bevy of birds and beasts that comprise the nonhuman staff at Boston's Museum of Science have taken up residence in brand new quarters.

Like most modern subdivisions, it has a pool and the apartments are air conditioned. There are also a community deepfreeze, controlled lighting, and other status requirements of present-day living in the spacious new Live Animal Center, made possible through the generosity of an anonymous donor.

Fewer Delinquencies

Mortgage delinquencies—always an indicator of the health of the home real estate market—are showing a steady decrease in this New England area.

Foreclosures of home mortgages have never been as numerous here as in some other sections of the country, but at present the drop in foreclosures here is quite pronounced, and is an indication of the general good health of the regional market.

Quarter Million Visitors Acclaim War Memorial Auditorium

At the invitation of Mayor John F. Collins and the Dedication Committee upwards of 250,000 men, women and children paid a visit to 900 Boylston street, Back Bay, February 21-25.

The occasion was the opening of the first major public facility—the New Boston's $12 million showplace—its War Memorial Auditorium.

The quarter million visitors went away thrilled and excited. They liked what they had seen and heard. They clamored for more.

Among the things they saw were:

The first public showing of the motion picture—"Years of Lightning, Day of Drums." More than 125,000 tickets were printed for the epic documentary. It broke all records for any movie ever brought to Boston.

The presentation of the unique Boston Medal for Distinguished Achievement to nine men whose accomplishments have reflected credit on Boston. The awards were made by Mayor Collins in behalf of the citizens of Boston.

They saw within the week probably the greatest gatherings of outstanding men and women ever assembled under one roof in Boston.

They toured two vast floors filled with outstanding exhibits of a city now headed for true greatness.

They saw and participated in programs ranging from the finest arts to the most difficult of sciences.

At week's end their verdict was in.

The new Auditorium is a fitting hallmark of the New Boston.

Auditorium Audiences Thrilled by First U.S. Showing of Great J. F. K. Documentary Film

It required an Act of Congress to obtain the multiple showings of the outstanding documentary film "John F. Kennedy: Years of Lightning, Day of Drums," for the dedicatory week exercises of the War Memorial Auditorium.

The stunning production won the acclaim of thousands witnessing its first public showing in the United States here in Boston. It covered the late President's life from youth to his assassination and its aftermath. It made particular emphasis on his presidential years.

Because of its impact here many have asked about movie reviews. Following is the review by Judith Crist, of the New York Herald Tribune, an outstanding movie critic. It was written after it had been shown privately by the State Department to an audience of top government and foreign officials:

The Boston Medal

The Boston Medal for Distinguished Achievement is a design cast in gold. It contains the city seal encircled by eight points, topped by a golden eagle. Its overall diameter is about two inches.

Blue enamel serves to render the city's official colors—blue and gold.

The city seal was adopted in 1823 and slightly revised in 1827. It has been unchanged since. It proclaims the founding of Boston in 1630 and bears a skyline representation of the city in the 1600s sketched by John R. Penniman, early New England artist, with the Latin motto, "Sicut patribus sit Deus nobis."

The motto is taken from I Kings, VII, 57, "God be with us as He was with our fathers."

The medal is suspended from a blue silk ribbon which snaps behind the collar so that it may be worn at formal occasions.

Medal Winners

Presented by Mayor John F. Collins in behalf of the citizens of Boston were nine Boston Medals for Distinguished Achievement. Recipients of the highly unique award were:

RICHARD RODGERS

Superlative creative artist whose work has attained unchallenged

FINE ARTS EXHIBIT

Priceless treasures from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts' world-renowned collections were on view for the special four-day opening of the War Memorial Auditorium.

In arranging for this unusual loan exhibition, Director Perry T. Rathbone said "the Museum was, indeed, pleased to be asked to participate in the opening festivities of the City's War Memorial Auditorium."

Valued at over a half million dollars, works from the Museum's seven curatorial departments included paintings by Copley "Portrait of Paul Revere", Field "The Garden of Eden", Hassam "Grand Prix Day", Monet "Old Fort at Antibes", Moroni "Count Alborghetti and Son", Nicholson "Celestial Blue", and Terborch "Cavalier in the Saddle"; graphic works by Rembrandt "Self Portrait"—etching, Roualt "Calvary"—etching, and Sargent "Villa de Marlia: Fountain"—watercolor (one of the works loaned to the White House during the presidency of John F. Kennedy); an Egyptian sculpture of two seated figures; two classical sculptured heads of Alexander and Augustus; a bronze sculpture by Giacometti "Femme Qui Marche"; silver by Paul Revere (a teapot and his famous Liberty bowl); a Dutch table; an English turned oak throne chair; a pair of screen paintings by the 20th century Japanese artist, Tomita Keisen; and a panel of 15th century Italian velvet.

In addition to the loan exhibition of 20 objects from the Museum's collections, visitors to the War Memorial Exhibition were able to view a set of 30 color slides, comprising additional masterworks from the Museum of Fine Arts' collections. Among these were an Egyptian statue of King Mycerinus and his Queen; the 4th century B.C. Greek gold earring depicting the Goddess of Victory; Rogier van der Weyden's "St. Luke Painting the Virgin"; Tiepolo's "Time Unveiling Truth"; and Renoir's "Bal a Bougival."

"THE NEW BOSTONIAN"

A novel seminar on "The New Bostonian," examining the varied origins, talents and interests of the people shaping the destiny of the city in the second half of the 20th century, was held at the War Memorial Auditorium, Feb. 23.

The Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., Dean of the Boston College Graduate School of Business Administration, was chairman. Participants included Ephron Catlin, Jr., senior vice president, The First National Bank of Boston; Dr. Stephen A. Thernstrom, instructor in history and literature, Harvard; Eli Goldston, president, Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates and chairman of the War Memorial Auditorium Dedication Committee; and Walter Muir Whitehill, librarian, Boston Athenaeum.

Lowell Institute

One of the famous Lowell Institute lectures, a Boston cultural institution for over 125 years, was held at War Memorial Auditorium February 24.

The lecture was the fourth and last in a series on "The Crisis Facing the Contemporary Hospital," and was given by Dr. John J. Knowles, General Director and Physician, Massachusetts General Hospital. Originally scheduled at the Moseley Rotunda of the Massachusetts General Hospital, it was moved into the Auditorium to give the distinguished audience an opportunity to see the new facility.

Some Coming Events At The Auditorium

Perry Como National TV Show, March 4.

Home Show, March 6.

Metropolitan Opera, April 19-25.

Moiseyev Ballet from Russia, June 10-13.

Fifth Grade Stars

A class of fifth graders got their first taste of the new math, an M.I.T. professor measured atoms and molecules, first graders learned about Eskimo fishermen—these were highlights of a novel and significant program showing examples of current efforts to improve the teaching in the nation's schools. That will be an important feature of a series of cultural activities at War Memorial Auditorium during its opening week.

Under the auspices of Educational Services, Inc., Watertown, a non-profit organization pioneering innovations in teaching methods and subject matter, three lecture-demonstrations were held at the Auditorium, February 23, covering fields of elementary mathematics, physics and social studies.

Parking Space

The War Memorial Auditorium's Dedication committee along with Prudential provided 1,050 parking spaces for those visiting the dedicatory week exercises. Spaces included 250 directly in front of the Auditorium, below street level; 300 in an open lot on Exeter street; 500 directly below the Prudential Tower, accessible from Huntington avenue.

Documentary Film . . .

A full-length documentary written and directed by Bruce Herschensohn, produced by George Stevens, Jr., for the United States Information Agency. Narrated by Gregory Peck. Running time: One hour and 25 minutes.

By Judith Crist

. . . It was true the President was killed.

"But it was also true that the assassin missed his target, for he wanted John Kennedy to die, and that he was unable to do . . . for no man could take away years of Lightning with a single Day of Drums . . ."

Thus the introduction to the United States Information Agency documentary that had its premiere in Washington, Rome, Beirut and Mexico City last night and will open in 25 foreign capitals during the week in anticipation or commemoration of the anniversary of President Kennedy's death.

Ultimately it will be shown throughout the free world—but it will not, as matters now stand, be shown to the American public. Only government and foreign officials were invited to last night's State Department Showing.

And that is a pity because this first, full-length film produced for the USIA is an inspired and inspiring document, a beautiful memorial to a man who embodied so much of the American ideal and who gave voice to the American aspiration. Its foreign distribution should certainly serve the USIA function of influencing attitudes abroad in favor of American policy; its distribution in this country—where USIA films are not shown on the ground that they constitute partisan propaganda—would certainly refresh the public spirit.

The primary success of the George Stevens, Jr., film is, in fact, that it rises above the obvious emotionalism of its subject and is a record of achievement rather than of tragedy. And this is accomplished even though, as the cited introduction indicates, the narrative is within the framework of the President's assassination and the recurring theme is the "Day of Drums" of the funeral, with progress of the cortege itself, from the Capitol to Arlington, serving to divide the segments of the film.

The film explores the "six faces of the New Frontier"—classified as the Peace Corps, The Conquest of Space, An Alliance for Progress, Civil Rights, Freedom and Peace. It explores them with Kennedy and through his speeches, with remarkable black-and-white or color film, almost all of it taken by the USIA.

In each phase, there is a depiction of the emerging or continuing crisis, its background presented both visually and in the narration, and then a statement of policy, an understatement of achievement. We watch the simple, terrible construction of the Berlin Wall and hear Kennedy's "Freedom has many difficulties and democracy is not perfect—but we have never had to put up a wall to keep our people in;" from the Freedom Riders to the march on Washington, there is the declaration that "Those who do nothing are inviting shame; those who act boldly are recognizing right." Misfiring missiles fill the screen with exquisite explosions of failure but ultimately there is progress to the Shepherd flight, the President's informality on the White House steps, noting that the astronauts are "the tan and healthy ones—the others are Washington employees."

This is, of course, the age of recorded history and we have the President's presence at each crucial moment, his voice for all occasions. What emerges is the Kennedy rhetoric, the crisp, clear but remarkably compassionate tones of a man very much of our time in the simple urgency of crisis who spoke plainly but always in civilized terms. The freshest part of the film for us, however, is perhaps the detailed coverage of Kennedy abroad, in Berlin, in Mexico City and elsewhere, with the fervor of the crowds giving us an overwhelming realization of what this particular President symbolized to others, an appreciation—beyond the actual depiction thereof in the film—of what his death meant to peoples around the world.

The Kennedy trip to Ireland serves to introduce a montage of family films with the narrative noting that "it was the personal John Kennedy and his family that made America fall in love for two years and 10 months." Beyond the by now familiar shot of the children greeting their father at the airport there are fresh and charming views of the family together. And these are followed by a brief view of Dallas on last Nov. 22, the actual moment of tragedy yielding almost immediately to the stricken faces of onlookers and of the world, for which "there wasn't one date, one time or one city."

The film was written and directed by Bruce Herschensohn, whose work is marked by a sharp eye for detail and admirable restraint.

Gregory Peck provides the narration for the English-language version which will be distributed in 114 countries. The film will also be translated into 30 other languages, with, for example, Andre Maurois supervising the French translation, Maximilian Schell doing the German narration and Carlos Montalban the Spanish.

"Let the word go forth from this time and place to friend and foe alike," the final Kennedy speech in the film declares, "that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans born to this century and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which we are committed today at home and around the world . . ."

The reassurance goes with the world-wide distribution of this film. But "Years of Lightning, Day of Drums" can serve also as a reminder, if not reassurance, at home—and should be the exception to the USIA domestic distribution policy. Let us hope it will be.

Well-Planned Exhibits By City Departments

Imagination, good taste and an overall desire to show opening week visitors to the War Memorial Auditorium how a great city like Boston operates, featured the municipal exhibits.

All municipal departments participated. All exhibits were excellent. They represented many hours of careful planning; many hours of practical and artistic work. Few of the planners and workers would make claim to professional gifts for showmanship. Yet, the entire City of Boston exhibits covering a vast expanse space measured up to any criteria for winning instant, spontaneous praise and interest.

Departments included the Hospital and Health, Fire, Police, Election, Civil Defense, Traffic and Parking, Youth Activities, Welfare, Library, Parks and Recreation, ONI, Assessing, Public Works, Legal, School, and Redevelopment Authority.

The exhibits included City Hospital's modern operating room and X-ray equipment; the Fire Department's display of an ancient hand-operated fire engine; dogs from the Police Department's K9 Corps. Space limits the listing of all. Space limitation also prevents listing the names of those who worked so hard to make them so outstanding.

All who contributed deserve Mayor John F. Collins' enthusiastic accolade—"Well Done!"

Now It's Auditorium

Three days before the formal opening of the War Memorial Auditorium, old Massachusetts Station of the Boston El, the MTA and now the MBTA got itself a new name. From now on, it will be Auditorium Station. Helping in the renaming ceremonies was Mayor John F. Collins. The station is within easy walking distance of the Auditorium's doors and during the first week was used by many thousands attracted to the new $12 million structure.

First in 50 Years

With the opening of the War Memorial Auditorium, Boston has its first new center for the performing arts in more than 50 years.

The last was the Boston Opera House built in 1909 and razed in 1958.

Over a century ago, Boston's musical life centered around Music Hall built in 1852 at Winter street and Bumstead place.

It was here that the Boston Symphony Orchestra, formed in 1881, played until Symphony Hall was opened October 15, 1900, at Huntington and Massachusetts avenues.

Other musical institutions soon followed Symphony Orchestra to Huntington avenue. Chickering Hall was built in 1901 at 239 Huntington avenue by the piano manufacturers, Chickering and Sons. In 1912 it became the St. James Theatre, now the Uptown Theatre, a movie house.

The New England Conservatory of Music in 1902 moved to Huntington avenue at Gainsborough street. In 1904, Eben D. Jordan, son of the founder of Jordan Marsh Company, added an auditorium named Jordan Hall.

Modern Record

The 700 voices offering a choral salute to Boston's War Memorial Auditorium on the evening of February 24, was probably the largest group ever assembled in the Boston area for a single musical event—in Boston's modern history, that is.

Nearly 100 years ago, however, a musical promoter, P. S. Gilmore, convinced Bostonians to build a temporary Coliseum at Copley Square for the National Peace Jubilee held in June, 1869.

Gilmore was a showman all the way and for one performance of the Anvil Chorus from Il Trovatore, presented a spectacular that included an orchestra of 100 musicians, a chorus of 10,000 singers, supplemented by organ, drum corps, ringing of church bells, firing of cannon, and 100 Boston firemen beating on anvils with sledge hammers.

For the Young

A concert, fashion show and theatre production were among the special events scheduled for the young set during the opening week of the War Memorial Auditorium.

When planning the opening dates for the Auditorium, the mid-winter school vacation was taken into consideration so that Greater Boston's youngsters could take an official part in the opening festivities.

Scheduled through the program were the Boston Public School Concert Band, the Charles Playhouse Children's Show, Young Audiences, Inc., a children's fashion show and luncheon, and the Junior Achievement Awards Dinner.

The 75-member Boston Public Schools Concert Band, winner of many all-district and all-state instrumental competitions, presented a concert on the afternoon of February 22.

Directed by Peter C. Siragusa, who also directs the Boston Fire Department and Boston College Bands, the band played a special program of symphonic selections and popular Broadway overtures.

The Charles Playhouse, Boston's resident professional theatre, presented a special children's show "Puss 'n Boots" February 22.

The Boston Committee of Young Audiences, Inc., presented the Pro Arte Woodwind Quintet for the children February 24. They demonstrated the various instruments for the young people, after which the youngsters were able to ask questions of the musicians.

Labor Council Officers

At a meeting of the Greater Boston Labor Council, AFL-CIO, on February 10, Fred Reilly, was installed as auditor, and Arthur J. Hartin and Thomas J. McGrimley were installed as members of the Executive Board. All are members of Boston Teachers Union, Local 66.

Jap Teahouse Big Hit

A full-size Japanese teahouse, staffed with pretty native girls from Kyoto, Japan, Boston's sister city of culture, was among the unique exhibits featured during War Memorial Auditorium Dedication Week.

Many of Japan's native customs were portrayed.

Highlights of the teahouse exhibit included a freshly arranged floral display each day, a short film of Kyoto, and an authentic tea ceremony. A special ceremony was held on Sunday afternoon, February 21, and on the afternoon and evening of Washington's birthday.

Coordination of the exhibit was handled by John Patterson of the Council for International Visitors in Boston.

Since 1958, the City of Boston has had a sister-city affiliation with the City of Kyoto, an ancient culture center of Japan.

Nothing To It

When your service station mechanic tells you your differential's shot don't just stand there, wondering what he's talking about.

Take yourself down (by MBTA or in a friend's car) to Boston's Museum of Science and find out!

The Museum has just placed on display an animated model of an automobile rear end assembly which has been cut away to disclose this normally hidden part and demonstrate its function in the operation of the car.

With this model, and the accompanying label, even the most nonmechanical-minded can grasp the importance of the differential when rounding curves or making any other deviations from the straight and narrow with his car.

Want to rent the City of Boston's new War Memorial Auditorium at the Prudential Center for a function?

You can have the entire building—all 154,000 square feet—anywhere from $2,500 to $4,500 per day, or just the main auditorium alone for a minimum of $1,000 to a maximum charge of $2,500 per day.

If you're running an authorized municipal function, however, such as a Mayor's inaugural ceremony, there is no charge.

Rental fee for the entire auditorium includes use of the main 6,000-seat capacity auditorium and the mammoth 80-foot wide by 42-foot deep stage, a large 900-seat meeting room, and several smaller rooms. In addition, other rooms of various sizes can be created out of sections of the exhibit area with tracked partition walls.

Exhibits can be brought directly to the various exhibit areas. Vehicles can drive into the basement of the auditorium and be elevated to the exhibit areas on three large freight elevators. The largest is 40 feet wide and can carry a 37½-ton trailer truck.

"The auditorium is adaptable to almost any type function, except competitive sports," said George Laing, Manager of the War Memorial Auditorium. "Exhibits and shows that normally appeared at the Commonwealth Armory, will now be booked into the new City of Boston Auditorium. Mr. Laing was formerly manager of Mechanics Hall in Boston.

The auditorium's stage is equipped to handle operatic performances, television, radio, and stage shows.

One copy of the general bid shall be filed with the Awarding Authority at the office first designated above, accompanied by a bid deposit in the form of cash or a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by, a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the sum of $2,000. The other copy of the general bid shall be filed at the office of the City Auditor, City Hall, Boston, Mass. Both copies shall be filed before the time stated above for the opening of general bids.

No general bid may be withdrawn after the time limit for filing general bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) from the opening of the general bids. In addition, no general bid filed by the three lowest responsible and eligible general bidders may be withdrawn prior to execution and delivery of the general contract, unless no award has been made upon expiration of the prescribed time therefore.

The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed shall not be less than the rate of wages determined for this work by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under the provisions of General Laws (Ter. The successful general bidder shall be required to provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

The general bids and subbids will be deemed to relate to that signed set of plans and specifications for the project on file at the office of the Awarding Authority designated above and bidders will act at their own risk if any variance exists between the aforesaid set of plans and specifications and the set (or sets) of plans and specifications furnished to the bidder by the Awarding Authority. In short, each bidder has the burden of checking to make certain that the set (or sets) of plans and specifications furnished to the bidder is a true and complete copy of the set of plans and specifications on file as aforesaid.

All subbids for a subtrade designated in Item 2 of the general bid form shall be filed with the Awarding Authority, at the office first designated above, before twelve o'clock noon (Eastern Standard Time) on Tuesday, March 23, 1965, forthwith after which time limit for the filing thereof, the subbids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the office of the Deputy Superintendent for Physical Facilities, fifth floor of the Administration Building, Boston City Hospital, 818 Harrison avenue, Boston, Mass. All subbids must be submitted on the form for subbid furnished by the Awarding Authority, through the architect, Whitney, Atwood, Norcross Associates, Inc., 256 Boylston street, Boston, Mass., and any subbid not filed on the form for subbid so furnished by the Awarding Authority shall be rejected.

A bid deposit in the form of cash or a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by, a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the amount as specified in the following list for the respective subtrades as listed below, shall be submitted by each subbidder with his subbid as filed with the Awarding Authority.

Electrical $100

No subbid may be withdrawn after the time limit for the filing of subbids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) from the date fixed for the opening of the general bids. In addition, neither the subbids filed by the three lowest responsible and eligible subbidders for a subtrade nor the subbids for the same subtrade as shown on the general bids of the three lowest responsible and eligible general bidders may be withdrawn after the opening of the general bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) after presentation of a subcontract to the subbidder selected for that subtrade, by the general bidder selected as the general contractor.

Plans and specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the architect, Whitney, Atwood, Norcross Associates, Inc., 256 Boylston street, Boston, Mass., on or after 9 A.M. (Eastern Standard Time) of Monday, March 1, 1965, upon deposit of a certified check payable to the City of Boston in the amount of $20 per set of plans and specifications. The amount of the deposit, per set of plans and specifications will be refunded upon return of all documents in good condition to the Awarding Authority with the general bid, or upon return thereof in good condition to Whitney, Atwood, Norcross Associates, Inc., 256 Boylston street, Boston, Mass., not later than 30 days after the opening of general bids (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded).

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the public interest so to do. The Awarding Authority also reserves the right to reject any subbid on any subtrade if it determines that such subbid does not represent the subbid of a person competent to perform the work as specified or that less than three such subbids were received and that the prices are not reasonable for acceptance without further competition, in accordance with section 44D, chapter 149, of the General Laws, as amended.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, February 1, 1965.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Our Father, as Thy servants and as the servants of the people of this great city we come to Thee in prayer in this chamber of democracy to seek Thy help for all the duties of this new week. Let some revelation of Thy light fall on our darkness; some guidance of Thy wisdom save us from bewilderment; some power from Thy infinite resource strengthen us for the fulfillment of our responsibilities.

Breathe on us breath of God
Fill us with life anew
That we may love what Thou dost love
And do what Thou wouldst do.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

RETIREMENT OF TRAFFIC TUNNEL BONDS OF 1945.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 1, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

On August 1, 1945, the City of Boston issued under St. 1945, c. 361, for the purpose of refinancing debt incurred in connection with the construction of the Sumner Traffic Tunnel, bonds bearing interest at the rate of 1½ percent per annum and due in part on August first in each year from 1951 to 1980, inclusive. All such bonds due August 1, 1966, and thereafter, contained a provision for their call, retirement and cancellation by the City of Boston on or after August 1, 1965. St. 1958, c. 598, under which the Sumner Tunnel was transferred to the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority requires that these bonds totaling $9,550,000 be called for redemption and cancellation at the earliest date permitted by their terms. As the Board of Commissioners of Sinking Funds have on hand sufficient funds to enable the city to do so, I transmit herewith an order calling all such bonds maturing on or after August 1, 1966, for retirement and cancellation on August 1, 1965. I recommend its early adoption.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Whereas, Under date of August 1, 1945, the City of Boston issued under St. 1945, c. 361, Traffic Tunnel Retirement Bonds, City of Boston, Act of 1945, bearing interest at the rate of 1½ percent per annum payable semi-annually on February 1 and August 1 of each year, and in so far as due on August 1 in the years 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, and 1980, containing an express provision for call, retirement and cancellation by the city on any interest date after twenty years from the date of issue; and

Whereas, St. 1958, c. 598, s. 10, requires that said bonds be called for redemption and cancellation at the earliest date permitted by their terms; now therefore it is hereby Ordered, That the aforesaid issue of 1½ percent Traffic Tunnel Retirement Bonds, City of Boston, Act of 1945, dated August 1, 1945, in so far as due on August 1 in the years 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, and 1980, be, and hereby is, called for retirement and cancellation on August 1, 1965; and it is hereby further

Ordered, That the Collector-Treasurer of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to give notice of said call not less than thirty nor more than sixty days prior to said August 1, 1965, by causing a notice of call to be printed once in not less than two newspapers of general circulation published in the City of Boston and in not less than two newspapers of general circulation published in the City of New York, by mailing such a notice to the registered holders of record of said bonds at their most recent addresses on file with said Collector-Treasurer, by certified mail, return receipt requested, and by such other and further means, if any, as said Collector-Treasurer may deem appropriate; and it is hereby further Ordered, That the aforesaid notice of call shall be in substantially the following form:

in the

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS NOTICE OF CALL OF BONDS FOR RETIREMENT AND CANCELLATION.

To Holders of 1½ percent Traffic Tunnel Retirement Bonds, City of Boston, Act of 1945, dated August 1, 1945, and Others Concerned:

Public notice is hereby given that as required by Mass. St. 1958, c. 598, s. 10, all outstanding 1½ percent Traffic Tunnel Retirement Bonds, City of Boston, Act of 1945, dated August 1, 1945, and due on August 1 in the years 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, and 1980, have been called for retirement and cancellation on August 1, 1965, on which date interest on such bonds will cease.

Payment of the full amount of each of said bonds, with any accumulated unpaid interest to August 1, 1965, will be made by the City of Boston on and after August 1, 1965, upon surrender of the bond (with, in the case of a coupon bond, the February 1, 1966, and subsequent coupons and the coupons for any accumulated unpaid interest) at the office of the Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts. Coupons maturing on or before August 1, 1965, may, at the option of the holder, be detached and collected in the usual manner.

Collector-Treasurer, of the City of Boston.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

BUDGET FOR 1965.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 1, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith my budget allowances for the City and County Departments, including revenue departments, for the year 1965. The total of these estimates is $151,989,462.00.

The estimate of $151,989,462.00 for 1965 compares favorably with the 1964 appropriation of $141,319,721.00 or an increase of approximately 7.5 percent. I consider this to be an achievement of no small proportion in view of the current tendency of municipal budgets everywhere to increase on an average of 10 percent annually. In this fashion, my administration will continue to meet its objectives of building a New Boston and of maintaining an adequate level of services to our citizens.

To our estimated increase of $10,941,420.00 for City and County Departments must be added the sum of $3,958,886.00 which represents the salary increases for Police, Firefighters and others. The great bulk of these salary increases resulted from decisions made by the General Court and the voters of the City of Boston and are in direct conflict with the policies of my administration. Nevertheless, the figure must be added to current expenditures resulting in a total increase of $14,900,306.00 above the 1964 appropriations.

Were it not for the fact that the City of Boston faces an increasingly difficult and expensive problem of providing assistance to the needy, I could present a brighter picture for 1965. Of the total increase of $14 million plus, over half, or about $7,500,000.00 will go for increases in Veterans and Welfare services. Just as in the case of Police salaries, this is a figure over which my administration can exercise little discretion, it being determined in large part by factors completely outside my control.

I should like to emphasize for the benefit of the Honorable City Council, the citizens of Boston and those who occupy important positions in our state government, that the total increase of $14,900,306.00 in City and County Departments for 1965 will mean an increase of approximately $10.40 in the present tax rate. This does not include increases that are bound to occur in the cost of school department operations, pensions and assessments levied against the City by the State, the Metropolitan District Commission and the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority. We do not yet know what the total of all these assessments will be and, consequently, we cannot say with certainty what the total increase in the tax rate will be eventually.

But this much can and must be said—there is something basically wrong in Massachusetts government when the Mayor and administration of the State's largest city cannot exercise control over large increases in expenditures. If, as is quite possible, we are faced with a total increase on account of these uncontrollable factors of $20,000,000.00 or more, and a consequent tax rate increase of as much as $15.00 per thousand, it should be crystal clear that we are suffering a breakdown in our system of local government.

I just said that it is entirely possible that we will have to increase our tax rate by as much as $15.00 per thousand. I am ready and willing to take that part of the responsibility which is mine. Of this possible $15.00 increase, my administration will have been directly responsible for about $2.75. In other words, it is clear to me that maintaining an adequate level of services, in the face of rising costs, will cost more in 1965 than it did in 1964, and the added cost should be no more than $2.75 on the tax rate. I cannot, in good conscience, accept responsibility for the remainder of the increase except that which will be dictated by our debt requirements. Instead, I believe that the responsibility for as much as 75 percent of the tax increase will have to lie with people, organizations and factors which are not responsible or responsive to the voters of this City.

There are signs all about us that 1965 will give birth to a new spirit of cooperation between and among state and local governments in Massachusetts. The state and local governments have simultaneously arrived at a period of fiscal crisis. The man in the street talks about it. The man in the street echoes the sentiment of our many leaders who feel that the proper assignment of responsibility has been allowed too long to lie in the dustbin of neglect and apathy. The citizens of Boston and the citizens of Massachusetts deserve far better. It is my fervent hope and prayer that the governments of Massachusetts will now be caught up in the great spirit of change and modernization of progress and improvement that is sweeping the nation.

Enlightened economy continues to be the watchword in the performance of the City's fiscal affairs. The policy of replacing equipment on an annual basis is continuing this year with an allowance for all departments amounting to $1,470,919.00. The system initiated last year for the control of appropriated funds for equipment proved most successful and will be continued in 1965. Stringent budgetary controls will be applied and improved upon wherever possible without impairing the services now performed. We shall continue to keep our house in order. We shall make further improvements in the administration of our finances and our services. We shall continue to employ budgetary and accounting principles required by the public good and consistent with the reputation for fiscal integrity and sound credit which we have worked so hard to achieve. The accompanying budget and appropriation orders have been prepared and are submitted with these ideals uppermost in mind.

It is respectfully requested that your Honorable Body adopt the accompanying appropriation orders.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department, February 1, 1965.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

In accordance with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 4 of the revised city ordinances, I have prepared, under your direction and in consultation with the Director of Administrative Services, in segregated form, the annual budget for the City, County, and Income Departments, for submission, by you, to the City Council for the year 1965.

The budget allowances for City and County Departments represent an increase of $10,941,420.00. The Income Departments show a decrease of $301,679.00.

A summary of appropriations for City, County, and Income Departments is indicated herewith:

	1964 APPROPRIATION	1965 REQUESTS	1965 ALLOWANCES
CITY	$125,893,663 00	$140,848,485 00	$136,534,883 00
COUNTY	9,786,599 00	10,469,010 00	10,086,797 00
TOTAL	$135,680,262 00	$151,317,495 00	$146,621,682 00
INCOME	5,669,459 00	5,710,937 00	5,367,780 00
GRAND TOTAL	$141,349,721 00	$157,028,432 00	$151,989,462 00

The appropriations recommended for Income Departments will be met from revenues collected by these Departments and hence will have no effect on this year's tax rate.

Listed below are the reasons for these increases:

Total increase for City and County Allowance $10,941,420 00

The amount of $7,466,990.00 represents the increased case load of Welfare and Veterans' Services and increased benefits granted to those that receive such assistances.

The balance of $3,474,430.00 is divided among the following groups of expenditures:

CITY, INCOME AND COUNTY DEPARTMENTS
1. PERSONAL SERVICES	$1,215,411 00
2. CONTRACTUAL SERVICES	1,109,718 00
3. SUPPLIES AND MATERIALS	388,623 00
4. CURRENT CHARGES AND OBLIGATIONS	111,452 00
5. EQUIPMENT	171,353 00*
7. STRUCTURES AND IMPROVEMENTS	59,675 00*
8. LAND AND NON-STRUCTURAL IMPROVEMENTS TO LAND	3,500 00*
SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS	884,754 00

A 10 percent salary increase granted to Probation Officers in 1964 — Step Rates and Salary Adjustments to County Employees.

Contractual Services: The increase in this group is $1,109,718.00. Public Works increased cost of Labor Contracts for collection of garbage and refuse and increase of street lighting. Building Department is accelerating its work of demolition of unsafe buildings and also for maintenance of City-owned buildings.

Supplies and Materials: Shows an increase of $388,623.00.

Current Charges and Obligations: $111,452.00 for increased rental charges, etc.

Special Appropriations: Reflects an increase of $884,754.00. This is the first appropriation estimated for the new War Memorial Auditorium; increased amounts for the reserve fund, hospitalization and insurance, and snow removal.

Rent Payers Have Vital Concern in Real Estate Tax Load Shift

Rent payers have an equal stake with homeowners in demanding a shift of the tax load from overburdened real estate to aid the state's economy, says President James C. Brody of the Massachusetts Association of Real Estate Boards.

In an article in the New England Real Estate Journal, Brody points out that the day is gone when a rent payer can move from one city to another when the tax portion of his rental bill becomes too high. Today, the share the rent payer must pay of his landlord's tax bill is unusually high in the Bay State.

In the 10-year period between 1954 and 1964, real estate taxes in Massachusetts' 39 cities have skyrocketed 69 percent.

During that decade the cost of living index has risen 21.4 percent in Boston and about the same in other areas of the state.

Compared to her sister cities Boston stood in 28th place percentage-wise in the skyrocketing leap, mainly due to determination of Mayor John F. Collins to use every means at his command in checking the trend.

Between 1954 and 1964, the Boston tax rate went up 43 percent. The percentage advance in 27 other cities of the state during that period all higher than Boston's were as follows:

Attleboro, 69.3; Beverly, 45.2; Brockton, 53.6; Cambridge, 50.3; Chelsea, 61; Fall River, 62.3; Fitchburg, 46.2; Haverhill, 63.8; Holyoke, 56; Lawrence, 65.1; Lowell, 61.8; Lynn, 71.1; Malden, 67.6; Marlboro, 92.5; Medford, 68.9; Melrose, 61.5; New Bedford, 47.4; North Adams, 67.6; Northampton, 77.5; Pittsfield, 72; Quincy, 60.5; Revere, 53.8; Salem, 48.7; Somerville, 57.3; Westfield, 68.3; Woburn, 74.5; Worcester, 70.

Says the New England Real Estate Journal in its story carrying an interview with Mr. Brody:

The fight to secure relief from these excessive and stultifying real estate taxes is as much the tenants battle as it is the homeowners. Tenants who are taxpayers are in the majority in cities where tax rates are still rising and are constantly reflected in the increasing rent bills. There are over a half million families who are tenants in these 39 cities as well as nearly 400,000 families owning homes who are similarly affected by their rising tax payments.

Tax rates increases in these cities where tenants are in the majority and costs of community services are the highest, range from a low of $12.80 or 27.3 percent in Everett to a high of $49 or 92.5 percent in Marlboro.

Tenants sometimes have the feeling of remoteness from their elected city officials and for this reason they often fail to express their feelings vigorously enough in regard to the rising costs of

November Start

Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, developer of a 40-story tower building in Government Center's Parcel 8, will start construction of the skyscraper on November 1, seven months earlier than originally planned.

BRA Administrator Edward J. Logue said in order to meet the earlier construction date, demolition of 10 State street, an office building, will start this summer.

Ten State is half vacant now and Logue said he will offer the remaining 20 tenants a proposal to rent space in the BRA building at Pemberton square if they agree to rent space in One Center Plaza when that structure is complete.

Logue pointed out that the early start on the $25 million tower will mean that the city will be paid taxes six months earlier than expected.

Center Plaza Progress

One Center Plaza in Government Center is well under way and the developers told BRA that phase two of the three-phase building should start on August 1.

Center Plaza Associates said the building is 20 percent complete and will open next January or February.

Each of three phases will cost $7 million. The developers are ready to advertise for bids for the demolition of Barrister's Hall, 11-15 Pemberton square, to make room for phase two of construction.

Mayor Hails Boston's Great Reception of New War Memorial Auditorium

Mayor Collins in a review of War Memorial Auditorium Dedication Week declared "the eyes of the world were focused on Boston as it dedicated its $12 million War Memorial Auditorium last week.

"It was an exciting week—a week that began on a somber note as we dedicated the Auditorium in memory of our war dead.

"It was a week that turned history back to that dreadful November day in 1963 as the film 'Years of Lightning, Day of Drums'—the story of our late President—was shown more than a dozen times.

"It was a week in which 300,000 persons came, saw, and were conquered by the awe of the great structure they helped build.

"It was also a week of music, of intellect, of joy, of laughter. Who will ever forget 'Red' Auerbach receiving the Boston Medal for Distinguished Service and quipping—'How did they ever find out my first name was Arnold?'

"It was a week in which five Nobel laureates were honored with 'The Boston Medal' and an overflow audience paid its respect to these men of science and medicine who have brought so much credit to Greater Boston.

"It was a week in which a grateful city expressed public appreciation to Charles A. Coolidge, honoring him for the great contributions he has made in putting Boston in the vanguard of progress.

"It was a week in which Arthur Fiedler and Richard Rodgers were honored as music makers of extraordinary ability.

"It was a week in which former Mayor John B. Hynes, my predecessor and friend, heard the roar of the crowd acknowledging the great role he played in making the Auditorium a reality.

"It was a week in which happy youngsters frolicked at the exhibits arranged by some 21 city departments and other agencies. Policeman, fire fighter, spaceman—whatever their desire, little boys (and grown-ups, too)—had an opportunity to live for a moment these roles.

"And who can ever forget the little girls clustered about the Boston City Hospital exhibits watching the nurses and daydreaming of the day when they, too, could wear the white uniform and coveted cap?

"And yes, it was a week in which Eli Goldston, Chairman of the Dedication Week Committee, and Robert C. Nordblom, Chairman of the Auditorium Commission, saw the fruits of their labor blossom. A great team in a great city—Goldston and Nordblom!

"But most of all it was your week, for without you it could never have been possible. The Auditorium's Dedication Week is now part of history, but it is not the end. It is just the beginning of a great new chapter for this great, old 'new' city.

"Last week belonged to all of the citizens of Boston. It was tribute to their spirit of an inspired citizenry working together for civic revival. It is in that spirit that I express my heartfelt thanks to each of you."

Capitol Firm To Aid Boston in Washington

Mayor John F. Collins announced on March 1 appointment of a Washington, D.C., firm to represent the city in the Capitol for the remainder of the year.

The Mayor said he believed that services performed by M. J. MacDonald Associates of Washington would be of "great benefit" to the city in obtaining every kind of assistance that might be available from the federal government.

A contract between the city and the MacDonald firm would amount to $3,000 a month or $30,000 for the balance of 1965.

Such an arrangement, the Mayor said, would establish "an effective liaison between the City of Boston and the Congress, the Executive Branch and regulatory agencies of the federal government."

He explained over 100 types of community assistance programs are offered by the government. Such programs, he said, involve complex and difficult formulae for aiding such municipal activities as health protection, hospital care, highways, aid to the needy, public schools, and others.

"Thus," the Mayor continued, "it is imperative that the city make appropriate arrangements to exploit all possibilities, and, at the same time, to expedite all matters before the agencies of the federal government in which Boston can expect favorable action."

Mayor Collins said the MacDonald firm, which has represented other communities in similar fashion, would perform the following services:

Assure full utilization of federal programs of benefit to Boston;

Follow, report, and advise with respect to federal legislation as it may affect Boston;

Furnish representation and expedite favorable action with respect to all matters under the supervision of federal agencies to the extent such matters concern Boston; and government and the urgent need for real estate tax relief.

In the past a tenant may have been able to move to another city or town when the tax portion of his rent bill became unbearable. Today, the only escape from confiscatory real estate taxes depends upon revision of the state's tax structure. Also, tenants and homeowners who live in central cities generally fail to realize that they are paying a disproportionate share of the many services their city provides for the benefit of the incoming workers and shoppers. These extra costs for non-residents adds to their rent and tax bills.

Brody also noted that according to U. S. Census figures, Massachusetts with 56 percent of its families owning homes, lags behind the U. S. average of 62 percent. To equal the U. S. average would require the construction of nearly 100,000 new homes!

While high real estate taxes are not the only factor preventing the construction of new homes, it is a major deterrent that now prevents many families from affording their own home. It also causes job losses in all lines that pertain to the building, furnishing, and maintaining of homes.

Brody urges all tenants to join with homeowners in demanding some shifting of the tax load from the overburdened real estate segment of the economy.

Brody stated, "Massachusetts basic resource is its pool of skilled labor and brains. A favorable property tax is needed to help keep this mobile asset here and in good economic health."

New Record

Prudential Insurance Company announced recently that the amount of life insurance owned by its policyholders increased $7.2 billion in 1964, pushing the company's total life insurance in force to a record $103.8 billion.

The record figures were announced by Orville E. Beal, president of the company.

Beal said the 1964 increase was the largest ever recorded by any company. He attributed the gain to a high volume of new sales during the year and to "a greater emphasis on encouraging policy owners to hold onto their insurance."

He said that so far this year, the company is continuing its rise in sales. "Barring an international crisis, we have every reason to believe that 1965 will be a good year for the life insurance industry as well as for the public," Beal said.

Of the total insurance in force, individual policies account for $71.8 billion and group policies for $32.4 billion, he said. Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries went over $2 billion for the first time in the company's 90-year history, reaching $2.15 billion.

Beal made his announcement in conjunction with issuing of the company's annual report. The report showed Prudential's over-all assets up $1.2 billion in 1964 to a record $21.2 billion.

Coming Award

Mayor Collins will be guest of honor and recipient of 1965 honor award from the National Jewish Hospital at Denver when organization holds its anniversary dinner on June 9 at the new Sheraton-Boston. Dominic DiMaggio is chairman.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, February 8, 1965.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair, and all the members present.

The Reverend John Richardson of the Diocese of Raleigh, North Carolina, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY REVEREND JOHN RICHARDSON.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

O God of mercy and goodness, once again we raise our hearts and minds to You at the beginning of another week of service to Your people. We dedicate this week to You asking in return an abundance of Your blessings.

And on this particular Monday, when we find ourselves looking beyond the problems and difficulties of our city to the dangerous international crisis in the Far East, we beg a special blessing: guide our President and his advisors; help them to find a solution that will bring a just and lasting peace; watch over and protect our young people, serving their country and the free world on this battlefield so many miles away; speed the day that will see them all safely home again—to this end and for this blessing we pray without ceasing. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

APPROPRIATION FOR WELFARE DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 5, 1965.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am forwarding herewith a communication from the Director of the Welfare Department requesting funds to implement a program to distribute surplus foods to the needy of the city.

It is my desire to aid those presently receiving public assistance and other low-income residents who would qualify.

Considerable time and energy has been expended at my direction by members of the Welfare Department, Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., and a coordinating staff assigned by me.

The Welfare Department will have direct control of this project and have indicated that they contemplate inauguration of this program on March 1, 1965, if approval of the necessary funds is granted.

I therefore respectfully request your early consideration of the accompanying appropriation order.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Welfare Department, January 27, 1965.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mayor Collins:

The Boston Welfare Department in conjunction with Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., and a coordinating staff assigned from your office have been examining rather carefully the feasibility of making available federal surplus commodities offered by the Department of Agriculture through the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Education, Office of School Lunch Programs. This surplus food would be distributed to persons receiving public assistance in the City of Boston and to other low-income residents based on eligibility criteria established by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It appears now that perhaps advantage should be taken of the program and the following is justification for a request that additional funds be appropriated for the purpose of accomplishing the program.

The requested funds do not include the cost of personnel of the Neighborhood Youth Corps to be made available under Title I (B) of the Economic Opportunity Act. It is proposed that youths employed under the provisions of the act would be used in moving and handling food packages, as counter help, and as clerks at the points of distribution.

The Boston Welfare Department has no way of actually establishing how many persons presently receiving public assistance would take advantage of the program nor how many low-income families in the community would be certified as eligible and our assumptions are based on the experience of communities where the program is already in existence. It is estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 families in Boston might avail themselves of the opportunity to secure surplus foods.

It is the proposal of the department to establish at strategic locations throughout the city six distribution points which will correspond roughly with present welfare districts from which the neighborhoods could best be served. Rules and regulations for the distribution of food, eligibility requirements, inventory control, and certification have all been prescribed by the federal government and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and will of necessity involve considerable clerical effort. As I have stated, the ABCD organization has already filed with the federal government a request for certain manpower to operate the distribution points and it is hoped that approval will be forthcoming shortly. Hence, no funds are requested for this aspect of the program. However, there are numerous facets of the program that will require expenditure of local funds for which there will be no state or federal reimbursement; consequently, the department requests that the City of Boston appropriate the following funds for the administration of the program. The estimated costs for the full year 1965 will approximate $200,000 but inasmuch as the program will be in effect in 1965 only for ten months it is estimated that the cost for the remainder of the year would be $170,000. The costs may be analyzed as follows and those items which are on a monthly basis would only be allocated on a ten-month basis and the items of installation would of course be only a one-time charge:

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts imposes a handling charge of 25 cents for each carton of food delivered and, based on the experience of a nearby community, it is estimated that $50,000 will be required for payment to the Commonwealth.

Handling charge (noted above).....	$50,000
Rent—6 facilities at $150 per month	11,000
Light—$35 per month.....	2,500
Telephone—$50 per month.....	3,600
Trucking and freight handling—one truck and driver at $1,000 per month	12,000
Purchase of refrigerators.....	3,600

Equipment (counters, shelving, etc.)	$5,000
Maintenance of equipment.....	1,000
Packaging (bags, string, etc.).....	2,500
Office supplies.....	600
Travel	100
Postage	5,000
Printing	2,000

Total$98,900

No appropriation is requested for Workmen's Compensation for members of the Neighborhood Youth Corps who will assist in the operations of the program; this charge will be included in the budget of the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

As an inherent part of the program certain personnel will be required to determine the eligibility of nonwelfare recipients and it is proposed that there will be located in each present Boston Welfare district office:

6 Social Workers at $5,500.....	$33,000
6 Clerks at $3,400.....	$20,400

The department would require one person to supervise the entire operation of each installation and it would be hoped that a person versed in grocery distribution could be recruited at a salary of approximately $125 a week:

6 Distribution Center Managers at $6,500	$39,000

In addition, the services of one person to be responsible for the entire program would be required at $8,000, bringing the total salary expenditure to $100,400.

Because this personnel would only be required in 1965 for approximately ten months, the personnel appropriation requested is $83,665, and the operational expenses, $85,800. Grand total, $169,465.

Therefore, it is respectfully requested that a sum in the amount of $170,000 be appropriated for the remainder of the year 1965.

As I have already stated, it is the present plan of ABCD to provide the entire service personnel at the actual point of distribution. However, if this project should not be approved it would mean an additional amount probably in the vicinity of $100,000, but it hopefully is anticipated that this program will be approved.

Although the Commonwealth of Massachusetts states that 86 pounds of food per family would be made available monthly it is not contemplated that all recipients would take advantage of everything that is offered. The present foods being offered for distribution are:

Butter, Dried Milk, Lard, Cheese, Hominy Grits, Flour, Pea Beans, Canned Meat, Cornmeal, Rice, Bulgur, Rolled Wheat, Dried Eggs, Peanut Butter.

Assuming that a person avails himself of all the foods, it is estimated that their value will be approximately $26 per month. For the Welfare Department's computation we have assumed that probably a better approximation might be from 50 to 70 pounds per case, having a value of between $15 and $21. Hence this would mean that the surplus food made available would be well over two million dollars per year.

It is hoped that the program could be inaugurated in some instances on March 1, 1965, and as yet no sites have been selected and no commitments could be made until the program has received your approval and the funds appropriated for the operation of the program.

It is therefore respectfully requested that the program be approved as a part of the Welfare Department's function and that your approval be granted for the appropriation of funds.

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM F. LALLY, Director.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred seventy thousand dollars be, and hereby is, appropriated to the Welfare Department, said sum to be raised by taxation on the estates of the City of Boston and that all orders heretofore or hereinafter passed by the City Council relating to appropriations, taxes and interest thereon apply to the appropriations and taxes herein provided for.

Welfare Department.....$170,000

On motion of Councilor Langone the rules were suspended and the order was passed, yeas 9.

TAX-EXEMPTION STATUS OF PORT AUTHORITY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, February 2, 1965.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Pursuant to resolution adopted by your Honorable Body on November 9, 1964, a copy of the trust agreement executed as of February 1, 1959, by the Massachusetts Port Authority and the then Merchants National Bank of Boston for the purpose of securing bonds issued under chapter 465 of the Acts of 1956, as amended, has been obtained and examined by this office to determine, to use the language of your Honorable Body's resolution, "whether any part thereof has reference to the question of changing the tax exempt status of some or all of the port facilities, to a status under which they are taxable by the City of Boston." A copy of the trust agreement executed as of July 1, 1964, by the Massachusetts Port Authority and the now New England Merchants National Bank has also been obtained and examined.

Examination of these agreements discloses nothing dealing with the subject explicitly. The 1964 agreement defines "current expenses" to include "any taxes which may be lawfully imposed on the Authority or its income or operations or the property under its control and reserves for such taxes," following, in this respect, the definition of "current expenses" appearing in St. 1956, c. 465, s. 1, cl. (e), as amended by St. 1958, c. 599, s. 1. The 1964 agreement defines "current expenses" to include "any other expenses required to be paid by the Authority under the provisions of this Agreement or by law on account of the operation or ownership of such Projects." Such provisions as there are, therefore, allow for a change in the tax laws. This is appropriate; for in my opinion, the Legislature's power to enact a law taxing property under the Authority's control has not been contracted away. "A contract limiting the power to tax will not be implied in the absence of firm indication of legislative purpose." Collector of Taxes of Boston v. National Shawmut Bank, 259 Mass. 14, 20. I do not find in St. 1956, c. 465, any such indication. I do not even find in St. 1956, c. 465, what appears in St. 1946, c. 562, s. 6, namely, that "While any bonds issued by the Authority remain outstanding, the powers, duties or existence of the Authority shall not be diminished or impaired in any way that will affect adversely the interests and rights of the holders of such bonds." There is nothing to the contrary in Opinion of the Justices, 261 Mass. 523, or Dodge v. Prudential Insurance Co., 343 Mass. 375. The proposed statute involved in Opinion of the Justices, 261 Mass. 523, expressly declared that the exemption from taxation "shall constitute a contract binding upon the Commonwealth." Similarly, G. L. c. 121A, s. 6A, upheld in Dodge v. Prudential Insurance Co., 343 Mass. 375, concerned, in terms, a contract.

Accordingly, I conclude that constitutionally it is within the power of the General Court to repeal or modify the tax exemption afforded the Massachusetts Port Authority; and that the problem is to persuade it to do so.

Respectfully,

ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Corporation Counsel.

PRESIDENT CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 57

NO. 11

Mayor Hails President's Action as Aid To Rebuilding and Poverty War

Following is the statement of Mayor John F. Collins regarding President Johnson's message on housing and urban affairs:

I am particularly pleased at the President's recommendation that the Congress establish a cabinet level department of Housing and Urban Affairs. It is long overdue and I am hopeful that the Congress will expedite this proposal. Both the National League of Cities (American Municipal Association) which I served as president, and the United States Conference of Mayors on whose executive board I serve, have long urged that this step be taken. I intend to be in contact with the entire Massachusetts congressional delegation to urge their vigorous support of this measure.

The President's message proposed a total of $3 billion in new urban renewal capital grant authority to be spread over four years. The mayors' organizations which have given the funding problems of renewal very close study have urged that the program be funded at an annual rate of at least $1.5 billion a year. However, I heartily endorse the President's support of the long-term funding of this important program and I am hopeful that adequate provision can be made for the total funds to be made available as rapidly as they are needed over the next few years.

It is also worthy of note that the President proposed a continuation of the very successful 221 (d) 3 private low-cost housing program which means so much to Boston's renewal effort. Together with the proposed rental assistance program, we should be able to score a major breakthrough in low-cost housing in the near future.

The President's proposal for grant assistance for the construction of community facilities is a badly needed aid if we are to be able to provide the streets, sewers, parks, and playgrounds which our urban centers should provide.

There are a number of other important features in the President's message and, on balance, I think it is a very constructive and impressive approach to the problems of American cities. I expect to travel to Washington soon to testify on behalf of this legislation which means so much to Boston and, indeed, to all cities in the Commonwealth.

Relocation Payments

Chairman Jacob I. Brier, of the Boston Housing Authority, announced on March 2 that the Authority is preparing to make relocation payments to former tenants of the site of the West Ninth Street housing development for the elderly in South Boston.

The relocation payments, or moving expenses, apply to individuals, families, or business establishments located on the West Ninth Street site at the time the Authority acquired the property.

Mr. Brier noted that former tenants of this site should forward their new addresses to the Boston Housing Authority at 230 Congress street, Boston, so that they may be contacted and informed of the proper procedures to follow in filing a claim.

The amount paid on any one claim is determined from a fixed schedule of payments based upon the number of rooms of furniture moved.

Jaywalk Lectures

Volunteer members of the Boston Pedestrian Lifesaving Campaign Speakers Bureau, more than 100 of them, attended orientation meetings this week.

The purpose of the sessions is to acquaint them with techniques, information and material for talks before the public in conjunction with the anti-jaywalking law, which will become effective September 1.

John P. O'Brien, director of employment and training for Boston Gas, conducted the sessions.

To Sound Out Support for Boston's Bid To Bring 1975 World's Fair to Hub; Huge Site Planned

A new four-month, $50,000 study is being undertaken to determine the amount and degree of support that can be expected from various quarters for Boston's bid for a 1975 World's Fair, it was announced recently by Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, the 1975 World Freedom Fair of Boston, and also of H. P. Hood & Sons.

Mr. Hood has estimated that Boston's share of the cost of the proposed Fair would run close to $20 million, while the six New England states would be expected to contribute some $40-$50 million between them, and the federal government another $20 million.

Boston's $20 million, he indicated, would be raised through gifts, loans, and bond issues.

The directors of the 1975 World Freedom Fair of Boston, Inc., will decide, after the results of the study are made available in May, whether or not to submit a formal application to the U. S. Department of Commerce for consideration, according to Mr. Hood.

Interviewers from Arthur D. Little, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass., the research firm making the study, will contact city and state government agencies, financial organizations, labor groups, construction firms, transportation, utility and other services, educational and other institutions, hotels, motels, foundations, and a host of other business groups and organizations.

They will also sound out potential exhibitors and Fair participants, and seek the personal opinion of key government and industry figures.

Other Bids

Although no attempt will be made in the study to pinpoint actual locations for the proposed Fair, planning commissions will be asked to furnish descriptions of logical sites for exhibits, amusements, and other facilities, it was noted.

Mr. Hood indicated that the Boston Fair would require some 150-200 acres.

The competitive strengths and weaknesses of Boston—in comparison with other proposed Fair sites—also will be analyzed. The U. S. Government, it was pointed out, intends to support a Bicentennial Exposition in this country in 1975-76 to mark the 200th anniversary of the nation's birth.

Other U. S. cities reported to be considering making a bid for the Fair include Philadelphia, Chicago, Miami, St. Louis, Dallas, and Kansas City.

A Presidential Blue Ribbon Committee will eventually be established to review all applications and recommend the area or community which would receive the government's support.

The research study by Arthur D. Little will be jointly financed by the Greater Boston Chamber and the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

Noted Expert To Speak of Aging's Problems At Central Public Library Meeting on March 25

"A Healthy Attitude Toward Aging" will be discussed by Samuel Bachrach, M.D., Worcester, for the Never Too Late Group of the Boston Public Library, on March 25, at 2 p.m., in the Lecture Hall of Boston's Central Library building, Copley square.

From his deep interest and broad experience in work with older adults, Dr. Bachrach will speak on the necessity for older persons to develop a positive attitude toward some of the problems that may arise in later life. He will stress the opportunities and plea-tures that come in the years of retirement.

Dr. Bachrach is president of the Age Center of Worcester Area, Inc., Director of the Arthritis Clinic, the Memorial Hospital of Worcester; and Editor, the New England Adage. His other activities include membership in the Worcester District Medical Society, Massachusetts Medical Society, A.M.A., American Geriatric Society, National Council on Aging, and the Massachusetts Task Force on Mental Health. He attended the White House Conference on Aging. Currently he is serving as a trustee of the Worcester Public Library.

The Never Too Late Group includes a membership of close to 400 citizens over 60 years of age. The Central Library's group was the first group formed in Boston 15 years ago with an interested nucleus of 80 members. Today, there are similar groups in six of the branch libraries—at Adams Street, Connolly, Egleston Square, Parker Hill, Roslindale, and South Boston Branch Libraries. Groups meet to hear experts discuss current events, far off places, or problems pertinent to their particular needs. They view films on a variety of subjects, and sometimes, they provide programs or discussions based on their own talents and experiences. A committee made up of eight Never Too Late Group members assist the Library in planning programs that meet the group's needs and interests. Then it is up to the Library's untiring Mrs. Lana Reed and Miss Kathleen Hegarty to invite the key speakers or to make all necessary arrangements for the successful series.

Count Shows Over 700,000 Motor Vehicles Now Enter Downtown Boston Every Weekday

An outstanding example of a well coordinated and cooperative effort to study the growing complexity of the transportation problem in the City of Boston took place during 1964. The City of Boston Traffic and Parking Department assisted by the Boston Redevelopment Authority and the Boston Regional Planning Project undertook a cordon count study of downtown Boston. The personal cooperation of these three agencies, all with the same personal professional objective working together in this study, has developed this report which has been mutually accepted as a positive source of research data in helping to solve the ever-spreading urban concentration of traffic and people in the downtown area.

This was the first such study made since 1954 and resulted in very meaningful comparisons with similar data collected in prior years including 1938 and 1954. The study was conducted from 6 A.M. to 12 midnight during three six-hour periods on June 22, 23, and 24, 1964. Thirty-six locations along the cordon line, which in general followed the Massachusetts Avenue alignment, covered fifty-four manual counting stations and involved a manpower of about sixty-five men. In addition, information relative to passenger counts on public transportation vehicles was in most cases obtained personally from the respective agencies. The analysis in the study shows counts that have been summarized by location, by half-hourly periods, and by mode of travel. These summaries include a count of pedestrians, passenger cars, trucks, and buses entering and leaving the downtown area of Boston.

Perhaps the most significant indication of radical change over the years was in the mode of travel wherein people entering or leaving the downtown area of Boston by public transportation decreased by about 32 percent since the previous count taken in 1954, while those people who entered the downtown area by private transportation increased by about 24 percent. Translated into absolute numbers, the number of persons using public transportation as their mode of travel declined by about 240,700 since 1954, whereas 219,900 more persons crossed the cordon line by private vehicles or on foot during this count in 1964. Another factor shown in the study is that the total number of passenger cars and all types of vehicles crossing the cordon line increased substantially. Passenger cars increased by about 38 percent since 1954 and all vehicles increased by about 34 percent since 1954.

To the professional traffic engineer, this type of a study makes available to him very important informational data especially to those who are responsible for the movement of traffic throughout the city. Insofar as this particular study was made since the opening of new major traffic facilities, which included the John F. Fitzgerald Expressway and the Southeast Expressway, the new Sumner Tunnel and the Northeast Expressway, all counts taken show the definite traffic patterns that have developed since the opening of these new facilities. It also shows definite traffic patterns and trends that have developed over the years since 1954 and prior to the latest addition to Boston's traffic system, the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension into the downtown area.

It is hoped that a similar study will be made after a reasonable period since the opening of the Toll Road Extension showing what effect this new facility will have not only in anticipating additional traffic volumes and more people entering the city but most important what effect this will have on the adjacent local roads within the city itself. Any new study should also perhaps be taken prior to the initial construction of new additions to the general traffic system proposed in recent years for the City of Boston such as the Inner Belt Highway and the Southwest Expressway. Such a study would provide traffic engineers with some concrete measure of the traffic changes that do definitely result from new major traffic facilities.

How do people responsible for the control of traffic keep up with the steady increase of cars in an urban area? Over 700,000 cars a day cross the cordon line of downtown Boston, an increase of about 200,000 since 1954. What will it be by 1974? How many will require all-day parking, short-time parking? How do you increase highway capacities? Can you widen Boston's streets in the downtown area, or do you prohibit curb parking, or do you let our street system choke up with stagnant vehicles? Should all vehicles be prohibited from entering the city? Should all trucks deliver only during the nighttime? How can mass transportation help solve our problem? When will public transportation systems begin to expand as rapidly as highway systems?

These are the questions that very soon must be answered. These are the problems that all the people must work together with public officials and traffic engineers, highway engineers, planners, and transportation experts in order to prevent complete chaos and survive the future.

Scout Night

Scout Albert Egersheim of Troop 131, Roxbury, received the rank of Eagle Scout at Parents' Night and Court of Honor held on March 11, in the recreation hall of the Mission Hill housing development.

Representatives from the Boston Housing Authority and the Boston Council, Boy Scouts of America, and civic leaders took part in the presentation of more than 35 badges of various ranks and achievement to the scouts.

Mission Hill has one of the most active scouting programs in the entire Boston Council. More than 200 children are enrolled in the seven units which are sponsored by the residents of the development.

Edward J. Crowley

A High Mass of Requiem was sung on March 11 at St. Elizabeth's Church, Milton, for Deputy Master Edward J. Crowley, 53, fatally stricken on March 7 while trying to recapture a prisoner attempting an escape from Deer Island.

Mr. Crowley resided at 49 Sassamon avenue, Milton. A native of Boston, he had lived in Milton for 10 years.

Mr. Crowley served at the correctional institution more than 25 years. He was one of two guards who captured an escaped convict in 1950 after a third officer had been beaten with a pipe by the prisoner.

Mr. Crowley leaves his wife, Catherine (Rooney); two daughters, Patricia and Nancy; a son, Ted; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Crowley of Milton; a brother, Francis J. Crowley of Everett, and five sisters, Mrs. Josephine Green of Randolph, Mrs. Mildred Powers of Milton, Mrs. Marguerite Yaxter of Quincy, Mrs. Mary Cotton of West Newton, and Mrs. Alice Buckley of Braintree.

Firehouse Negated

Mayor John F. Collins on March 3 disapproved a request by Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin to build a fire station near Boylston street and Charlesgate West.

The Mayor said he does not favor the legislative petition which requested the Metropolitan District Commission to convey to the city land on which to build a firehouse.

Mayor Collins said the area is in a state of transition and he does not believe the Back Bay could best be served from the proposed location.

In addition, neither the subbids filed by the three lowest responsible and eligible subbidders for a subtrade nor the subbids for the same subtrade as shown on the general bids of the three lowest responsible and eligible general bidders, may be withdrawn after the opening of the general bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) after presentation of a subcontract to the subbidder selected for that subtrade by the general bidder selected as the general contractor.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, February 15, 1965.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President TIERNEY in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

God of our fathers, strength of our sons, help us to build this city into a great and grand community of balance and of moderation in which the averages are high and the extremes few, in which we strive to protect the great heritage of the past but do not hesitate to increase it. Amid the complexity of government and the techniques of legislating may the human needs and the public welfare be clearly seen and devoutly defended. May each of these councillors by the exercise of refined and pure motives transform the hours of this day from "just work" or usual activity into significant and creative service for the city and for Thee.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

APPROPRIATION FOR ACQUISITION OF LAND, FAIRVIEW CEMETERY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 8, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith a communication from the Commissioner of the Parks and Recreation Department requesting an appropriation of $30,000 for the acquisition of a parcel of land at the entrance to Fairview Cemetery, Hyde Park, for cemetery purposes.

The attached communication explains the purpose of this purchase of land, and meets with my approval.

I am therefore submitting an appropriation order for $30,000 from the account "Sales of City Property," and respectfully request adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Parks and Recreation Department,

January 26, 1965.

Mr. Henry A. Scagnoli, Director,
Administrative Services Department.

Dear Sir:

I know you are aware of the fact that for a considerable period of time going back now for some few years, the Parks and Recreation Department has been endeavoring to acquire a parcel of land at the entrance of Fairview Cemetery, Hyde Park, for cemetery purposes.

The particular parcel contains 73,500 square feet and is located on Fairview avenue, St. Charles street, and Atherton street, Hyde Park, as indicated on a City of Boston Parks and Recreation Department plan dated November 4, 1960.

The acquisition of the land has been discussed at various meetings of the Parks and Recreation Commission and the commission has indicated by unanimous vote that steps should be taken to acquire by eminent domain this particular parcel of property.

I have previously communicated with your office asking that steps be taken to acquire this property, and it would appear that now would be the opportune time.

The Public Improvement Commission of the city held a public hearing on the acquisition of this land on Tuesday, January 26, 1965, at which I was present and the price set for this purchase is in the amount of $30,000.

I have been informed in a letter from the City Auditor that money is available in the special appropriation, "Sales of City Lands," and under an opinion received from the city Law Department, it can be expended for this purpose.

During the past year the sale of park lands no longer required for park purposes has resulted in approximately $150,000 being placed in the fund by the Parks and Recreation Department, and this is our first request for a portion of the money deposited in the fund.

I think you are aware that this land is needed for the extension of Fairview Cemetery and by its acquisition we will be able to beautify and landscape the entrance road to the cemetery.

It would be appreciated if you could arrange through the City Council for an order to make available the sum of $30,000 from the appropriation, "Sales of City Lands," as already indicated.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM J. DEVINE, Commissioner.

Boston Redevelopment Authority.

February 8, 1965.

Mr. William J. Devine,

Commissioner of Park and Recreation.

Re: Expansion of Fairview Cemetery, Hyde Park.

Dear Commissioner Devine:

In response to the requirements of section 23, chapter 3 of the Revised Ordinances of 1961 of the City of Boston, you are hereby advised that this office has no objection to the proposed purchase by the city on behalf of your department of certain land adjacent to Fairview Cemetery for cemetery purposes.

Your request to the Mayor for the appropriation of up to $30,000 for this purchase from the Sale of City Property account is endorsed.

Sincerely,

FRANCIS E. O'BRIEN, JR.,
Capital Improvements Officer.

Ordered, That the sum of thirty thousand ($30,000) dollars be, and hereby is, appropriated for the purchase of land to be expended under the direction of the Parks and Recreation Department, and it be further authorized that said appropriation be met by transfer of thirty thousand ($30,000) dollars from the account "Sales of City Property" in accordance with the provisions of section 63 of chapter 44 of the General Laws.

3-13-21, Group 8: LAND AND NONSTRUCTURAL IMPROVEMENTS TO LAND, $30,000.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

CONFERENCE RE CONTROL OF NARCOTICS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 15, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communications from the Superintendent of Public Schools, the Police Commissioner, and the Director of the Youth Activity Bureau, concerning your order of recent date with reference to several proposals regarding the problem of narcotics in the city.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

School Committee, City of Boston,

February 9, 1965.

Mr. Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Mr. Albert Kramer,

At a meeting of the Board of Superintendents held on February 3, 1965, the subcommittee appointed at the Board meeting of December 10, 1964, Mr. Louis R. Welch, Chairman; Mr. William G. Tobin, Member, reported on the City Council order of November 30, 1964, with reference to the proper enforcement of the Narcotic Laws of the City of Boston, as follows:

"The Boston Public Schools Course of Study in Health Education for Grade VII (1960) contains a complete unit on Protecting Your Body. Powerful and Harmful Drugs and the Use and Misuse of Drugs are two of the topics that are completely covered in this unit.

"The Course of Study in Health Education for Grade X (1959) also contains a unit on Personality and Successful Living. The types and effects of harmful drugs such as narcotics, barbiturates, and bromides are thoroughly covered in this unit.

"The Physical Education Department, with the cooperation of the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction, obtains and distributes the latest training films and other teaching aids for classroom and assembly instruction in this area at all grade levels with particular emphasis at the Grade XII level."

The Board of Superintendents accepted the report of the subcommittee.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM H. OHRENBARGER,
Superintendent of Public Schools.

City of Boston,

Police Department, December 18, 1964.

Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Kramer:

Reference is made to the enclosed order of the Boston City Council adopted November 30, 1964, in which several proposals are made regarding the problem of narcotics in this city.

With reference to the calling of a city-wide conference of all agencies involved in the enforcement of the narcotic laws, it may be noted that at the present time the Boston Police Department confers regularly and has a very close relationship with the Federal Narcotics Bureau, the United States Customs Service, the State Pure Food and Drug Division, and the Massachusetts State Police.

Concerning the creation of a Citizens Committee in each community to cooperate with law enforcement agencies, if in the judgment of the Mayor such is desirable, the Police Department would assist in every way possible.

At the present time, in my professional judgment, a sufficient number of officers are assigned to duty in the enforcement of the narcotics laws and if more are needed, our operation is sufficiently flexible to make any adjustments necessary.

Insofar as the proposal to initiate an educational program among children of school age, this would appear to be within the province of the Boston School Department and the Police Department would be pleased to cooperate in any such program.

Sincerely yours,

EDMUND L. MCNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

City of Boston,

Youth Activities Bureau,
20 Whittier Street, Boston.

Memo to: Albert Kramer, Administrative Assistant.

From: James A. Travers, Director.

Date: December 10, 1964.

Re: City Council Order of November 30, 1964.

The thinking of the Youth Activities Bureau staff on the narcotics problem is:

We feel that the city-wide conference of all agencies involved in the proper enforcement of narcotics laws is in a sense not needed, but what is needed is a greater awareness of the problem and much clearer lines of communication between concerned agencies. We would also recommend the "city-wide" aspect to involve the Food and Drug Department (George Michaels) which has a statewide responsibility.

We see the function of the Citizens Committee, if established, to be one of planning a public relations campaign regarding posters, explanatory meetings, where to go for advice, etc. (comparable to health campaigns against tooth decay, cancer, and muscular dystrophy). Perhaps this would take the skeleton out of the closet as it did with VD and mental illness, and meet the need of some parents that fear, suspect, or know their youngsters or young adults are involved.

We agree that the Narcotic Squad should be increased, and there should be better orientation of all police. We also feel that more attention is needed regarding difference in federal concern between opiates and barbiturates such as the barbiturates and amphetamines.

Subject to Mr. Ohrenberger's and the School Committee's approval, we feel it would be a sound educational approach if handled by competent people capable of translating the knowledge into easily understood language, yet get across the necessary message.

In connection with the foregoing message and communications, Councillor Langone offered the following motion:

Moved, That the Boston City Council requests his Honor for further information on the order passed November 30, 1964, relative to use of narcotics by teen-agers and that the present communication be remanded to his Honor for further action.

The motion was carried.

Today's Boston Worthy of Its Heritage, Mayor Tells Charitable Irish

(Each year on the 17th of March at the traditional anniversary dinner of the Charitable Irish Society of Boston, the city's Mayor is called upon to offer "The Toast of the Mayor of Boston." This year's toast by Mayor John F. Collins at the Sheraton Plaza linked the rich heritage of Boston's past with today and the city's emergence as a great modern metropolis. The Mayor's toast follows:)

I have forgotten at what point in the green salad days of my elementary schooling that our teacher reached that point in U. S. History when the British fleet decided Boston Harbor held too many perils for its safety.

It was clear that the British decided the cannons which George Washington had arranged on Dorchester Heights boded nothing but trouble.

It was clear, too, that forcing the evacuation of those sturdy vessels, along with their military and nonmilitary passengers, was one of the truly great victories of the Revolutionary War.

Looking back now on those carefree schooldays, I remember the deep thrill that I knew when our patient teacher emphasized that the evacuation of Boston occurred on St. Patrick's Day and that the password on Dorchester Heights that night had been "St. Patrick."

That thrill will live with me forever. I have no doubt that it will live with every Bostonian forever. I use the term "every Bostonian" advisedly. For who among us in Boston is not Irish on the Seventeenth of March?

Until after the late 1700s, historians tell us, there were never more than 100 Catholics in Boston and not all of them were Irish. Indeed, it was a French priest, an ex-chaplain of the French Navy, who is accredited with offering the first Mass in Boston by many of our historians.

Be that as it may, I am sure that some good tough Irishmen helped to drag those guns down from Ticonderoga that preceding winter. I am sure, too, that helping to man those guns on the Heights were men from Erin.

It is well for us on this fine double holiday to examine the rich heritages that are ours.

It is well to look back to the days of St. Patrick when Christianity was brought to a pagan nation of stalwart fighting men. It is well to consider how deeply the seeds he sowed reached into the hearts and minds of a great race.

No Accident

Today we can take pride in the knowledge that even before the Constitution of our Republic was adopted in 1789, our Latin School was already 150 years old.

A few years before his death in 1882, Ralph Waldo Emerson, looking back a bit as many of us have occasion to do tonight, wrote his own description of Boston.

"The City of Boston," he penned, "has a history."

"It is not an accident or a railroad station or crossroads tavern or an Army barracks grown up by time and luck to a place of wealth but a seat of humanity, of men of principle . . ."

How true those words!

No accident of geography has made Boston great. No break of luck suddenly opened vast wheat fields to our view. No vistas of giant drills probing the earth for fortune-building oil have transformed our landscape.

Boston was founded by men. Boston was built by men.

The builders were the men who dragged those cold cannons through hill and dale in the dead of winter—all the way from Vermont to Dorchester Heights.

The builders were the men who built the Clipper ships and opened to commerce the ports of the world.

The builders were Irishmen who had faith and love of freedom.

The builders were men of all races who found here in Boston the true meaning of liberty and an inspiration to make the city's name great among her sisters of the world.

Fitting Hallmark

Nearly 150 years ago, when Boston became a city—men such as those gathered here tonight—adopted a motto for our official city seal.

The motto read, "May God be with us as He was with our fathers."

$9.7 Million Castle Square Housing Development Under Way This Spring

Land purchase agreements paving the way for construction of a $9.7 million middle-income housing development in the Castle Square area of the South End have been completed between the Boston Redevelopment Authority and City Redevelopment Corporation.

Signing contracts for the sale of 15 acres bounded by Herald, Dover and Tremont streets and Shawmut avenue for $57,000 were Boston Developer Bertram Druker and BRA Director Edward J. Logue.

At the same meeting, Boston Housing Chairman Jacob Brier signed a land purchase agreement to make way for two seven-story public housing buildings for the elderly which will be part of Druker's private 500-unit housing development.

Director John W. Flynn, of the Boston office of the Federal Housing Administration, after the signing, presented Druker with a mortgage commitment of $8.7 million.

Druker said construction would start this spring with initial occupancy scheduled for spring, 1966.

The development comprises a cluster of two, four-seven story (four of the latter) buildings housing 500 private apartments and the two seven-story twin buildings housing 102 elderly apartments.

Druker said rentals will range from $88 for an apartment with living room, dining room, kitchen, bathroom, and one bedroom, to $117 for an apartment with four bedrooms, including heat, hot water, and parking. All units will be equipped with range and refrigerators. Some four bedroom units with extra bath will rent for $132 a month.

A shopping arcade will be included along Tremont street between Dover and Herald streets. The development features interior courts, a small public park and a local shopping plaza in addition to the shopping arcade.

Today's Boston . . .

That motto—I predict—will always remain our hallmark.

Would Ralph Waldo Emerson recognize our city today?

He'd be perplexed if he viewed our skyline from a point in Boston Harbor.

He'd find it hard to admit, even to himself, that such a complex as the Prudential could have risen in the "made-land" of the Back Bay.

He'd be hard put to understand that today's Government Center was successor to the Scollay square of his day.

And yet, I think he would know and recognize the Bostonians of today.

Nearly 100 years ago when he wrote "The City of Boston has a history . . ." he put no limit on the ability of Bostonians to explore ever higher levels of achievement.

He knew the true depth of Boston's heritage. He knew succeeding generations would be worthy of that heritage.

Public Housing Speeded by U. S. Planning Loan

Construction of additional public housing in the Boston area will move ahead rapidly as the result of a loan for planning studies received by the Boston Housing Authority from the Public Housing Administration, Jacob I. Brier, Chairman of the Authority, announced.

The loan of $67,500 applies to 500 units of new housing, primarily for the elderly. The 500 units are the first installment of 1,000 units which was requested by the Authority and approved by the Boston City Council and Mayor John F. Collins last year.

All phases of the planning studies, such as the selection of sites for the new housing, engineering surveys, and preliminary drawings from the architects will be expedited in order to meet the constantly increasing demand for more housing for low-income people.

In selecting sites, Mr. Brier said, the Authority will continue to give consideration to locations in urban renewal areas, as in the case of the Castle Square and Warren Street housing developments for the elderly.

The need for housing for individuals and families of low income continues to increase each year, Mr. Brier stated, especially for elderly persons. At the close of 1964, he pointed out, the number of new applications from persons, 65 years of age or older, were approximately half of the total number of applications received during the year.

Also, he noted, the number of elderly people living in both the regular public housing developments and in the specialized housing for the elderly now makes up approximately 30 percent of the total public housing population, an increase of five percent over statistics compiled several years ago.

State's Property Tax Doubled in Last Decade, Town Meetings Add to Load

Homeowners and tenants are forfeiting one big chance to hold down their 1965 tax rates, according to president James H. Henderson, of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board.

He said press and radio reports of Town Meetings being held in March, or "Appropriations Month," indicate citizens are failing to speak out vigorously against the ever-accelerating tempo of their runaway real estate taxes.

Henderson cited one town's action where less than 5 percent of the voters approved a record $5 million budget with "nary a word of dissent."

In another town, a $7 million budget took only 15 minutes of discussion while a $4,000 expenditure required a half-hour debate.

One community that has seen its tax levy rise 128 percent in a decade voted a swimming pool against the advice of their advisory committee. Another town voted down a similar pool project. This town's tax levy has increased 98 percent in the past 10 years, a high increase, but still 30 percent less than the 128 percent increase in the town that overruled their advisory committee.

This indicates that every homeowner and tenant should remind themselves that they will set their own tax bills or their rent increases this year. They will do this either by their demand for services, their failure to protest wasteful expenditures, or their failure to communicate with their legislators regarding the inescapable need for another source of property tax relief.

Henderson points out that the property tax burden in the Commonwealth has practically doubled in a decade, rising from $441 million in 1954 to $875 million in 1964, an increase of $434 million.

The 98.5 percent increase in taxes is at a rate 10 times that of our state's population growth. It has grown twice as fast as our gross national product and almost four times as fast as federal nondefense spending.

A record $720 million state budget is being recommended for the fiscal year of 1965 and all indications are that the majority of cities and towns are increasing their 1965 budgets.

In 1964, tax rates were increased in 259 cities and towns. In 59 communities, tax rates were decreased. About one-half of the decreases were the result of revaluations rather than a real decrease in tax levies. The remaining 33 cities and towns held their tax rate at the same level.

There is no sign of a change for the better in 1965 unless a new source for relief of the property tax is found. Last year, the Massachusetts property tax levy averaged over $600 per family, a record for the state and probably for the nation.

The Realtor president stresses that homeowners and rent payers alike—must hold themselves accountable when big appropriations come up for discussion at town meetings or at public hearings in the cities.

Henderson reminds taxpayers that this is the month to sound off to their local officials and state representatives against unnecessary spending and for real estate tax relief.

Unless homeowners and tenants alike awake from their apathy and bring strong pressure to bear on their representatives, the rapid rise in tax rates will continue and even accelerate, the real estate executive predicts.

Skyrocketing tax rates in our cities and towns are already making home ownership impossible for many families as well as increasing rent costs for other families and individuals.

Some families have had to seriously reduce their standard of living in other ways in order to continue as homeowners. Young families, especially those in the lower income brackets, may have to defer for years the realization of their dream of home ownership, Henderson said.

Other consequences of runaway real estate taxes will be reflected in curtailment of home construction and also industrial construction. All this means fewer jobs.

Properties will not be as well maintained and blight will ensue. Foreclosures can increase and ultimately social services will suffer, due to the economic inability of real estate to carry the load alone.

To get a start on solving these problems requires that homeowners and tenants speak up individually and in groups for tax relief. They can no longer depend on "letting George do it," Henderson concludes.

Firefighters Big Hit On Douglas TV Show

No one—but no one—steals a show from Mike Douglas and Pat O'Brien.

However, for a good part of the Douglas TV show at the new War Memorial Auditorium on March 4, Chief William T. Terrenzi of the Boston Fire Department and a team of pretty special Boston firefighters thrilled not only a capacity audience but Douglas and the famed old Irish trouper as well.

Chief Terrenzi's boys gave a demonstration of rescue and ladder work which won't soon be forgotten. The chief himself took over as pro tem master of ceremonies and he acted like one born to the stage and the TV camera.

Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin, one of the delighted audience, was all smiles when the show was over.

The Auditorium audience saw the show live. During the week of March 15 the show was again repeated on video tape in 47 major cities in the nation.

New Boston, the Auditorium, and the Boston Fire Department share in the smart public relations dividends. Douglas, at every show, went out of his way to extol the wonders of the new Auditorium.

WELFARE COSTS FOR JANUARY

Following is a summary of the Welfare Department for January:

With the exception of the Medical Assistance for the Aged category, where expenditures, chiefly for hospital and nursing home care, claimed 97.6 percent of that program's budget, the major portion of the $4,013,059 spent during January took the form of direct client payments. The successful effort to reduce outstanding medical claims during December, produced a noticeable drop in such payments this month. Caseload activity involved 1,449 approvals and 1,228 closings for a net increase of 221 cases. An additional 360 applications were rejected.

Old Age Assistance: Recent headlines concerning Medicare and the War on Poverty emphasize the government's interest in these vital social areas. A similar concern on the part of the department is evinced by its undramatized day to day ventures into the areas of poverty and sickness. Of the 159 Old Age Assistance cases approved during this month nearly 50 percent (48.4 percent) were prompted by illness or depletion of resources. To alleviate hardships resulting from these and other factors a total of $873,773 was expended.

Medical Assistance for Aged: The new year brought no reversal in the upward caseload trend of this category. Approvals continue to outnumber closings, the current figures reading 263 vs. 239 for a rise of 24 cases and an end of the month caseload total of 6,984. Although not all of the eligible clients required available services, payments exceeded three quarters of a million dollars ($893,630).

Aid to Families with Dependent Children: The humane foresight inherent in the broadening of eligibility requirements for this category to include the unemployed father, is brought into focus by the fact that the largest single factor in this month's over-all caseload increase from 8,495 to 8,564 was the number of fathers (106) whose job layoff prompted them to seek assistance for their families. The $1,575,063 required to underwrite this program represented 39.2 percent of the entire January budget.

Disability Assistance: Due to the aforementioned successful drive to decrease the volume of medical claims, such indirect disability payments this month fell 18 percent below the $287,425 spent for direct client Disability Assistance. As could be expected, 50 percent of the 114 cases approved were due to client's illness, while death accounted for 46 of the 117 cases closed.

General Relief: Although more General Relief applications were motivated by illness (203) and loss of employment (207) than was the case with the Aid to Families with Dependent Children requests, the fact that the majority of participants are unattached rather than members of a family unit render them ineligible for assistance under the latter category. Caseload activity was heavy, involving 471 approvals and 311 closings for an adjusted caseload rise of 160 from 2,268 to 2,428. Expenditures amounted to $184,699.

Modus operandi of the robbery, prostitutes luring victims from other sections of the city to vacant apartments in the Roxbury district.

The above-named officers believing that these criminals may return to this location, kept the premises under surveillance for four nights, secluding themselves in a motor vehicle and concealing themselves in the closets of the vacant apartment.

About 10 P.M., Monday, January 25, 1965, as a result of their perseverance and patience the officers arrested two females who had lured a male to the above location and at 10 P.M., same date, arrested one Thomas Stewart, 21 years, 235 Columbia road, Dorchester, for armed robbery. They continued the surveillance and at 10:45 P.M., Monday, January 25, 1965, they arrested two more females who had lured another male to this location and they were charged with S.P. of armed robbery.

As a result of further investigations Earl Robinson, Barbara Marcus, and Doris Stewart were prosecuted in court on January 26, 1965, before Judge Philip Tracey for armed robbery and held in lieu of $20,000 bail. the suspect emerge from the cellar at 18 Sonoma street and proceed to the side of an abandoned car and then return to the house. He was observed at various times during the night looking out of his apartment window into the yard. The officers checked the area of this car and found a large package, wrapped in tinfoil, containing "decks" of white powder believed to be heroin.

The officers left the package of suspected narcotics under the tire and returned to the cellar, and about 9 A.M., January 12, 1965, observed the suspect come out of his cellar, go to the abandoned car and bend over, whereupon the officers placed under arrest, one Robert Taylor, 52 years, married, of 18 Sonoma street, Roxbury, for the unlawful possession of heroin. The officers retrieved the tinfoil package which contained 176 "decks" of heroin, valued at $20,000.

On February 15, 1965, Judge Philip Tracey, Roxbury District, found probable cause on the charges of unlawful possession of heroin and unlawful possession of heroin with intent to sell, both second offenses, and the defendant was held for the grand jury.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize their courage, devotion to duty and their perseverance that resulted in the apprehension of the perpetrator of this nefarious crime.

March 9.

Personnel Order No. 677.

Patrolman Joseph A. Ferrullo, District 10, is hereby commended for meritorious police duty and is granted 2 days' additional vacation.

About 3 A.M., Monday, December 21, 1964, while assigned to foot patrol and checking the doors in the rear of 742 Huntington avenue, Roxbury, observed a man emerge from the rear entrance of Kennedy's Creamery, Inc. Patrolman Ferrullo ordered him to come out of the doorway and took him to the nearest police signal box. While proceeding to the signal box, Patrolman Ferrullo observed the suspect remove a pair of men's work gloves from his hands and drop them to the ground. They were recovered later. He was identified at District 10 as Albert G. Gorham, 36 years, of 1 Tobin court, Roxbury.

Further investigation disclosed that entrance to the Kennedy store had been made by forcing the rear door, and after gaining entrance to this store, entrance was also gained to four other stores by breaking through the cinder block walls. A mosler safe had been removed from the counter area of one of the stores to a refrigerated room, forced open and the contents consisting of $695 removed. Burglariou tools were found at the scene.

Gorham was arraigned in Roxbury District Court before Judge Charles Taylor, probable cause was found and he was bound over to the grand jury.

Albert Gorham is a known associate of a group of "safe men" who are either confined to a correctional institution or awaiting trial in the Superior Court.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the devotion to duty displayed by Patrolman Ferrullo in the apprehension of this criminal thus preventing him from committing similar crimes.

Reveal Plans for Govt. Center Garage

Detailed sketches of the proposed Government Center garage have been made by architects even as work of demolishing the old Haymarket Relief Station nears completion.

Plans show a nine-story facility holding 2,109 cars. The building's North Station side is elevated by columns three stories high, with only six floors instead of nine.

The six-story suspended area was designed to make possible a visual connection between the Government Center and the North Station area.

During hearings on the Center plan, North Station merchants had objected to a large garage at Haymarket, fearing it would serve as a barrier to pedestrian flow into their area.

The proposed New Congress street also will pass through the ramp-type garage.

The $7 million facility also will house an M.B.T.A. bus terminal to replace the Haymarket Square terminal. Provisions for retail shops, adjacent to the bus terminal and subway station in the garage, also have been made.

One feature of the garage is an access "drum" which has the appearance of a silo in one corner of the facility. The ramp drum allows cars to speed quickly out of the building from any level.

The architects have patterned the parking method after a normal street parking system. Each floor would be marked off in lanes as streets are and the motorist would simply drive in and park as he would on the street.

The garage would be 600 feet long, 210 feet wide, and 100 feet high. There would be two entrances on New Chardon street, between the garage and the State Service Complex at Bowdoin square, for cars leaving the Central Artery in both directions.

A third entrance is on New Sudbury street, between the Federal Building and the garage for Cambridge street traffic. A fourth is directly to New Congress street. Exits are on Sudbury and Chardon streets.

There will be four elevators and three sets of stairs. The new City Hall architects, Michael McKinnell and Gerhard Kallmann, and the architect Sam Glaser are designing the structure for the Real Property Board. The structure will be faced with concrete.

Garage Bill . . .

" 'We recognize the overriding need for a large parking facility to serve the motoring public,' Chairman Driscoll said, 'particularly now with the completion of the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension right to the South Station.

" 'It is our hope that when all negotiations are completed and the area is ready for actual development, that the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority will have the privilege of being the developer.' "

George E. Willard

George E. Willard, 77, of 605 South street, Roslindale, retired assistant executive officer of the Boston Retirement Board, died March 15.

Born in Chelsea, he lived in Roslindale for 43 years. He was a World War I Army veteran.

Mr. Willard was a member of Adams Post, A.L., Eliot Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and Suffolk Voiture 543.

He leaves a wife, Leah M. (Wiltzie); two sons, George E. Willard, Jr., of Braintree, and Marcellus E. of Whitman; four daughters, Mrs. Elma F. Leonard of South Boston; Mrs. Eleanor A. Chaplik of Dorchester; Mrs. Esther E. Bridges of Weymouth, and Lois E. Willard, of Roslindale.

Howard J. Buckley Named Deputy Superintendent at City Hospital

President William H. Ellis, Jr., of the Boston City Hospital Board of Trustees, announced the appointment of Howard J. Buckley, 59, of West Roxbury, as deputy superintendent of physical facilities at the hospital. He will assume his new duties at once.

Buckley, identified with the construction industry in New England for more than 30 years, will succeed C. James D'Amato of Needham, who died December 30, 1964.

He is a member of the 1927 graduating class of Boston College, studied law at Suffolk Law School for three years and took specialized building and construction courses at Wentworth Institute for two years.

During and following his formal education in the early days of the depression, he prepared himself for his future career in the construction field by serving as apprentice carpenter, before forming his own construction firm in 1932.

The firm was responsible for the remodeling and extensive alterations on many dwelling units in Boston and its suburbs, particularly in West Roxbury, Roslindale, and Needham.

During World War II, Mr. Buckley became part owner of the combined contracting firms of Carilli Construction Company and the John Basile Company, Inc., assuming complete charge of all construction and schedule maintenance.

During the war the joint firms handled over $1,300,000 work in New York and the New England States. Contracts included a field evacuation hospital at Camp Edwards, construction at Presque Isle and Houlton Air Bases in Maine, a defense housing project at Springfield, Vermont, and many others.

In more recent years he has been active as a general consultant in all fields of construction.

The new Boston City Hospital deputy superintendent is a native of West Roxbury. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley are parents of six girls, ranging from four to 24 years. The family home is at 450 Belgrade avenue.

Custodial Overtime in Schools Hit by BMRB

The following report was released by the Boston Municipal Research Bureau, March 25:

Boston school custodians amassed over two years of overtime this January. The bill came to $74,000. The overtime amounting to 19,288½ hours was worked by 410 men. Working 24 hours a day, it would take a man nearly 26 months to work 19,288½ hours. Stricter controls are obviously needed.

Over half of the men (222) recorded more than 40 hours of overtime. In fact, 47 claimed more than 81 hours each. Only 74 put in for less than 20 hours.

Because of differences in overtime rates and pay grades the number of men working a given number of hours and the number receiving a given percentage of their pay in overtime will not coincide. Yet 75 men received between one half and one week's overtime pay. One hundred and fifty-four received between one and two weeks' salary in overtime. One hundred got between two and three weeks' extra pay in overtime, while 45 got more than three weeks' overtime.

A certain amount of custodial overtime is generally allowed throughout the school year on weekends. In the larger schools night custodial crews are on regular duty Saturdays. Sunday overtime is determined by the building's heating problems. In the elementary schools between four and eight hours of weekend overtime is allowed.

Snow removal cannot be the reason for the heavy January overtime. It is true that January, 1965, saw 22.2 inches of snow accumulation compared to 14.4 inches in January, 1964. But only on four days—three of them weekend days—was there more than one inch of snow accumulation.

The amount of mechanical snow removal equipment in the Boston school system should not be overlooked. It is significant that the 1955 Report and Recommendations on the Organization and Procedural Improvements in the Nonacademic Divisions and Services said that 36 sidewalk snowplows were the optimum required for the Boston system. Today there are 130 sidewalk snowplows in the system.

More significantly, the same report said: "The payroll savings resulting from fuller mechanization of snow removal would be mostly in overtime expenditures, as much of the hand shoveling is performed either on an overtime basis or results in extra overtime for other work in schools. It is estimated that hand shoveling of snow requires about 30 to 50 times the man-hours required for the operation of tractor plows, depending on the depth and weight of the snow. Thus the cost of required snow removal equipment will be repaid through payroll savings in a short time, particularly should there be heavy snowfalls in any year."

In view of the above, control of custodians' overtime is due for reexamination lest overtime become a normal way to make six weeks' salary a month.

Dilapidated Building Repairs

Dr. John T. Foley, Health Commissioner, on March 24, gave a Roxbury landlord nine days to start fixing a dilapidated tenement house on West Cottage street in Roxbury.

Dr. John T. Foley said that if the landlord fails to get a building permit and start the repairs by the deadline he would see that the house is placarded unfit for human habitation.

The landlord appeared before Dr. Foley at a hearing to appeal a Health Department condemnation notice. He is the first landlord to take advantage of this right.

Francis W. Gens, Director of Environmental Sanitation, said that while a new owner has no intention of trying to rent the vacant house before making the necessary repairs, his department still plans to placard the property.

VI. HIGH COMMENDATIONS.

At 8.38 A.M., March 4, 1965, the department responded to Box 1787, two alarms, for a fire in the dwelling house at 242 Magnolia street, Dorchester.

Upon arrival at the fire, members of Ladder Company 7 were directed by the district fire chief to check the building and to evacuate any people that might be trapped in the building. The asphalt shingle siding on the exterior of the building was fully involved by fire in the rear from the first floor to the roof, generating heavy smoke and exit by way of the rear stairs was cut off. All three apartments were heavily charged with smoke, heat and gases.

Fire Lieutenant Walter J. Cameron, and Fire Fighter Arthur E. Ruggere of Ladder Company 7 observed a woman and a baby at a window of the building on the left rear side of the third floor. They went over the front stairs to the third floor and groped their way to the rear left side of the building to a room adjacent to the one involved in fire, and they found a mother and a two-week-old baby, carried them along the hallway and down the front stairs to the street where oxygen was administered to the mother and baby. Both were removed to the Boston City Hospital.

This rescue work was performed before adequate ventilation had been completed and while hose lines were being run to the fire.

Because of the fact that Fire Lieutenant Cameron and Fire Fighter Ruggere performed the rescue work without thought of their own safety and at great personal risk, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend them highly, and their cases are referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

VII. MEETING OF CHIEF OFFICERS.

All chief officers will meet with the Fire Commissioner and the Chief of Department at Memorial Hall, Headquarters, at 9.30 A.M., Monday, March 22, 1965. Chiefs of Districts 4, 5, 6, and 7 may bring their cars with them. Other districts shall arrange for an acting chief during the meeting.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the award of contracts, without advertising, based on the following communications:

WELFARE DEPARTMENT. LEASE OF PREMISES.

DEAR MAYOR COLLINS:

On March 30, 1964, you approved the execution of a lease by and between the Trustees of the Banquer Realty Trust, lessor, and the City of Boston, acting by and through its Overseers of the Public Welfare, for lease of the premises on the second floor of the building at 20 West Howell street, Dorchester, Mass., for Welfare Department purposes. The said lease is dated March 24, 1964, and is for the term April 1, 1964, through March 31, 1965. The premises contain 4,880 feet of floor space, more or less, and the rental is $15,900 per year, payable at the rate of $1,325 per month. The lease contains a tax escalator clause requiring the lessee to pay, as additional rent, 50 percent of any increase in real estate taxes over and above the amount of said taxes in 1964, but in no event more than $1,000.

As you know, rent for real estate used in Welfare Department business is reimbursable by the federal and state governments at approximately 75 percent, making Boston's contribution about $331.25 per month.

The need for this space was created by the increased work load which resulted from the Medical Assistance for the Aged program. The present need is vital to the conduct of business in that area and no other space is available.

I respectfully request your permission to enter into a renewal of the said lease upon the same terms and conditions as aforesaid.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM F. LALLY,
Director.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT. REMODELING X-RAY ROOMS.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On December 30, 1964, your Honor approved a contract dated December 10, 1964, between the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department and William Nelson Jacobs Associates, Inc., an architectural and engineering firm, with offices at 316 Stuart street, Boston, Mass., providing for the preparation of plans and specifications for, and the supervision of, the construction of, proposed remodeling of various X-ray rooms within the Main X-Ray Department and Shortell Unit, Boston City Hospital, 818 Harrison avenue, Boston, Mass., in order to accommodate the new X-ray equipment.

The total estimated construction cost as of the date of execution of the contract being $30,000. The architect to be paid a fee equal to 13 percent of the actual cost of construction, in addition, an estimated expenditure of $1,500 for supplementary services, but in no event shall the maximum liability of the city exceed in the aggregate, the sum of $5,400.

For your information, the estimated figure of $30,000 was based on drawings furnished by the manufacturer and did not include the additional mechanical work involved to satisfactorily complete the installation, namely, the reconditioning of certain controls; relocating and reorganizing the existing duct work; replacing existing duct work with new duct work in connection with the existing heating and cooling systems; install supplementary individual air-conditioning units and/or exhaust systems where not previously installed; provide two (2) new toilet areas; relocate existing plumbing equipment from an existing utility room to a new utility room; new cassette shelves in all X-ray rooms as well as two (2) new cassette bins, additional lead shielding; new lead shielded doors; reconditioning of some of the existing doors; new acoustical ceilings; feeding of new power wiring to the control rooms; installation of new outlets and receptacles, etc.

It is the present purpose of the Board of Trustees to cancel the contract now in effect, and, subject to your Honor's written approval and authorization to dispense with public advertising, and to enter into a contract with William Nelson Jacobs Associates, Inc., for architectural services in connection with the aforementioned project at an estimated construction cost of $65,000. The architect to be paid a fee equal to 13 percent of the actual cost of construction, in addition an estimated expenditure of $1,500 for supplementary services, but in no event shall the maximum liability of the city exceed in the aggregate, the sum of $9,950.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.
President.

REMOVAL OF RUBBISH AND GARBAGE.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On August 16, 1963, the City of Boston acting by the Board of Trustees in charge of its Hospital Department, entered into a contract with James A. Freaney, Inc., 1 West street, Hyde Park, Mass., providing for the removal and disposal of all rubbish and garbage at Boston City Hospital for the period beginning April 1, 1963, and ending March 31, 1964, at a monthly rate of $728. This service is effected through the installation of a self-packing disposal unit on the hospital premises by the contractor and includes the removal of the contents thereof by the contractor on a six-day a week basis.

The aforementioned contract extends to the city the privilege of renewing the contract upon the same terms and conditions and at the same monthly rate for the period beginning April 1, 1965, and ending March 31, 1966, and incidently, the contract contains a provision permitting the services to be renewed on the identical basis for the period beginning April 1, 1966, and ending March 31, 1967, should the city elect so to do.

The above-named contractor has carried out these rubbish and garbage disposal and removal services most satisfactorily and efficiently, and the trustees are most desirous of entering into a new contract for the ensuing twelve-month period.

Therefore, I respectfully request on behalf of the Board of Trustees, your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public advertising, and to enter into a new contract with James A. Freaney, Inc., for the aforementioned rubbish and garbage removal operations for the period beginning April 1, 1965, and ending March 31, 1966. As stated the services will be performed at exactly the same rate as hitherto, namely, $728 per month, resulting in a total contract expenditure for the entire period of not to exceed $8,736. Your Honor's attention is called to the fact that this firm, at this time, is the sole supplier in the metropolitan Boston area for a refuse compacting machine as produced by the Heil Company, and as a result, in the opinion of the Board of Trustees, nothing could be gained by public advertising for the subject services.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.
President.

REPLACING OF REFRIGERATOR.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request for and on behalf of the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department, your Honor's written authorization to dispense with a public solicitation for proposals in the municipality's official chronicle, the City Record, and to enter into a written agreement with John T. Yunits, doing business as Yunits Engineering Company, an engineering firm, with offices at 11 Technical Park Drive, Holbrook, Mass., for the preparation of plans and specifications for, and the supervision of the construction of, the proposed replacing of the existing Brine Refrigeration System within the Mallory Building to a Freon Gas Refrigeration System, at the Boston City Hospital, 818 Harrison avenue, Boston, Mass. The total estimated cost of construction is $60,000.

The engineer's preliminary basic fee taken from the "A" rate of the American Society of Civil Engineers of 1959 recommended schedule of minimum rates and based upon the estimated cost of construction of $60,000, shall be at ten percent (10%) of said estimated cost of construction. The engineer's final basic fee, however, shall be founded upon the actual total construction cost of the work and the fee percent applicable thereto as determined by the aforesaid designated A.S.C.E. schedule of fees which shall be set forth in the contract, provided nevertheless that in no event shall the maximum liability of the city under the terms of the proposed contract as of the date of its execution, including presently estimated expenditures of $3,000 for Supplementary Services by the Engineer, exceed, in the aggregate, the sum of $9,000.

It is the opinion of the Board that publicly inviting bids for these subject services would not be a prudent course to pursue since their nature is professional in character.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.
President.

BUS SERVICE.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your authorization to dispose with public advertising and to award a contract to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, a Massachusetts corporation, with offices at 216 Tremont street, Boston, Mass., providing for the furnishing of daily bus service from the rapid transit station at Fields Corner to Long Island Hospital, Boston, Mass., commencing with April 1, 1965, and ending March 31, 1966, at a cost not in excess of $44,000. The proposed contract will contain the same reasonable rates as they are currently charging the city for these services.

The aforementioned firm has operated on this bus service since its beginning in the summer of 1951 and has performed the work efficiently and satisfactorily.

On the basis of the foregoing and as this company holds the franchise over the route and since it proposed to continue its service under the existing terms and conditions, it is my opinion that public advertising for performance of the subject bus service would be of no avail.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.
President.

ORDINANCE CREATING A HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 1, 1965.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Minimum standards of fitness for places of human habitation adopted by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health became effective throughout the Commonwealth on October 1, 1960. Since then, Boston has spent much time and considerable money and effort in its endeavor to enforce compliance in all parts of the city; but it is a matter of great concern and distress to me that more has not been accomplished on this recognizably gigantic program.

After several months' study and much deliberation, I have come to the conclusion that a new department of housing inspection should be created to serve as a clearing-house for all complaints of violations, in or about places of human habitation, of all statutes, ordinances, rules and regulations designed to preserve health and safety in or about such places. To take appropriate advantage of the special interest and skill available in the Building and Fire Departments, the new department would refer the complaints involving violations of the Building Code and Fire Prevention Code to the Building Commissioner and the Fire Commissioner, respectively, but would maintain written contact with said commissioners with respect thereto. The new department itself would have full power and responsibility to inspect places of human habitation and enforce therein the standards of fitness set up by the State Sanitary Code and other statutes, ordinances, rules and regulations enacted to protect against accident or illness in or about places of human habitation.

An order passed by your Honorable Body on January 18 indicates that you have had similar thoughts on this subject; and so I trust that you will give early consideration to the ordinance submitted herewith, the adoption of which I hereby recommend.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-five.

An Ordinance Creating a Housing Inspection Department in the City of Boston and Defining its Powers and Duties.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Revised Ordinances of 1961 are hereby amended by inserting after chapter 16 the following chapter:

CHAPTER 16A.

HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT.

Section 1. There shall be in the city a department, known as the Housing Inspection Department, which shall be under the charge of a board, known as the Housing Inspection Board, consisting of an officer, known as the Commissioner of Housing Inspection, who shall be chairman of the board, another officer known as the Assistant Commissioner of Housing Inspection, and the building commissioner, ex officio. The commissioner of housing inspection and the assistant commissioner of housing inspection shall each be appointed by the mayor for a term expiring on the first Monday of the January following the next biennial municipal election at which a mayor is elected, and shall devote his whole time to the duties of his office. The commissioner of housing inspection shall exclusively have the powers, and perform the duties, of a department head with respect to the making of contracts and the appointment, suspension, discharge, compensation and indemnification of subordinates for the housing inspection department. In the event of the absence or disability of the commissioner of housing inspection or of vacancy in his office, the assistant commissioner of housing inspection shall act as chairman of the housing inspection board, and shall have the powers conferred, and perform the duties imposed, upon the commissioner.

There shall be in the housing inspection department an inspection division, a prosecution division, and such other divisions, if any, as the housing inspection board shall from time to time adjudge necessary for the proper conduct of the department. The inspection division shall be under the immediate charge of the commissioner of housing inspection; and the prosecution division shall be under the immediate charge of the assistant commissioner of housing inspection, subject to the general supervision of the commissioner.
